Responsibility & Opportunities

As I struggled to select a topic for this month's editorial, it became clear to me after NSR fieldstaff intern Corey Carpenter and I completed his exit interview, and I read his last blog post on the NSR website. If you have not read Corey's blog posts this summer, make an effort to do so. You will understand what an asset this young man has been to our industry.

Corey grew up in California – not the Mecca of the swine industry. But his grandfather raised Hampshire hogs, and Corey's interest in the industry was ignited by visits from their NSR field representative. He recalls his grandfather and then-fieldman Sam Howell talking about breeding better Hampshires. Fueled by the passion exhibited by both of these gentlemen, Corey jumped into the hog business.

His family took him to the local lending institution, and Corey says, after he signed his life away, he was in the hog business. Many of us know what Corey is referring to, and I thank his family for allowing him to gain this industry experience. Corey spoke of the trials and tribulations he experienced during this time.

When his alarm went off at 6 a.m., Corey would've like to stay in bed another hour before leaving for school, but instead he got out of bed and went out to care for his animals, just like his grandfather and father had done in the past. On Saturday morning, after competing in a football game, bruised and sore, Corey cleaned the barn, processed litters and prepared for the next week. He may have missed out on some fun activities with friends while working with his swine projects, but Corey loved this way of life so much, he decided to become more involved our industry by attending Modesto Junior College (MJC) and working at their swine unit.

Others recognized the potential this young man exhibited and rewarded him by electing him the president of the Young Farmers group at MJC. In 2011, he was elected to the NJSA Board of Directors. He'll serve as president of the board this coming year.

Corey told me that he was privileged and honored to serve as the NSR field staff intern this summer. He had the opportunity to visit breeders and boar studs that he had only read or heard about – everyday was another opportunity to see more people and hogs. This attitude made me appreciate what we get

I challenge everyone involved in our industry today to think about their responsibilities and reflect on what they mean and what opportunities they provide for you and your family.

Some of our greatest resources are established breeders who can provide us with the wisdom gained through their past experiences and the influx of young people with new ideas and extra enthusiasm. Many times, you hear judges reflect on how a breeder or person has influenced not only their career to do on a daily basis – and why we do it.

“We are all privileged to be involved in the greatest industry in the world. But along with these privileges comes responsibilities.”

If we analyze what Corey was trying to tell us, it becomes clear – we are all privileged to be involved in the greatest industry in the world. But along with these privileges comes responsibilities.

First, we all are responsible for the animals God provides for us. We must supply these animals with a good environment, water and feed at all times. We should maintain a good health program and utilize the professional services of a veterinarian when needed.

Second, let's think about our responsibilities as purebred livestock breeders. If we look at why our forefathers formed breed associations, their main purpose was to provide an opportunity for people to record the lineage and maintain the purity of their respective breeds. They worked together to improve their seedstock.

path, but their life choices. Then, an established breeder will tell you what a profound impact an enthusiastic young person has had on their operation and in helping them become excited about breeding better hogs.

With the inception of the NJSA, NSR has provided a venue for young people to become involved in our industry. Now, our challenge is to bridge the gap between NJSA members and the traditional NSR membership. Several different ideas have been discussed, and NSR continues to work on the development of this type of program. If you have any thoughts or ideas you would like to contribute, please contact me at 765.463.3594, ext. 107, or email me at mike@nationalswine.com. I look forward to hearing your thoughts.

NSR Director of Junior Activities

The Value of Failure

Growing up in the National Junior Swine Association, I dreamed of one day serving on the NJSA Junior Board of Directors. I idolized and looked up to the junior board and wanted nothing more than to be just like them and have the opportunity to impact youth and represent the swine industry one day, too. Finally, the day came when I was old enough to apply for a position. I put my application in the mail and attended the National Youth Leadership Conference, where I completed my interview and was ready to campaign my way onto the board. I could feel my spot at the tip of my fingers, and I was confident that I had done everything I could to accomplish my goal. Just as I was day dreaming about how I was about to have countless opportunities to impact youth and promote the swine industry, I was snapped back to reality – I hadn't made it.

I'm sure many of you can relate to my failure. Whether it be in the show ring, at a sporting event or in another competition, we have all felt the sting of failure at least a few times throughout our lives, as something we worked so hard for or wanted so badly was beyond our grasp.

Failure isn't fun. It takes a lot to get back up after you gave your all and still fell short. Likewise, having the confidence in yourself and the drive to continue striving for your goals, even after failing one or more times, isn't an easy task.

I have failed at quite a few things throughout my life, and in doing so, have learned that failure is one of the most valuable teaching tools imaginable.

The greatest misperception people have about failure is that it is all bad. Failure reveals weaknesses, helps make things stronger and offers lessons of humility.

It's easy to see people at the top of their game and assume the cards have always fallen well for them. They must have had a great idea, a lucky break or a golden handshake and rode the wave of success from there. However, there are several famous individuals who had very humble beginnings. They didn't cave in to or cover up their mistakes, but rather used them as a basis for learning and discovery.

You probably know Babe Ruth because of his home run record (714 during his career), but along with all those home runs came a pretty hefty amount of strikeouts as well (1,330 in all). In fact, for decades he held the record for strikeouts. When asked about this he simply said, “Every strike brings me closer to the next home run.”

Famous for being cut from his high school basketball team, Michael Jordan went on to become the greatest basketball player of all time. Never one to let failure deter him, Jordan attributes his success to the times he's come up short. “I have missed more than 9,000 shots in my career. I have lost almost 300 games. On 26 occasions, I have been entrusted to take the game winning shot, and I missed. I have failed over and over and over again in my life. And that is why I succeed,” he said.

There is no rule that says your first attempt (or second, or third...) has to be the one. The most successful people are usually the ones who have put in the blood, sweat and tears and, more often than not, failed the most, too. It's important to take risks, fail, admit your mistakes and start over again. Winston Churchill said, “Success is going failure to failure without losing enthusiasm.”

Although my heart was broken that

I couldn't call myself an NJSA Junior Board member, my passion for youth and the swine industry didn't waver, and I realized there would be countless other opportunities to impact youth and promote the swine industry. Although I had a major failure, I was confident in myself and my passion and kept working toward my goals. Sure enough, two summers later I walked into the National Swine Registry office as the NJSA summer intern and the next summer as the NSR director of junior activities, where I'm fortunate to work with youth and promote the swine industry on a daily basis.

Failure is inevitable. However, the next time you stumble across a road block on the path to one of your goals, remember to keep your head up and keep pressing on. After all, “It is hard to fail, but it is worse never to have tried to succeed.” – Theodore Roosevelt

Raised in a Barn

As the excitement of the summer show season winds down and everyone looks back at the past few months, many things will be remembered – the countless hours spent working with pigs to get them show ring ready, the long miles hauling to county fairs, national shows and jackpots across the country and, undoubtedly, the many around him in the ring, but all youth involved in the livestock industry.

“They were raised right ... They were raised in a hog barn, they were raised in a cattle barn, they were raised in a sheep barn. I don’t know any other place we can raise them like this.”

This is a sentiment you will hear expressed over and over by judges at must always act in a way that represents our industry well. And finally, a feature about Highways, Hangouts & Hog Shows gives you an inside look at some of our members and NJSA families as they talk about their favorite memories doing successes celebrated in the show ring.

“They were raised right ... They were raised in a hog barn, they were raised in a cattle barn, they were raised in a sheep barn. I don’t know any other place we can raise them like this.”

Throughout the course of the summer, I have been fortunate to not only attend shows as an employee of NSR, but also travel to many county and state fairs, and even to a few breeders’ homes and show barns. Every chance I get to be around pigs – and pig people – I take it. And through these opportunities, I am continually learning that the heartbeat of this industry is its people.

One show I regret not being able to attend was the Indiana State Fair 4-H Barrow Show in Indianapolis. It wasn’t long after the grand drive that word started spreading about a speech Judge Willie Kirkpatrick, Okla., made that moved not only the exhibitors, but their parents, friends and other onlookers in the barn. Kirkpatrick commended not only the outstanding showmen livestock shows – it’s not about the pigs, it’s about the people. It’s about the youth. It’s about raising kids in a culture that teaches values like work ethic, responsibility and sportsmanship. These are the things that make this industry tick.

In this issue of Seedstock EDGE, you will find three stories that, although very different, all tap into the heart of the showpig industry in some manner. A profile on Dr. Michael Tripp, Humble Handshake, doesn’t just talk about a breeder who has had a profound impact on the Yorkshire breed – it tells the story of a man who has made a difference in the lives of others through his work as a veterinarian and stockman. A story about ethics in the show ring serves as a reminder that junior livestock programs are one of agriculture’s most visible connections to the public, and we what they love – showing pigs. Enjoy these features. Have fun flipping through the show reports and ads to see how your fellow breeders did at their state fairs and other shows throughout the summer. Just as you put a lot of hard work and heart into show season, our team has put a lot of heart into crafting this year’s September Showpig issue of Seedstock EDGE for you, and we truly hope you enjoy it.

Summer Spectacular Hampshire Show Report Correction

In the August issue of Seedstock EDGE, there was an error in the Summer Spectacular Hampshire Show Report. The first-place Class 4 boar, entry 160-1, that sold to Kilmer Swine Farms for $4,500, was entered by Peters Hampshires & Showpigs of Columbus, Ind. The Seedstock EDGE staff apologizes for this error.

Darrell Anderson Inducted into the Indiana Livestock Breeder's Hall of Fame

Former NSR CEO Darrell Anderson was inducted into the Indiana Livestock Breeder's Hall of Fame during the Indiana State Fair 4-H Show Grand Drive on Aug. 7 in Indianapolis. Anderson was recognized for his accomplishments and years of service to the livestock industry. In his time with NSR, Anderson directed the merger of the Hampshire, Yorkshire, Landrace and Duroc breed associations into a cohesive registry. He also played an integral role in the development of the National Junior Swine Association (NJSA), which is now the nation's largest junior livestock organization with more than 12,000 members. The NSR staff would like to congratulate Darrell on receiving this honor!

Ohio Hampshire Breeders select two Fayette County Youth for new Youth Program

The Ohio Hampshire Swine Breeders Association has selected two Fayette County youth as leaders in a new youth program. Kayla Clyburn and Gus Mitchem, both students at Miami Trace High School in Washington Court House, Ohio, will serve as junior directors in the association. The state-wide breed association created the new youth leadership roles to engage more young purebred swine breeders in its membership. Each year at the Ohio State Fair, the association will select two young people to serve a one-year term. This is the first year of the program. The junior directors will provide leadership to other youth, plan activities for the members and serve as role models.

Clyburn and Mitchem were selected through an application and interview process. Clyburn is the daughter of Bryan and Sandy Clyburn of Bloomingburg, Ohio. Mitchem is the grandson of Steve and Nancy Mitchem of South Solon, Ohio.

The Ohio Hampshire Swine Breeders Association is a membership organization that promotes the Hampshire swine breed through membership activities, shows and sales. It is based in Prospect, Ohio.

JGR2 VAULT 35-8

(RWGO Net Worth 233-1 x CD08 Klondike 260-4)

We will be exhibiting at the NSR Fall Classic, and can deliver pigs to you there... give Jim a call.

At the time of this picture, Vault was 4 1/2 months old and taken out of a pen of 12 boars in a slatted barn. After pictures, he was returned to his pen. This is one of those boars that really has no faults. That's not a bad thing. At Indiana, I heard many comments about feet, pasterns and the ham/loin junction. Vault is excellent in all these areas. He is heavy boned and heavy muscled with a big hip. He also has a big, wide center rib with lots of depth. I guess you can tell I like this boar.

Call Jim to order Vault semen!

Humble Handshake

By Katie Maupin

Tripp Yorkshires started with a handshake. When then ten-year-old Dr. Michael Tripp reached out to accept that firm grasp of congratulations after his Yorkshire barrow made the premium sale in Oklahoma City, he unknowingly started a lifelong love affair with “The Mother Breed.”

To those who know Tripp, it's no surprise a simple handshake could have a profound impact on him. Tripp is a man that takes a handshake seriously. He's a man of his word, and he is always quick to help.

If you ask Mike Kirkpatrick, long-time Yorkshire breeder and friend, what sets Tripp apart, it's not the "MTY" sow herd or breed-changing boars that first come to mind.

"Honesty," Kirkpatrick says. "That man is just straight up honest. If you look up 'good guy' in the dictionary, and don't see Dr. Mike Tripp's picture, then you're in the wrong book."

blend his passion for swine and livestock people – and somewhat of a tradition for the Tripp family that now boasts four doctors of veterinary medicine.

Tripp's father was an Extension agent, so it didn't take him long to enroll in the swine project. By the time he was in the fifth grade, he purchased his first sow and was a regular assistant at his local veterinarian's office. So it just made sense for him to become an Oklahoma State University Cowboy, destined for vet school. Although, Tripp's break from the books was different than most of his peers. When he needed to unwind, Tripp could be found he makes those hogs better and more productive," he says. "I think that's probably the secret to that deal."

Kirkpatrick capitalized on this unique mix of genetics when he purchased the breed-changing Yorkshire boar Night Tripp as a baby. Night Tripp has sired numerous champions around the country. Even today, nearly a year after the boar's death, the last of his progeny are winning majors.

Kirkpatrick's son, Willie, suggested that Tripp breed a Grimm sow to New Beginning. This mating produced the Night Tripp boar that would, in turn, be used extensively in Grimm's program

"That man is just straight up honest. If you look up 'good guy' in the dictionary, and don't see Dr. Mike Tripp's picture, then you're in the wrong book."

– Mike Kirkpatrick

Dr. Mike Tripp dons the colors of his beloved Oklahoma State University Cowboys as he drives his grandson's, Hunter Stephens, NSR Fall Classic Yorkshire boar entry last fall in Duncan, Okla. This Night Tripp son stood second in his class before finding a new home in Texas.

Yorkshire breeder Jim Grimm agrees. "I've never known a man who would just drop anything he was doing to help someone else," Grimm says. "He is always thinking of other people besides himself – that's for sure."

Many people can recall a time when 'Doc Tripp' helped them treat a show barrow on the road or answered his phone at an odd hour to offer some advice.

"Anytime someone wants to call and talk, I'm more than willing to," Tripp says. "My wife can testify that I spend a lot of time on the phone," he adds with a hint of humor.

Blending Passions

Becoming a veterinarian was a natural career choice for a young man trying to helping farrow the 350 OSU sows.

"I have a passion for my career and a passion for swine, so they work together," he says.

Tripp has a knack for blending his favorite things. With his Ringling, Okla., home placed in the junction of the Midwest and southwest, it makes sense that he would blend the two pools of genetics in his operation. Tripp artfully melds that extra muscle and dimension of Southern show barrows with the added softness of Midwestern brood sows.

"He has a combination," Grimm says. "You have a man that is breeding hogs with a true passion for breeding hogs."

Kirkpatrick agrees that Tripp's secret to success is this combination.

"Mike has always tried to keep that Oklahoma show barrow in mind, while to produce countless champions and Day Tripper, which has had a lasting impact on the JGR herdmark.

Full Circle Philosophy

You see, Tripp likes everything to come full circle. Night Tripp came from a Grimm-bred gilt named "Nancy Jane," after Tripp's mother. She circled the country being shown by his nephew before the gilt was returned to Oklahoma to earn her keep as a foundation female – only to produce a boar that would impact the very herd that she came from.

This big picture philosophy helps Tripp produce pigs that can win in the ring, but also produce in the crate. His family's show gilts aren't just pretty faces. They're functional females, which after a time in quarantine, are brought back into the herd to help make Yorkshires better.

Tripp Your Trigger In 2009, the Tripp family was honored to have the NBS[®] Yorkshire Hog College[®] Boar. Their Night Tripp son would become the high-selling entry of the day. He sold to Top Cut Genetics of Farmland, Ind., for $15,000. Mike Kirkpatrick, family friend and Yorkshire breeder, says Dr. Tripp was incredibly honored to have his genetics on Hog College[®] Row.

Three generations of Tripps have driven these females and their progeny. They're passed from one generation to another.

"I grew up showing hogs and sheep," Tripp says. "And I just want the same for my family."

Some of his youngest daughter, Abbie's, fondest memories include the time she has spent with her dad in the barn.

"My dad and I have always been extremely close," Abbie says. "Being a vet, he was gone a lot when I was growing up. I learned very quickly that ... I just had to get in the truck and go. To this day, some of the best conversations I have ever had have been with my dad driving down the road in the middle of the night to a show."

Since his little red-headed girl is all grown up and recently married, Tripp is teaching his grandson, Hunter, the ropes – with the help of Aunt Abbie, of course.

"Right now, Hunter is working on the fundamentals, and it is such a blast," Abbie says. "Sometimes, it's hard to keep the little ones 'hooked,' as Dad and I like to say, but it is incredible what a little sponge he is. He loves being around his 'Papa.'"

Little Hunter is already seeing some success in the ring, winning second overall in the Sweepstakes contest at the Southwest Regional last year.

"As long as the grandson wants to show, his Papa will make sure he has one," Tripp says. "We just pass them down, and they all have names – Aunt Abbie got him started naming them."

Currently, most of Tripp's elite replacements are named after the cast of "Dora the Explorer", and that's just fine with Tripp. Names aren't nearly as important as their ability to breed on.

Tripp has learned a lot about raising good hogs by being a veterinarian.

"To raise better swine, you have to raise healthy swine," says Tripp. "Raising functionally sound hogs, with good genetics, will often take care of your problems. You don't have to worry about feet and legs or reproductive issues. That cuts a lot of your problems out, and sometimes, the fads we chase in the industry can cause some of those problems."

A Female Foundation

Although it is arguably his boars that Tripp is known for, such as Night Tripp, Power Tripp and his high-selling 2009 Hog College Boar, Tripp My Trigger, it's females that he focuses on.

"I'll always have functional females – the female, as far as I'm concerned, is the whole herd. As long as you keep the female sound and functional, you can play the show game with your boars," Tripp says.

If this philosophy sounds like something you heard from other great breeders before, it is. Tripp says he takes every chance he gets to pick the brains of industry greats.

"I've gathered a lot of wisdom just by sitting on a bale of hay and visiting with Mr. Grimm, Mr. Olsen or Mr. Rodibaugh," he says.

What he learns he passes on to his nephews, daughters and grandson.

"Our goal is to strive and continue to make our herd and the Yorkshire industry better with each pig we produce," Abbie says. "You can always have that 'great one,' but we strive for consistency across the board. When people leave our house, I don't want them to think, Well, there were a couple of interesting ones, I want them to think, Hey, that was a good set from top to bottom."

Tripp not only taught Abbie his way of thinking about breeding good hogs, but also how to conduct herself with character.

Lessons in Character

"One of the biggest lessons I learned from him is just because I don't always get the outcome I planned, doesn't mean that I've failed," Abbie says. "It is actually kind of nice to be humbled."

Being humble is something else Tripp taught Abbie. He used to tell her, "Don't ever think you are better than anyone else, but don't let anyone else think they're better than you. We all put our pants on the same way."

So, it's no surprise that instead of bringing up additional champions, contributions or success when asked if there was anything he wanted to add, Tripp simply said, "I'm blessed. I'm thankful for those that have helped me, and I hope that I can help others."

HELPING OTHERS

"THE MISSION OF BAPTIST HOME FOR GIRLS IS TO HELP YOUNG GIRLS BECOME GODLY, VIRTUOUS WOMEN THAT REFLECT CHRIST'S LOVE FOR OTHERS AND TO GIVE THEM HOPE FOR THE FUTURE BY PROVIDING A CHRISTIAN HOME AND SHARING CHRIST'S LOVE FOR THEM."

For the last two decades, Dr. Michael Tripp has helped the Baptist Home for Girls in Madill, Okla., find and care for their Therapeutic Animal projects.

The Girl's Home Therapeutic Animal program, run by Dennis Todd, is similar to a high school ag program. The girls are dropped off at the barn each evening after school, and they work with their project animals.

"It gives the girls an opportunity to do something they've never done before," Todd says. "Dr. Tripp takes care of the girls and their animals quite well, and if you take care of an animal, if you treat them with respect, they'll love you for who you are."

The unconditional love and opportunity to learn invaluable life skills like hard work, responsibility and compassion helps the girls learn and grow. And the sale of their projects even provides the girls with money to save for cars, clothes or college educations.

Todd teaches the girls the entire animal production process – from farrowing pigs, to showing and selling prospects and even reaping the rewards of a good pork chop. All livestock not kept for breeding is harvested and used to help feed the Baptist Children campuses around the state.

The Madill Girl's Home is like an extended family for Tripp, according to Todd.

"He started by giving me a pig, then donating all of his vet work and services and now he goes to Illinois and Iowa to get pigs for the girls to show," Todd says. "He's always in a talking mood when he is around the girls, no matter how busy he is."

The Tripp family recently joined a small group of volunteers as 'Honorary Children.' During the ceremony, the program founder thanked Tripp for coming out to play.

Cassidy, a 13-year-old resident of the home, appreciates all of Tripp's help.

"Dr. Tripp does help us out a lot, and he comes and tells us the medicine that we need to give our pigs and stuff," she says.

Tripp not only spends hours helping the home, but encourages others to do the same.

"I think he's talked about every breeder in our part of the country into donating hogs," says Mike Kirkpatrick, a fellow breeder and friend. "It's a testament to what kind of an unbelievably good guy he is. His accomplishments aren't as important to him as maybe the girls."

Todd is grateful for Tripp's help.

"Dr. Tripp gets all his friends together and gets whatever we need," he says. "But we still need help. Money, feed and livestock – everything is appreciated."

In a time when consumers scrutinize agriculture more than ever, livestock shows are often the most visible connection the public has to the livestock industry. Exhibitors who break the rules risk ruining not only their own reputation, but putting a black eye on one of American agriculture's most important traditions – junior livestock shows.

Dr. Jeff Goodwin remembers when it was an unspeakable topic. Then, something changed.

In 1993, allegations of misconduct at a prominent national show made headlines across the country. The following year saw challenges at state fairs across the country.

It was an abrupt wake-up call to a growing problem of unethical conduct at livestock shows – a problem that threatened to give the show ring a bad name, despite the fact that most exhibitors were doing things the right way.

“There were a lot of us that started talking,” Goodwin, Colorado’s 4-H program director, says. Those talks led to action.

Nearly twenty years after the “wake-up call,” progress has been made to ensure the integrity of youth livestock shows, but people like Goodwin urge continued vigilance. At stake is the welfare of animals, the safety of our food, public perception of our industry and the growth of our most important crop – youth.

Exploring Ethics

One of the greatest challenges in encouraging ethical behavior is helping youth, parents and others involved in youth livestock programs fully understand it.

Dr. Jodi Sterle, an endowed professor of animal science at Iowa State University, encourages young people to consider how someone they respect might perceive their actions – both in the ring and back in the show barn at home.

“I have parents and youth exhibitors ask themselves if they would be embarrassed or have to defend any practices if someone they respected questioned them about it,” she says. That includes their actions when they win or lose, she adds.

Ethics in the show ring involves multiple considerations. One, says Goodwin, is quality assurance. That’s an area, he says, the animal science community is fairly comfortable addressing.

But Goodwin says there’s a “whole other side” to the ethics question. To address this, Goodwin has developed what he calls the “ethical compass,” a set of four questions exhibitors and others can use to make decisions about ethical dilemmas (see page 37).

Grant Grebner, a nationally recognized judge and associate professor of agriculture at Illinois Central College, says he often draws a line in the shavings when judging to il-

“The ribbons are going to fade and the trophies are going to tarnish. We need to remember that it’s family time and teaching the life skills of responsibility, communication and good sportsmanship – that’s the real reason we do it.”

lustrate the idea of ethical conduct.

“We have this line. If we cross that line and do things unethically or immorally, we’ve no longer just damaged ourselves, but we’ve damaged our reputation as a person, as a breeder and as an industry,” he says. “That’s damage that we can’t always undo.”

Grebner reminds exhibitors and families to keep ethics in perspective.

“Yes, we’re all competitive and want to win. But the ribbons are going to fade and the trophies are going to tarnish,” he says. “We need to remember that it’s family time and teaching the life skills of responsibility, communication and good sportsmanship – that’s the real reason we do it.”

High Cost of Poor Conduct

While there are a host of potential negative consequences for exhibitors found to be in violation of rules, including loss of premiums, award forfeiture and even legal action, perhaps the most damaging effect of poor conduct is creating a negative public perception of agriculture.

“Anytime youth exhibitors and their animals enter the barn, they are representing the entire industry,” Sterle says. “I ask these exhibitors to be ‘YouTube ready.’ It only takes a moment to capture an action, especially out of context, and post it for the world to see.”

Sterle says the types of conduct that threaten the industry most are practices that compromise animal well-being or the end food product.

Jeff Thayne, livestock director of the San Antonio Stock Show & Rodeo, says loss of public support for livestock shows is one of the most obvious negative impacts that can result from poor ethical behavior at livestock shows.

“I think if we lose that support, we’ve lost our whole reason for being here – to develop youth,” Thayne says. “All of these things go hand in hand.”

Moving Forward, Staying Vigilant

Over the years, Goodwin and others say progress has been made. Many states have implemented educational programs to raise awareness of ethical issues in the show ring and on the farm.

An episode of misconduct in the mid-’90s spurred Goodwin to action. In 1994, he developed his first educational video, and numerous resources have followed, to address specie-specific concerns.

Goodwin’s third video, called “Line in the Sand,” teaches youth his ethical compass framework. And, he says, it works. In 1997, he surveyed nearly 1,000 exhibitors, parents, 4-H leaders and FFA advisors across five states. The study concluded that youth who had been through the training did significantly better on a test of ethical decision making than those who had not.

The National Pork Board’s Pork Qual-

In Texas, Quality Counts

Many exhibitors at county fairs and major shows in the state of Texas are required to complete Texas A&M AgriLife Extension's Quality Counts program.

Each year, 30,000 4-H and FFA youth in the Lone Star State receive Quality Counts training. The program, now in its sixth year, integrates quality assurance and character education into one educational program.

Left: Youth participate in the program under the direction of Texas A&M Extension agents. Similar programs have been developed by other state Extension programs throughout the country.

ity Assurance (PQA) Plus® program also addresses concerns surrounding proper care and management of livestock.

Sterle says PQA Plus training is a requirement for most shows across the country. Many states have even added ethics training to the mix.

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension developed a curriculum in partnership with Texas FFA called "Quality Counts" that all youth exhibiting at Texas majors must complete. The program focuses not only on quality assurance, but also on character building in the livestock arena.

Shows like the San Antonio Stock Show & Rodeo have been active partners in the process. Thayne says it's a part of a greater effort on their part to present information and reach out to exhibitors.

"It's kind of a constant communication with those exhibitors, shining light on everything they do that needs to be closely monitored," he says.

Thayne says the biggest improvement he has seen has is in the area of awareness.

"We've made some advancements," he says. "[Quality Counts] is a small piece of the puzzle, but we're bringing awareness to something more so than we were a few years ago."

Goodwin says especially strong progress has been made in the area of residue avoidance. When testing started, Goodwin says the livestock community was disappointed in the results. Today, that's an area where he says progress has been made.

Goodwin stresses that while rules and show policies play a role in ensuring good conduct, providing exhibitors and their families with guidelines for making choices is the focus of his training and videos.

A similar ethical framework serves as the foundation for the International Association of Fairs and Expos' (IAFE) National Show Ring Code of Ethics. Jim Tucker, IAFE's CEO, says the code, used by many shows, is designed to be general in nature and adaptable to a variety of situations.

"It's intended to do what fairs have been doing for a long time – mold the lives of young people," Tucker explains. He says a central tenet of the code is that exhibitors, parents and others involved in the livestock project must accept a responsibility to do the right thing.

Cooperation is another tool used by IAFE to help their members promote positive behavior at shows. Conventions and workshops allow shows to exchange best practices and learn about science that can help make enforcement of rules more objective.

At the local level, Goodwin says show officials should stand up and do things right, bearing in mind the gravity of bringing allegations to light.

"It can be a stressful thing for agents, fair boards and others to deal with," he says. "I just ask people to proceed with caution. We must have concrete evidence before bringing corrective action against an exhibitor."

A Way of Life

Sterle says that livestock shows offer a chance to be a part of something bigger – producing food for others – while providing opportunities for individual accomplishment, things she calls irreplaceable.

"I still believe that raising and showing livestock is the best way to raise our kids," she says. "The life lessons learned will serve them throughout their lives."

This fall and next spring, thousands of youth will gear up for another show season. They'll meticulously select the best project they can find. They'll spend time, some of it in the heat of summer, grooming, feeding and caring for their animals – all for the chance to bring them in front of a judge.

Along the way, those youth will likely learn their fair share of lessons. From responsibility to the value of hard work, the experiences in the show ring are some youth will carry on with them for a lifetime. It's this element of the show ring that Thayne says we must not overlook – or allow misconduct to overshadow.

"We're really just using livestock to train youth," he says. "The vast majority of families do things with the utmost integrity. There's so much good in it."

Pointing the Way

Dr. Jeff Goodwin has developed a series of videos designed to teach youth exhibitors, parents, 4-H leaders, agricultural education instructors and others about ethical decision making. In his widely used “Line in the Sand” video, he uses a tool he calls his “ethical compass” to provide guidelines for making decisions about what’s right and wrong in the show ring.

Below are the four questions that comprise Goodwin’s ethical compass:

1. DOES THE PRACTICE VIOLATE FDA LAW?

This is perhaps the most obvious of the four questions. Because the animals that youth raise could be someone’s next meal.

“The best estimate we have is that about one half of 1 percent of all food animals go through a county fair,” Goodwin says. “That’s large enough to create a food safety risk and small enough for commercial agriculture to disown us.”

2. IS THE PRACTICE FRAUDULENT?

This is a broad category that Goodwin explains includes any practice that is intended to misrepresent the animal to a judge.

“Examples of fraudulent misrepresentation might include changing the color pattern of an animal, force feeding water to make weight or giving an anti-inflammatory to make it walk better,” Goodwin explains.

3. DOES THE PRACTICE COMPROMISE THE WELFARE OF THE ANIMAL?

Consumer scrutiny of agriculture and food production has never been higher than it is today. For a growing portion of the population, youth exhibitors may be the only connection that the public has with the swine industry. This new reality of the swine industry means that animal care is of great importance at livestock shows.

Goodwin recalls an instance of an exhibitor that force fed water to a hog and drowned the animal, drawing the attention of a fair attendee who later wrote a letter to national columnist Ann Landers.

“The public won’t stand for mistreatment of show animals,” Goodwin says.

4. IS THE PRACTICE IN OPPOSITION TO REAL-WORLD AGRICULTURE?

While Goodwin acknowledges that some things about the show ring will always be different from commercial agriculture, he says it’s important to consider what youth are learning from a standpoint of producing a product for the consumer.

“We need to kind of parallel that and not run in an opposite relationship with agriculture.”

Goodwin says, noting that if the answer to this question is yes, we must consider the way we are running youth livestock shows.

Each year, NJSA families and NSR breeders spend countless hours on the road traveling to shows across the country. All those miles hauling trailers, nights spent in hotels and meals on-the-go are bound to lead to one thing – unforgettable memories. Travel along with some of our junior and senior members as they reminisce about their favorite highways, hangouts and hog shows.

GOOD EATS

The Landry family of Jeanerette, La., loves to eat at The Original Impellizzeri's Pizza in Louisville – "We always go eat there at least once, if not more, while we're there," Allison says. But on a typical show day, you won't find the Landrys getting their grub at a nearby diner – instead, you'll find them right outside the barn cooking up a little Cajun fare for fellow exhibitors. "Jared loves to cook and loves to entertain people. So whether its gumbo or jambalaya, we're always cooking at the shows." That also means packing more than show sticks and spray bottles. "We basically take a moving kitchen – for Expo this year we had a whole separate cargo trailer just for the cooking stuff."

The Fugate family, Mahomet, Ill., also enjoys Impellizzeri's in Louisville, but their show-time favorite is In-N-Out Burgers in California. Eric says they have discovered their favorite places to eat by talking to other breeders – "It's really word of mouth," he says.

When the Tucker family, Fitzgerald, Ga., goes out to eat at a show, they like to take other people along – "Sometimes it's another family from Georgia that doesn't live near us ... other times it's families from Indiana, Kansas or Oklahoma – whoever we might be hanging around at the time, we'll just ask them if they want to go with us," Harry says.

"At the Southwest Regional in Chickasha, Okla., I love to eat at Roy's BBQ ... It's a little hole in the wall right there in the middle of town on the wrong side of the tracks. If you drive by it on the outside, you wouldn't want to go inside and eat – but it's really, really good." – Mickey Bellamy, Ft. Cobb, Okla.

"When we're at World Pork Expo and want to eat steak, we always go to the Big Steer just east of town. If you like to venture a little further, in the northwest corner of town there's the Machine Shed, and that's always a phenomenal place to eat, too." – Randy Shipley, Newark, Ohio

SHAVINGS & STENCH

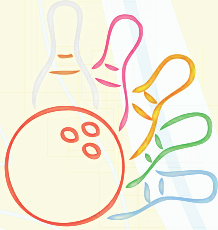

We are all guilty of it - walking into a restaurant, quick stop or hotel at the end of the day with remnants of the barn still on our shoes. And, more often than not, funny looks have followed.

"You know you're in the right place when you walk into a hotel and there's a trail of shavings to the elevator, and then from the elevator to your room. And it's pretty funny when you get in the elevator with folks who aren't participating in the show, and they can't quite figure out what that odd odor is." – Eric Fugate

"I was actually asked to leave a restaurant at Southwest Type Conference back when it was in Wichita Falls. They said there were too many complaints about the smell, so we had to leave." – James Backman, Denair, Calif.

"I experience it every day when I walk into the Flying J with hog boots on. You always feel a little bad when you walk in a place like that. Once in a while, when people look at your feet and then look at you – you know exactly what they're thinking." – Mike McCoy, Bloomingburg, Ohio

OUTSIDE ATTRACTIONS

While there may not be an abundance of “downtime” during a show, and pitstops are difficult when you’re hauling a 20-foot trailer filled with showpigs, there are some outside attractions families can enjoy to turn a show into a “mini vacation.”

In Louisville, the Landry and Fugate families have both enjoyed attending horse races at the infamous Churchill Downs in years past. There is also the Louisville Slugger Museum and Factory, where you can view the world’s biggest bat and learn about more than 125 years of bat making.

The Tuckers also found a gem just south of Louisville – Kart Kountry. “It’s a mile-and-a-half long Go-Kart track, and it’s something else,” Harry says. “Drew loves it, my wife loves it, I love it – and we usually get kids from other areas that haven’t been there before, and they always have a blast. That’s a guaranteed trip every time we’re around Louisville.”

Maddie Fugate says she has also always enjoyed stopping at Hersheyville in Pennsylvania. “It’s pretty much like a giant convenience store that sells a bunch of candy.”

“Any time we’re traveling I-80 to the Midwest, we have to stop at Cabela’s. And you’ve got to stop at Flying J – there’s nothing better than the Flying J buffet in the morning.” – Backman

ENERGY BOOST

There’s no question that by day three or four at a show, or after several hundred miles on the road, all of us need a little extra kick in our step. What is your go-to for that much-needed energy boost?

“Sugar-free Red Bull is probably my favorite. I start with a Red Bull and follow it up with an iced tea.” – McCoy

“I drink pink Rock Star when I’m making a long trip. I have no idea what it is inside, but the can is pink. I drink that and 5-Hour Energy.” – Backman

“Jason always used to drink that stuff in the little black bottle – those 5-Hour Energy drinks. There always used to be some of those in the truck. So sometimes when I’d be out delivering pigs and get sleepy, I’d take some of that.” – Shiple

★ STAR OF THE SHOW

When it comes to their favorite shows, the Landry girls have differing opinions. Hallie says her favorite is World Pork Expo in Des Moines, while her little sister prefers Summer Spectacular. "I like Louisville because there are so many things to do besides the show. We do the speech contest, the judging contest and skillathon – basically anything we can do," says Keri. But even though they don't agree on a favorite, the girls both say the best part of going to a pig show is getting out of school.

Harry Tucker says that Summer Spectacular is also a favorite for his family. "That's a good trip for our family. We're showing hogs because we enjoy it, but we really treat it like a vacation – it's just a blast."

Maddie Fugate's favorite show isn't one of the nationals, but rather the Western Regional in California – "I like the atmosphere. It's fun having the Barnyard Olympics and live auction," she says.

"One of the neatest experiences for me is the National Barrow Show®. I've been an official at the contest there for probably 11 or 12 years now and there's a local Applebee's where you can visit with all the breeders and judging coaches after the contest ... That's always one of the highlights of the year for me." – McCoy

"Duncan is far-and-away my favorite of all the NSR events. And not because it's close to home ... There is something happening all the time at Duncan. It's so fast paced – you will never get bored. It starts at the crack of dawn and ends long after dark just about every day." – Bellamy

MISADVENTURES

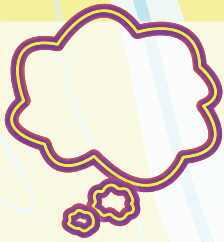

"One of my worst experiences was when I judged the Delaware State Fair – I would have been right out of college. I flew into Baltimore, Md., and was supposed to get a rental car, but at the time I wasn't old enough – you had to be 25. So I had to take a cab and the driver got lost – it ended up being a $250 cab ride. And then, after judging that day, I ate crab cakes at the fairgrounds at one of the vendors and got food poisoning that night. I was curled up in a ball all the next day before the grand drive. That was a mess of trip right there." – McCoy

"One year when we were going to Tulsa, I think it was actually October of '97 – the year Megan had Grand Champion Barrow. We were driving down the interstate when, all of a sudden, the right rear tire on our trailer came bouncing past us on the interstate. It went through the ditch, up the embankment and jumped the fence into a guy's yard. So we had to unhook the trailer, go to the next exit and get what we needed to fix it – all the while, unbeknownst to us, the Grand Champion Barrow at Tulsa sat in the trailer in 90 degree weather for about 2½ or 3 hours. That was an adventure!" – Bellamy

"One time, Wes Barone and I were traveling to Summer Type Conference, and we got this bright idea that on the way to Louisville, we would stop by Rory Duelm's – which is obviously not on the way. Well, about 40 hours into this trip we'd already gone to Rory's, and were trying to keep going without stopping. We were so tired that we could only drive in hour shifts – we couldn't drive a full tank of fuel where we would just switch each time we stopped to fill up. Well, it was my shift, and I was too tired to drive – so when Wes fell asleep, I turned the clock ahead an hour, woke him up and told him his time was up. So he had only been asleep for five minutes before he started driving again. That's one of my favorite things I've ever done, as far as playing tricks on someone you're on the road with." – Backman

MAKIN' MEMORIES

At the end of the day, most everyone you talk to in the showpig business will tell you that what they do really comes down to one thing - the people.

Allison Landry, who swore at one time her kids would never show pigs, says that now they wouldn't be doing anything else. "I love watching how much the girls enjoy showing and what the NJSA does for them."

"We like to hang around with all of our friends at the shows. It's fun getting to meet new people from so many different states." - The Landry Girls

Drew Tucker echos the Hallie and Keri, with his dad adding, "For us it's about family - about spending time together."

"Truthfully, the best part about going to the shows is running into some of the people you only get to see every so often ... At most shows, we just visit with everybody at the fairgrounds. You don't get to see those people very often, and when you do you try to make the most of it." - McCoy

"My favorite thing about the pig shows is just getting to go see everybody - just sitting around visiting with people." - Bellamy

"I really enjoy the people ... and I really enjoy talking hogs. My goal is to die in a pen of hogs. Some people want to go to Florida - I just want to be with hogs. I hope when that happens I've just come home from Key West, but you know." - Shipley

favorites from the field

Eastern NSR Fieldman Ralph Doak

"An interesting stop that I dearly love is Watson's Market for lunch when I visit George and Eric Watson's in Hillsborough, Ky. Just about a mile from their house, George's uncle has a little country market that will make you a ham and cheese sandwich while you're standing there watching. There's always some good conversation at that little market. It's no frills, nothing fancy - but it's awfully good."

"Just about a quarter mile there from the southeast corner of the fairgrounds in Richmond, Ind., is a donut shop that is advertised as 'the home of the square donut' - they have the absolute best donuts in the world. This has been verified by several people that work for that National Swine Registry."

Northwest NSR Fieldman Michael Lackey

"There are some traditional things I do at certain fairs - at the Wisconsin State Fair I always have a cream puff, at Minnesota I love the cheese curds, and milkshakes are a must at the Illinois State Fair."

"When the Eastern Regional was in Harrisburg, Ralph always wanted to eat at this hole-in-the-wall steak house that didn't take credit cards - cash only. It was called the Glass Lounge."

Southwest NSR Fieldman Brian Anderson

"I would say the National Barrow Show is my favorite. It is a little smaller and more laid back. And that's the sign that fall is here - when the National Barrow Show comes around ... It's kind of breeders' last chance to get away and see old friends before everything gets hectic and crazy in the fall and spring."

3. DO YOUR HOMEWORK

Know the history of the farm you're buying from. What type of pig is the farm known for breeding? If it's a farm you have never fed a prospect from, you might try and talk to someone who has fed their genetics before.

2. WORK ON YOUR RELATIONSHIP

If you're new to the show ring, establish a relationship with someone who can help. Whether it's with an Extension agent, someone in the industry, an NSR Fieldman or the breeder, make sure that person understands your specific needs so he or she can help you make the best investment.

1. TIME IT RIGHT

There is a fine line between being the first one in the barn and giving the pigs enough time to show their potential. A lot of good showpigs are overlooked because they weren't "bloomy" enough the first day the barn was open.

3. TALK TO THE SELLER

Make sure to contact the seller and/or sales consultant to get their opinion on the pigs. It is also helpful to learn about the parentage of the pigs you are interested in, and study the sow family.

2. CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY

Always have a game plan to get your pig(s) home – talk to the seller about how delivery will take place. You don't want to buy a pig online and then have no way to get it to your farm.

1. CHECK CLASSIFICATIONS

If you are buying a pedigreed pig, make sure it meets all classification specifications (color requirements, correct underline, etc.). You don't want to be removed from a show because of an off-belt or short-underline that you were unaware of.

LIVE AUCTIONS

3. THE EARLY BIRD GETS THE WINNER

Get to the sale early. Take time to look at the hogs before the crowd gets there and the pigs get tired. It's hard to evaluate pigs once they are worn down from walking in and out of their pens.

2. STAND BY YOUR FIRST PICKS

When you choose a pig to buy before the sale, be confident in that decision once the pig hits the sale ring. Don't let other bidders influence your opinion – what works for some feeders might not work for you. Select the pig that is best suited for you.

1. DON'T TAKE SALE ORDER TOO SERIOUSLY

Don't be intimidated by the sale order – bid on the pigs you think will work for you, regardless of where they fall in the lineup.

ALWAYS

3. SET YOUR TOP DOLLAR

Establish a value on the pig(s) you want to buy and stick with your instinct – don't let the heat of the auction or sale tempt you to spend more than you would have off the farm.

2. KNOW YOUR TYPE

Know your own strengths and weaknesses regarding what type of hogs feed well in your program. If you're someone who likes to push a barrow into the show, don't buy a heavy prospect. If you can feed muscle on at the end, you might want them a little greener when you start out.

1. ASK ABOUT IT

Don't be afraid to ask the breeder questions. For example: Has this pig been sick? How do pigs out of this sow typically feed? The breeders you are buying from want to help you be successful in the ring with the pigs they have bred.

Sometimes, it seems like only a few years ago when I was in 4-H, FFA and going to auction school. I'm sure not bragging, however, I do feel very fortunate and humbled to have served the purebred industry as an auctioneer, and several times along the way, as an association fieldman and magazine employee. There is no question in my mind the impact 4-H and FFA had on my life. Of course, attending the Reppert School of Auctioneering in 1962 laid the foundation for my auctioneering career. Back then, I never dreamed I would auctioneer in 28 states.

Times are always changing, and I learned early in life to be ready to embrace change. It may not always be the change you had planned on. Today, there are not as many hog sales for me to sell, so instead of selling a lot of commercial boars and gilts in on-farm production sales like in the past, I keep busy selling other kinds of auctions, along with the pig sales and National Conference sales.

The most dynamic change, however, has been the showpig impact on the purebred industry. It has been a joy to be a part of this change, too. Maybe it is some of my 4-H and FFA memories being relived. Anyhow, I am proud to support our junior associations.

The joy of auctioneering is as strong as ever, and I am thankful for your continued support.

NSR Fall classic Nov. 14-17

2012 Weanling Pig Rules & Regulations

ATTENTION: All breeds of weanling pigs for the 2012 Fall Classic must be entered through the NSR office.

General Information

Entry fees for all entries must accompany the respective entry form and all late entries will be charged double the regular entry fees. All entry fees are non-refundable. The NSR reserves the right to close entries because of pen space limitations any time after the printed deadline.

All entries must be postmarked by Oct. 12, 2012. All entries must be recorded by Nov. 4, 2012. After that date, exhibitors will be charged a rush fee for their registration papers.

All hogs must arrive on the grounds between 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 14, and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 15.

All weanling pig entries must be checked in by 11 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 15. All pigs selected for the respective sales (female and male) must be offered for sale.

All exhibitors must be active members of their respective breed association(s) or must pay the $75 Fall Classic participation fee. An active member must have recorded at least one litter in the 2012 fiscal year.

If an exhibitor has an NSR account that is past due, funds from the sale of their animals will be applied to their past-due account.

Only exhibitors who have consigned animals to the Fall Classic will be allowed to bring additional animals onto the Stephens County Expo and Fair, 2002 South 13th Street, Duncan, OK, 73533. However, these additional animals must abide by the same health requirements imposed on the Fall Classic entries.

REMINDER: All exhibitors transporting additional animals will be required to obtain an official "Sales Permit" from the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture staff when entering the Stephens County Expo and Fair, 2002 South 13th Street, Duncan, OK, 73533.

Before leaving the Stephens County Expo and Fair, 2002 South 13th Street, Duncan, OK, 73533, this permit must be returned to agents of the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture, with a detailed buyers list documenting the destination of each animal (including pre-purchased deliveries, parking lot sales and sifted weanling pigs).

- Your driver's license number must be included on your health papers.
- A premises ID number will be required to exhibit.

Health Regulations

All animals (breeding stock and weanling pigs) entering the Stephens County Fairgrounds must meet these health regulations:

1. Breeding stock and weanling pigs must be entered on separate health certificates.
2. Each animal must be accompanied by TWO COPIES of an official interstate health certificate issued by a licensed, accredited veterinarian. Certificate must show name and address of consignor; consigned to Fall Classic, Stephens County Expo and Fair, 2002 South 13th Street, Duncan, OK, 73533; individual identification of the animal; and health status of animal including the dates of required tests and vaccinations. Crossbred animals must be identified by a federally recognized numbered ear tag.
3. All certificates must be issued on or after Oct. 19, 2012, with the following information:
 - A. All hogs must be tested for pseudorabies (PRV) and brucellosis after Oct. 19, 2012, unless they come from a PRV-qualified and brucellosis-validated herd. Swine tested for PRV and brucellosis must show the date blood sample was drawn (month, day and year). Either the Elisa, PCFIA, ALA or S/N tests are acceptable. Differentiable Elisa test will not be accepted. If the herd of origin is PRV qualified and brucellosis validated, individual testing of the swine will not be required. In this case, the PRV qualification and brucellosis validation numbers must appear on the health certificate and complete quarterly herd test date (month, day and year) must be stated on certificate.
 - B. All animals must be vaccinated for 6-way Lepto (brastislava included) on or after Oct. 19, 2012, with vaccination date listed on health certificate.
 - C. All out-of-state entries must have a permit number. The accredited veterinarian may obtain permit number by calling the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture at 405.522.6141.
 - D. All pigs must be vaccinated for mycoplasma, circovirus & influenza. Two injections given at least two weeks apart is preferred. These products are available commercially from several vaccine companies. This is sale requirement.
4. Certificates are not required to be stamped by the state of origin.
5. These rules are the same for breeding stock and weanling pigs.
6. In some instances, these rules are in addition to Oklahoma regulations, but are necessary to sell animals into some states.

The Stephens County Fair & Expo Center will coordinate the Claud Gill Arena to provide trailer parking and housing of all swine that are not entered in the Fall Classic shows and sales. A $50 fee per vehicle, will be charged for all vehicles with swine that are housed at the Claud Gill Arena.

2012 Rules & Regulations

The Stephens County Fair & Expo Center will coordinate the Claud Gill Arena to provide trailer parking and housing of all swine that are not entered in the Fall Classic shows and sales. A $50 fee per vehicle, will be charged for all vehicles with swine that are housed at the Claud Gill Arena.

General Information

Entry fees must accompany the entry form. All late entries will be charged double the regular entry fees. Entry fees are non-refundable. The NSR reserves the right to close entries after the printed deadline. Entries must be postmarked by Oct. 12, 2012.

All hogs entered at the Fall Classic must have been owned by Sept. 18, 2012, by the exhibitor.

All hogs must arrive on the grounds between 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 14, and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 15.

CROSSBRED BOARS: Stress status of your entry will be placed in the show and sale catalog (this is a show and sale requirement). A documented stress test must be presented at check in.

All entries must be ear notched using the official NSR system (starting with litter number 1 in January and again in July each year). All entries must be recorded by Nov. 2, 2012, or they will be charged a rush fee.

Entries will be divided into classes as equal as possible by farrowing date.

Exhibitors & Eligibility

Exhibitors must be an active member of the NSR, or they will be required to pay the $75 NSR maintenance fee.

Entries are limited to four boars and four open gilts per breed (Duroc, Hampshire, Yorkshire) per exhibitor. All entries must be farrowed on or after April 1, 2012, and must have at least six teats on each side.

Each hog must be accompanied by a registration certificate and meet their respective breed requirements. Entries that do not meet these requirements will not be allowed to show or sell at the Fall Classic.

Breeding Animal Sale

A minimum of 60 percent of the number of each sex (boars and gilts) shown will be selected for the sale. These animals will be selected with no set number selling from any single class. Animals not selected for the sale can be consigned to the sale for an additional fee of $20 per head. If the animal sells, the fee will be applied toward the sale commission. If the animal does not sell, the fee is forfeited.

All animals selected and cataloged for the sale must go through the auction. Sale commission will be 15 percent for all animals. If an animal that is selected and cataloged for the sale does not go through the sale ring, the exhibitor will be banned from exhibiting at NSR events for one year and will be charged 15% of the average selling price of their respective breed sale. This amount must be paid before reinstatement will be allowed. The exception to this rule will be if the animal has become injured or ill and the animal is inspected by a NSR staff member prior to the sale.

The NSR acts only as the agent between the buyer and seller. If proper payment is made by the buyer in a timely manner, the NSR will make settlement with the seller in approximately 30 days after the sale.

If an exhibitor has an account that is past due, funds from the sale of their animals will be applied to their NSR account.

Special Breed Requirements

HAMPSHIRE & YORKSHIRE EXHIBITORS

By entering any hog in the Fall Classic, the owner warrants that the hog meets specific breed requirements.

Such warranty is, however, solely that of the seller and not that of the HSR and AYC, and the HSR and AYC assumes no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.

If any animal sold at the Fall Classic is found to be a carrier of the color gene after being tested through the procedures approved by the HSR and AYC, the seller agrees that he will promptly refund the full purchase price to the buyer.

There will be no refund of NSR commission from animals that are carriers of the color gene.

DNA Stress Statement

No known stress positive or stress-carrier Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace or Yorkshire animals will be allowed to be exhibited or sold at any NSR-sponsored event.

Such warranty is, however, solely that of the seller and not that of the American Landrace Association, American Yorkshire Club, Hampshire Swine Registry or United Duroc Swine Registry.

The American Landrace Association, American Yorkshire Club, Hampshire Swine Registry and United Duroc Swine Registry assume no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.

If any animal sold at this conference is found to be a carrier of the stress gene, the purchaser has the right to receive full refund of the purchase price from the seller.

DNA testing for the stress gene must be done within 60 days of the sale date and all costs associated with the testing for the stress gene must be paid by the purchaser. The seller has the right to review the test results and the right to re-test the animal at a laboratory of his choice.

Cost associated with re-test by the seller is at the seller's expense. There will be no refund of NSR commission from stress-carrier animals.

©2012 National Pork Board, Des Moines, IA USA. This message funded by America's Pork Producers and the Pork Checkoff.

The following essays are written by the 2011 winners of The Maschhoffs, Inc., Pork Production Scholarships – Hallie Frobose of Stillwater, Okla., and Austin Langemeier of Marion, Texas – detailing their one-week internship experience at The Maschhoffs headquarters in Carlyle, Ill. In addition to the internship opportunity, Frobose received a $1,500 scholarship and Langemeier received a $1,000 scholarship. The Maschhoffs scholarships are available on an annual basis; deadlines and application information are available on www.nationalswine.com.

Keeping your core values

By Hallie Frobose, Stillwater, Okla.

After a long semester of agriculture classes and on my way home for Christmas, I had the opportunity to complete my internship with The Maschhoffs LLC in Carlyle, Ill. In my three days with The Maschhoffs, I not only had the opportunity to better understand the company and its core values, but more importantly, I walked away with a boost of confidence and pride for being a modern pork producer.

The Maschhoffs are so much more than just one of the leading pork producers in the country – they are a family company that instills wholesome values in whoever is involved with pork production and consumption. Personally, I feel that the keys to The Maschhoffs' success are their core values; I believe any company that can provide this kind of mentality to their employees is destined for success.

1. Our most important assets are our employees and Production Partners. We respect each individual, and are committed to training, communicating, and empowering them for success.
2. We believe in the family farm and are committed to hard work, ensuring the well-being of our animals, and stewardship of environmental resources.
3. We are dedicated to innovation and continued progress. Therefore, we will invest in production technology, use sound information for decisions, and boldly face the challenges we encounter.
4. We value our relationship with our customers and are committed to providing a product that exceeds their expectations.

The Maschhoffs have prided themselves in doing the right thing for years. They do this on an everyday basis by taking a genuine interest in their employees and production partners and making sure that, whether you are producing hogs in Oklahoma or Iowa, they are all being raised to the same standards. Ken and Dave Maschhoff understand the importance of their employees and production partners and take the initiative to genuinely get to know each one of them. The company, as a whole, understands that “tender love and care” really does make a difference in pork production. Therefore, they go above and beyond to ensure that their animals are being raised with the care and respect any animal deserves. Additionally, The Maschhoffs extensively focus on environmental stewardship. Many people don't realize how much care and respect livestock and crop producers put into making sure rivers, streams and the land are protected from any unnecessary chemicals and wastes. The Maschhoffs take this care to a new level by extensive monitoring of manure application and storage, just for starters.

Something that also significantly impressed me was The Maschhoffs' research division. They are on the forefront of research to improve production methods, genetics and diets to maximize their own resources and utilities, while improving and enhancing the growth and performance of their animals. Their research is conducted for their own use first, so unlike other research companies, more care is put into the research process, and they can direct their research projects to what can work best for their systems. The Maschhoffs go to great lengths to make sure research is conducted with little to no bias. Like any smart company, The Maschhoffs are constantly preparing for change due to the next issue or regulation that may impact their style of production, and their research division is vital to this ability.

I especially value The Maschhoffs understanding of current policy issues and their involvement in protecting modern pork production. Not only is Julie Maschhoff active and vocal about their company, but she understands how important it is for our industry to stick together and present a united front. Their dedication to bringing youth into our industry is also extensive, by providing not only numerous scholarships, but also an internship program that compares to those of Fortune 500 companies. The Maschhoffs understand how important community and youth involvement is and its value to the future of their company, and they have gone to great lengths to ensure it by their involvement in community events, and even in the NJSA.

One of the biggest things that I took away from my time with The Maschhoffs is how important it is to hold these core values close to your heart no matter what you're involved with, and that livestock production is about doing “the right thing” in everything you do. Each day, I was learning about the company. I felt such a sense of pride to be involved in livestock production that I left feeling extremely excited to get home and make a pork dinner for my family. The Maschhoffs are setting the bar in terms of any form of agricultural production and are incredibly unique by keeping wholesome family values in everyday modern livestock production. I would highly recommend any student interested in pork production apply for an internship or scholarship with The Maschhoffs, and ensure them that this in an experience and company unlike any other.

Feeding the world

By Austin Langemeier, Marion, Texas

By the year 2050, the world population will have doubled and the amount of food required to feed the world will also have to double within that time frame. My visit to The Maschhoffs headquarters helped me learn more about this issue and realize The Maschhoffs are taking a stand to make a difference in the future.

My visit allowed me to talk with numerous employees within the company and get a better understanding of how the company is run, with a focus on family farm values. The company is very large, yet with their production partners that are located in Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois, the company is set on a small scale basis. This unique situation puts responsibility into their production partner's hands, yet is overseen by the company, allowing The Maschhoffs to be successful and help family farms across the Midwest. Speaking with each department of the company was impressive, because every employee had the same mindset of being efficient and effective, yet keeping the company in the family farm setting.

Each production partner is responsible for the daily feeding and care of the hogs, while The Maschhoffs supply feed and everything the pigs need to get from wean to finish. This allows these crop farmers to have an alternative income and use the manure for fertilizer, creating a win-win situation. I was truly impressed that with more than 400 production partners that produce 4 million head of hogs for consumption each year, the company sticks to their core values of production. The company has their own research facilities that work on new technologies concerning environment and feeding techniques.

Their new and improved approach on raising hogs in a commercial setting will only benefit the industry in efficient production and create a positive image for the producer with consumers. My visit in December was a great opportunity to see how the company operates on a daily basis. Each division is solely focused on their objectives, and because of that the company runs smoothly.

In conclusion, I have grown up showing and raising hogs for the show circuit. The knowledge of many exhibitors, including myself, is solely based on the showpig industry, and not nearly enough on today's economic situation and how commercial swine operations are dealing with a much bigger issue at hand – feeding the world. My opportunity to visit The Maschhoffs has taught me so much about what goes on in the commercial world and how important it is to be an advocate for agriculture in educating youth of the problem at hand and motivating others take part in the swine industry to feed the world's population someday.

PORTERHOUSE

CHAMPION CROSSBRED BOAR, 2012 MISSOURI STATE FAIR

Bred by Doug Porter. Porterhouse is a tall-fronted, wide-based, heavy-muscled boar with bone that is second to none! We were unable to attend the show, but we bought him based on the positive comments by Brian Anderson and Kade Hummel. He is out of I'm In and one of Doug's best sows. I'm sure he will generate champions in the future!

GUSTO

AUGUSTA X PACKAGE

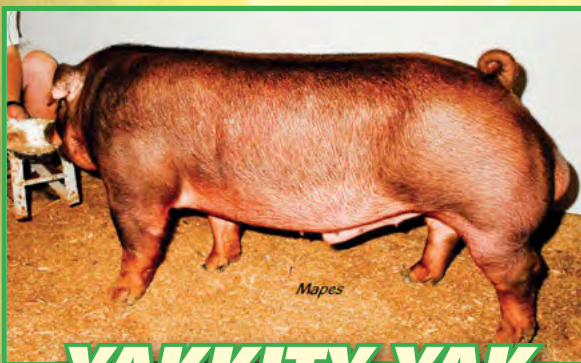

Here's the Hampshire boar we've been looking for! Heavy boned and wide based with correct frame size, and his pedigree is stacked with champions! Thanks to the Keppy family for bringing such a powerhouse to support the Iowa State Fair! He will be heard from next spring!

X-BOX

FUNNYBONE X INTIMIDATOR

Purchased from the Triple B online sale. When we talked to Brian Anderson and Randall Buck this spring, they were excited about this young boar prospect. Now we are excited to start using him! He has turned out just as we had hoped. We expect big things from this guy! Order early!

YAKKITY YAK

YAK II X DYNAMITE

Bred by DCM. A popular boar with a popular pedigree. This guy is tall fronted, heavy boned and athletic. He balances well from end to end. He will make it easy to sell babies next spring!

BLUE CHIP
Hillbilly Bone x Showcase
Bred by Kirk Swanson, IA
Semen $100/dose

OAK VALLEY
INTRODUCES

“Many play the game; few have the ability to dominate it.”

Full sibling to Big Motor at 4K Farms and Honky Tonk at Real McCoy Genetics

A big thank you to Kirk Swanson for allowing this off the farm purchase of a great Hillbilly Bone son.

We believe we have found the Hillbilly Bone son that will be a “true barrow maker”.

A wide made, clean fronted boar loaded with muscle while maintaining depth of body with a great center rib all put into a moderate frame, along with the huge bone that this genetic line is known for.

WE JUST WANT TO SAY

Congratulations!

ARK... PRODUCING A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE!!!

Mapes

Many time grand and reserve champion on the Indiana show circuit.
Class Winner at 2012 Indiana State Fair.

We are in the business of making show hogs like this yet more importantly getting the chance to produce as many smiles like this as we can!

As listed in the March Online Sales Catalog:

Lot: 189 • EN: 212-6 • Breed/Sex: Crossbred Barrow • Date Born: 1/20/12 • Sire: Creature • Dam: 92-9X • Sire of Dam: Super Monster • Weight: 45lbs

Description: ONE OF THE REALLY GREAT PROSPECTS WE HAVE EVER MADE!!! This barrow is absolutely INCREDIBLE to us!!! He is one that has the true balance, design, and completeness that we talk so much about Champions having to start with, YET HE HAS THE EXTRAS TO GO WITH IT!!! Creating a Deadly Combination!!! As we view our breeding program and think about combining Creature and Super Monster in these crossbreds... IT'S REALLY HARD NOT TO GET OVERLY EXCITED!!! This barrow can be described best as "THE KIND THAT WILL WIN". There's not much more we can say to relay how good we feel this one is and even more importantly how good he is going to be down the road!!!

HEMAN

ONLINE PIG SALE
NOVEMBER 8

Hosted by Showpig.com

RESERVE GRAND CHAMPION
CROSSBRED CLASSIC, INDIANA STATE FAIR
$89,000 SECOND TOP-SELLING BOAR

A huge thank you for the many positive comments and the contending bidders of this great boar. We are truly honored and humbled not only for the award, but because we know the real dedication and effort it takes to make them better. HeMan comes out of the heartbeat of our sow herd and as described by judge Ben Moyer, "a real HeMan of the boar show." Thank you to Ryan Stohlquist for purchasing HeMan. He is sure to generate across a great set of sows.

RASCAL

PERFECT RATING X IMMORTAL 76-3

Rascal is the newest addition to our herd and we are excited about what he is generating and his future potential. His dam is the same dam as HeMan. Rascal is both stress and red gene negative. A very upheaded, great-designed boar, yet he's square on all angles and built right from the ground up. He has the perfect shape of muscle and carries it freely on the move. His first pigs in the nursery have us excited and he will see heavy use this fall.

We have 70 litters farrowed from July to September available off the farm!
Feel free to give us a call to talk swine at anytime.

STRUTTIN'

This boar will fix structure issues that plague a large percentage of today's genetic lines. He's beyond comfortable on the move and tremendously square to the ground without sacrificing muscle, width or bone. He is truly a negative version of sire.

Bottom line, his genetics are as sound as his motion and he's in Full Strut! Are your sows looking?

Grand Champion Market Hog
Bred by OBC

Mr. Robinson,
Thank you for sending me an awesome hog to show at the South Texas Ag Round Up. (Her number was 19-10) My hard work paid off - I placed 1st and got breed Champion with Feona. I also won Jr. Champion Showman and was awarded a belt buckle.
Feona was great and I miss her a lot.
I can't wait to purchase another Champion hog from your farm.

sincerely,

SAME GREAT BRAND.

“ We fed our pigs Finale™ 809 for the last 30 days before show, and we noticed immediate results in feed intake, shape, and body. Finale™ 809 uses Depth Charge™ technology, which means we were able to keep our hogs soft at a heavier weight. There were no fines with the new pellet size, which provided phenomenal intake. Finale™ 809 is part of a truly tremendous new product lineup!”

“ I was very impressed with the new Finale™ 809 while feeding it this show season. Not only did we get the muscle tone and show bloom that I was looking for, I was amazed with the extra center body and belly our pigs developed. The feed was much improved over the other 16 percent I have fed. There is no doubt Finale™ 809 was a big part of our success at the Indiana State Fair.”

Could be the best one we ever raised! With Crown Royal & Triple Rock, you've got the best of both worlds. His mother is one of the best Triple Rock daughters born last spring. BLAST FROM THE

Past

By Taylor Fritsch

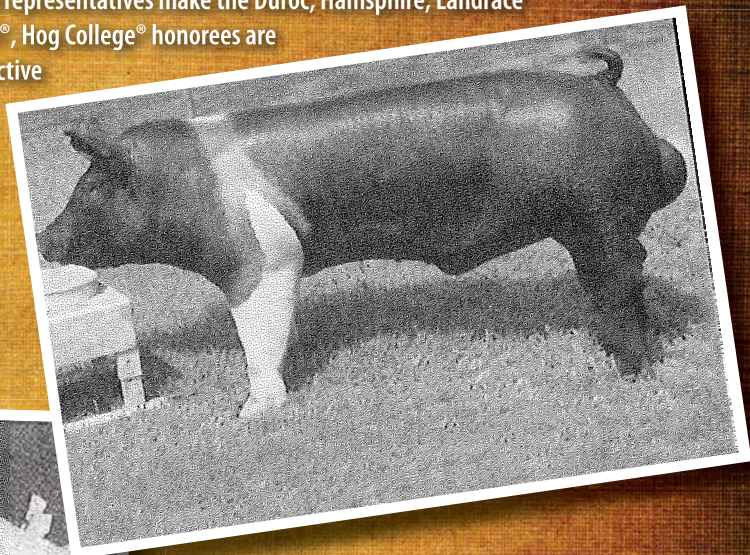

This is part of a series offering brief glimpses into the history of NSR and the breed associations that comprise it. E-mail comments to seedstockedge@nationalswine.com.

The Hog College® has long been a tradition of the National Barrow Show® in Austin, Minn. Throughout much of the event's early history, many agricultural colleges hosted central boar test stations. The Hog College, as it came to be known, featured the top-performing animals from those stations, serving as representatives of a breed ideal.

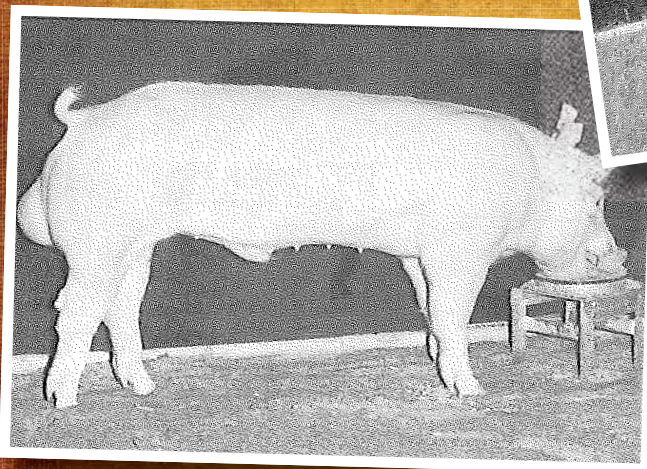

In the early '90s, a changing swine industry led to a shift in the format of the Hog College®, with nominations accepted from breeders for the honors. Today, NSR's field representatives make the Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace and Yorkshire selections. While they aren't shown at NBS®, Hog College® honorees are penned on "Hog College Row" and are sold in their respective breed sale.

A new chapter of history for this event starts in Austin this year, when all eight breeds will appear in the ring at once for the "Hog College® Home Run Drive."

Below are a few popular Hog College® Boar selections from years past.

Above: The 2006 Hampshire Hog College Boar was brought to Austin by Mike McCoy of Ohio. It took $75,000 for Showtime Sires, Ill., to take home this Big Brother 36-2 son, that they named "The Judge."

Above: Powerball, the 1998 Yorkshire Hog College Boar, was bred by Lorenzen Farms of Illinois. He sold for $31,500 to Prairie State Semen, Ill., and Cobb Farms, Ark. Powerball would go on to sire another noted Yorkshire boar, Spotlight.

Right: The 1988 Duroc Hog College Boar, SBA Mr. College 88, was a Rebel son bred by Sam Sparger of Texas. International Boar Semen of Iowa purchased the boar for $20,000. He was a product of the National Duroc Test Station, where he was 1988's second-highest indexing boar.

Steermaker

DOUBLE FEATURE & ABSOLUTE

STRESS CARRIER

WPX purchase from Malcolm Farms. The barrow boar of the summer - as massive hipped, big stiffled as we have seen. The perfect boar to follow the upcoming great sire, Time Change. Steermaker's littermate gilt has been hugely successful in the Indiana Circuit winning several spot titles. This is the boar to moderate and muscle up the next generation. *Just In...Steermaker's littermate sister was Champion Spot and 4th Overall at 2012 Indiana State Fair and Res.
