$38,000 Grand Champion Duroc Boar 2013 Ind. State Fair

This guy topped the group at the Indiana State Fair with ease. He is one special boar. I talked this guy in the Championship drive as being the changer the Duroc breed has been waiting on. He is moderate in frame but is huge ribbed, topped and rumped with tons of center body. His feet are big and correct, toes are wide spread and designed right. All of the angles in his hip and hind legs are correct. He does not bow in or out. His joints are clean. He is big league opened up in his chest floor. His skull is stout. His blades are wide, and he carries that thickness all the way to his tail. If you can't tell, we're excited to bring this boar home and get started using him.

Ad Dropout Policy

To maintain the advertising integrity of Seedstock EDGE, the late ad drop policy developed by the NSR Executive Committee will be upheld by the NSR Department of Marketing & Communications. If an advertiser reserves advertising space in Seedstock EDGE, he or she has until three days after the ad deadline to recall the advertising space. If an ad is pulled after that time, the late ad drop policy will apply. On the first occurrence, the advertiser will receive a written explanation of the policy. On any following occurrences, the advertiser will be charged half the cost of the reserved ad space.

A SHOW PIG FEED LINE THAT IS taking the game TO A NEW LEVEL

As the leader in animal nutrition, Purina® understands that innovation drives the show industry. That's why we've made major improvements to our Honor® Show Chow® Show Pig Feeds, including newly formulated products and reduced pellet sizes for improved palatability and greater intake.

Designed to help you determine which products you need, our easy-to-use system helps you get the most out of your show project. We're confident our new products will help unleash the genetic potential of your show pigs.

Prelude® 209

- 12-16 lbs • For show pigs weighing 12-16 lbs
- 3/32" pellet can be used as a creep feed
 - Extremely palatable & digestible
 - Produces full middles, muscle shape and bloom
 - 22% protein; 8% fat; 1.6% lysine

Prelude® 309

- 16-25 lbs • For show pigs weighing 16-25 lbs
- 3/32" pellet for greater intake
 - Extremely palatable & digestible
 - Produces full middles, muscle shape and bloom
 - 20% protein; 8% fat; 1.5% lysine

Showpig 509

- 25+ lbs • For newly purchased show pigs
- 3/32" pellet for greater intake
 - Medicated with Lincomycin and Safe-Guard™ for a healthy start
 - Produces muscle, shape and bloom
 - 20% protein; 7% fat; 1.3% lysine

Showpig 709

- 50+ lbs • For growing/developing show pigs
- 3/32" pellet for greater intake
 - Moderate protein, high energy formula allows pigs to continue adding soft muscles at heavier weights
 - 18% protein; 6.5% fat; 1.1% lysine

Finale™ 809

- 100+ lbs • For show pigs weighing 100+ lbs
- 3/32" pellet for greater intake
 - Moderate protein, high energy feed for growing/finishing/developing pigs
 - 16% protein; 7.5% fat; 0.85% lysine

Finale™ 909

- 150+ lbs
For hard muscled show pigs weighing 150+ lbs
- Meal (ground) formula
 - Low protein, high energy formula allows pigs to continue adding soft muscle at a heavier weight
 - 14% protein; 8% fat; 0.9% lysine

"We fed our pigs Finale™ 809 for the last 30 days before show, and we noticed immediate results in feed intake, shape and body. Finale™ 809 uses Depth Charge™ technology, which means we were able to keep our hogs soft at a heavier weight. There were no fines with the new pellet size, which provided phenomenal intake. Finale™ 809 is part of a truly tremendous new product lineup!"

"I was very impressed with the new Finale™ 809 while feeding it this show season. Not only did we get the muscle tone and show bloom that I was looking for, I was amazed with the extra center body and belly our pigs developed. The feed was much improved over the other 16 percent I have fed. There is no doubt Finale™ 809 was a big part of our success at the Indiana State Fair."

An event for the books

Forty years ago, a record-setting event in Austin, Minn., set the standard for national shows and sales. It was the fall of 1973. The state fair run was over, but interest in purebred genetics was at an all-time high, and people were ready to bring their best to the 'World Series of Swine Shows,' the National Barrow Show®.

On that Monday morning in '73, the fairgrounds were overrun with the participants of the NBS® judging contest. Purdue's team coached by Dr. Roger Hunsley, won the College Division, and John Phillips – Mr. Barrow Show, to many of us – served as the show superintendent, for the third year.

Tuesday morning kicked off the Hampshire show. Al Christian, Ames, Iowa, was evaluating the entries as Bernard Roll of Iowa Falls, Iowa, drove his son of Bare Baron 12-4 to the winner's circle, and Walsh Farms of Beloit, Wis., captured Reserve honors with a son of Renown. Hamp-An Farms, Middletown, Mo., had the Champion Gilt with a daughter of Oh, and Dean Myhre, Caledonia, Minn., drove his Butkus daughter to Reserve.

The Duroc show was evaluated by R.N. Perry of Bethel, Mo. Fellow Missourian Everett Forkner exhibited a son of CC Tomorrow that won Grand Champion Duroc Boar. Alan Butts of Evansville, Wis., exhibited the Reserve Champion Boar; his entry was a son of Wisconsin Flash. Young Mark Hodson of Maranka, Ill., drove a daughter of Freight Train to the top spot, and a daughter of Mr. Timber exhibited by Peugh Durocs of Stanton, Texas, was named Reserve.

Before the sales began, the barns were jam-packed with potential buyers. Soga-No-Yo Swine Farms of Japan, purchased the Champion and Reserve Champion Hampshire Boars for $25,000 and $7,500, respectively, along with the Champion and Reserve Champion Duroc Boars for $38,000 and $25,000. Hamp-An's Champion Hampshire Gilt brought $6,000 and so did Hodson's Champion Duroc Gilt.

Wednesday's events included the Yorkshire show. Dick Kuecker, Algona, Iowa, drove his son of White Cloud to Championship honors, and Michigan State University had the Reserve Boar with a son of Peter. Bill Funderburg of Greenville, Ohio, drove his daughter of Total to Champion honors and Don Michael & Sons of Farmersville, Ohio, had their daughter of Freight Train named Reserve. Soga-No-Yo Farms proved again to be a force to be dealt with during the sale. They purchased the Champion and Reserve Yorkshire Boars for $30,000 and $22,000 along with the Reserve Gilt for $4,000. The Japanese firms at the NBS® purchased $349,250 of breeding animals. Soga-No-Yo Farms alone purchased $203,400 of the top purebred genetics.

Later that afternoon, the Grand Champion Production Barrow was named. Earlier in the spring of 1973, 544 individual barrows were put on tests by breeders who wanted to exhibit animals at the NBS®. No stranger to the winner's circle, Roy Keppy of Davenport, Iowa, drove his crossbred entry to the On-Foot Championship, and then rang the bell again as his barrow was named the Grand Champion Production Tested Carcass Barrow. The truckload division found Dave Cox of Wyoming, Ill., grabbing the banner with his crossbred load. A Duroc truckload exhibited by LaVern Weller & Sons, Dwight, Ill., was tapped the Champion of the truckload carcass contest.

Those few days four decades ago are considered by many to be the pinnacle of the NBS®. But to understand the success of those September days, you must know what came before.

The National Barrow Show® was first held in Austin, Minn., in the fall of 1946. This event marked the first time that the 10 major breeds of hogs had appeared together at a national swine show. The $21,645 prize money was the largest purse ever awarded. In addition, the 1946 show had more hogs on exhibit than any other show in history. The National Association of Swine Records and the George A. Hormel & Company (represented by Carroll Plager) agreed to stage the NBS® at the Mower County Fairgrounds during the first full week of September following Labor Day.

This event has been held in Austin every year – with the exception of 1952, when it was cancelled because of an outbreak of vesicular exanthema, and 2001 with the concern of Foot and Mouth Disease (FMD).

That same year, the Crane Pavilion was constructed for $42,000. This facility was built in honor of R.P. Crane, a member of the Hormel Institute of Directors and vice-chairman of The Hormel Foundation. Unfortunately, in 1955, a fire destroyed the pavilion, but it was rebuilt the following year.

Throughout the years that Austin, Minn., has been home to the National Barrow Show®, there have been great successes and hard times. It's been forty years since that record-shattering September, but the spirit and camaraderie the NBS® has been built around still remains. As long as good hogs and good people continue to meet in Austin, the 'World Series of Swine Shows' will remain one of the best events to share ideas for the future of our industry.

NSR Director of Junior Activities

These are the moments

Wow – what a summer it has been, and it sure has gone by fast! But, like the saying goes, “Time flies when you’re having fun!” After a busy summer with our two national shows, the World Pork Expo Junior National in Des Moines, Iowa, and the National Junior Summer Spectacular in Louisville, Ky., I must say, at times it could sure get crazy! Between planning, organizing and carrying out different responsibilities for these two events, it is a big relief to say, “Mission accomplished.”

Although this was only my second National Junior Summer Spectacular as an NSR employee, I have learned how much time and dedication it takes to put on a show of this caliber. It takes many months of advanced planning, numerous hours to organize and a strong team dedicated to making it the very best. Then, when the time arrives, and it is finally happening, there is no stopping. NJSS is constant go, go, go, and at times, can be a bit stressful.

There were many thoughts crossing my mind during that week, and all pertained to whether or not things were going to get accomplished on time, or making sure different contests were going to run smoothly. As I was helping with both the Ag Sales competition and Skillathon on one of the busiest days of the NJSS, Wednesday morning, I was having a moment of panic thinking about the different events going on that day. While this was happening, all of a sudden I had three little girls come up and bear hug me from every side.

All three of them looked up at me and said, “We love you, Torie,” and continued to hug me with all of their might!

I then crouched down to give them all a hug back. I was a bit caught off guard, since I was deep in thought with everything going on between the two current contests and what needed to be done later on that day with Showmanship and the Barrow Show. But, at that very moment, those three little girls really put things into perspective for me. Not only did they melt my heart, but they reminded me why I love what I do.

“There is so much to be enjoyed and appreciated that we need to remember to pay attention to the present, because it is the only moment we can experience being alive.”

Sometimes, with all of the different tasks that have to be accomplished at a show or all of the different contests and events that are taking place, we often forget to take in those moments that mean the most. Life, in all of its fullness, is happening right now. While our thoughts are sometimes focused on other matters, there are opportunities and moments that are lost. Many times we get so attached to reaching our goals that we don’t pay attention to the great things happening all around us. There is so much to be enjoyed and appreciated that we need to remember to pay attention to the present, because it is the only moment we can experience being alive.

So, at your next NJSA show or event, please make sure to take a look around you. There are so many things to be grateful for at an NJSA show: your family, friendships, competing with your pigs, participating in educational contests, playing games and so much more. These are the moments that make so many memories. There’s only going to be one day like the one you are living today. Each day is so valuable, and as you grow, time just goes faster. Remember, enjoy the present and live for now!

Those days that last forever

If you looked at my vacation log, you wouldn't see words like "Florida," "beach" or "cruise." Instead, you'll find that most of my paid time is spent on "cattle shows," "family" and "judging." When I get out of the office, there's no place I'd rather be than a livestock show in the Show Me State with my family and friends.

Such was the case last month. As soon as we approved the August issue of the Seedstock EDGE, I finalized my travel plans to make it to the Gasconade County Fair that evening. After nearly eight hours on the road, I pulled into the fairgrounds.

I wasn't 20 steps past the front gate, when I ran into two friends that I grew up showing cattle with, Luke and Tyler.

"We were just talking about you," said Tyler.

Then Luke chimed in, "Yeah, we were talking about all the fun we used to have here with our families."

That started a trip down memory lane, and for the next half hour, we laughed about all the trouble we used to stir up, from dropping rubber spiders on innocent, unsuspecting fair-goers to almost getting our premiums taken away for dunking my little brother in the stock tank.

Even though we stirred up our fair share of trouble, we also learned the value of hard work and family. At shows that lasted more than a day, our families would often bring their campers and everyone would camp out together. Us, kids, knew that once our chores were done, there would be steaks on the grill in tie outs, along with each family's signature side dish and sometimes even homemade ice cream. But, we also knew we weren't allowed to eat until all of our livestock had been fed and rinsed and our stalls cleaned.

When the laughter died down, we had to admit that it's probably a good thing all of our prank-pulling and trouble-making had only led to have lasted forever, but their impact has.

I thought about those friends gathered there at the edge of the Midway and the impact showing livestock had on not only their careers, but their lives. Among that group stood a young man studying for vet school, another entering grad school to study ruminant nutrition and assist with the judging team, a person who helps with their dad's livestock market, an animal health intern, a member

"Remember, your time in the ring may be limited, so treasure each moment with your family and friends, but your potential to learn from that experience isn't."

a few minor injuries, which inevitably led to a couple more stories.

But then, Luke said something that hit me pretty hard.

"Man, it seemed like those days would just last forever, and now, they're gone."

It was a sobering moment as we all stopped laughing and thought about the truth in his words. It seems silly for people in their mid- to early-20s to be lamenting over the good ol' days when we all showed together. But, I'd be lying, if I said I haven't longed for another chance to pick out a good calf and drag it across the state with friends and family.

Since that night, I've thought about what Luke said, and recently, I came to the conclusion that those days may not of a successful meats judging team, a nurse who credits livestock projects for her interest in science and yours truly.

There's no doubt in my mind that showing livestock helped all of us get to where we are today. Maybe more importantly, I'm sure, if we met on that same sidewalk 10 years from now, we'd still be good friends.

Like Luke said, those days don't last forever, but the friends you make and the lessons you learn sure do. As you look for the next great one to take to shows, remember, your time in the ring may be limited, so treasure each moment with your family and friends, but your potential to learn from that experience isn't.

Christian Awarded for Contributions to the Red Breed

Longtime Duroc breeder, Kay Christian, was honored by the Iowa Duroc Breeders at the Iowa State Fair for her support of the breed and the contributions her program have made to Duroc genetics.

The Iowa Duroc Breeders recognized Kay Christian for her long-running support of the breed and the contributions her program has made to Duroc genetics that will produce progress.

The daughter of Harry and Kathryn Barnes, Christian's family raised outstanding Durocs, dairy cattle and Quarter Horses, and she was known for her work ethic at a young age.

In 1961, Christian was crowned the Iowa Duroc Queen. She then attended Iowa State University and was one of the few women who studied animal science, at the time. In 1965, she married Dean Christian, and they started their operation with two sows. They were a great pair – they both loved the Duroc breed, and produced and sold many hogs of their own, and also assisted others in selling breeding stock, especially to Mexico.

After Dean's untimely death in 2004, Christian carried on their operation and made the first trip to the National Barrow Show® without Dean. In 1977 and 1980, she received the Paul Parrish Breeding On Award from the Duroc Swine Registry. This award honors the breeder whose Durocs produced for others. In earlier years, at the National Barrow Show, it was considered a win just to make the sale. In 1980, 38 boars and gilts in the sale carried Christian's influence, including the champion gilt, and champion and reserve boars.

Christian's genetics can also be found in the 2010 and 2011 National Premier Sire, Buck Cherry's pedigree.

Christian is the only person who has been named Iowa Master Seedstock Producer twice, and she has done her share of judging, including at the Cow Palace in California. She hosted the Iowa Duroc Picnic at least twice. Christian has held every office in the Iowa Duroc Breeder's organization. She was a 4-H leader for 20 years, served on the Iowa Pig Skin committee, and even helped the pork producers find Iowa's best tenderloin. Until recently, she worked long hours assisting with the 4-H swine show at the Iowa State Fair.

When asked about Kay, Al Christian says, "She's a driven woman who has done amazing things." Then he chuckles as he adds, "One thing about Kay, she doesn't hold back. She tells you exactly what she's thinking."

Anyone who knows Christian can agree. There may not be a man or a woman with a longer, more fervent dedication to a breed of hogs than Kay Christian, and the Iowa Duroc Breeders are honored to present her the award.

Tangreshen Representatives From China Visit NSR Office

Representatives from Tangrenshen (TRS) and Whiteshire Hamroc visited the National Swine Registry office today. Scott Lawrence, Whiteshire Hamroc executive vice president; Jason Feng, Beijing Whiteshire joint venture production service manager; Mr. Sun, TRS financial department member; and Mr. Zhou and Mr. Yang, TRS feed sales representatives visited with NSR CEO Mike Paul and Vice President of Global Technical Service Dr. Doug Newcom about the National Swine Registry, America's Best Genetic and the performance testing behind NSR performance records, EPDs and economically-relevant indexes.

Duroc Rule Change

The United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR) Board of Directors has passed a new policy change for registering and exhibiting Duroc animals. The UDSR will now allow Durocs to be recorded with less than 12 teats. However, to be exhibited at breeding animal events, Durocs must possess six or more functional teats on each side of the underline. This is now effective for all Durocs farrowed on or after April 1, 2013.

Ervin 'Erv' A. Nuttleman, Jr.

Ervin 'Erv' A.
Nuttleman, Jr.
1930-2013

Ervin "Erv" A. Nuttleman, Jr., 83, died July 11.

He was born April 14, 1930, in La Crosse, Wis., to Ervin and Alice (Hauser) Nuttleman, Sr. On Oct. 27, 1956, he married Barbara Jacobs at Sparta Congressional Church.

Nuttleman's passion in life was being an accomplished hog and dairy farmer. He was involved in the swine industry for most of his life, exhibiting pigs at the Wisconsin State Fair, since he was 12 years old, when he traveled to the fair by boxcar. He bred many champions at the state fair including Grand Champion in '97, Reserve Champion Barrow in '99 and Jr. Champion Barrow in '94. In 2004, he was honored with the Wisconsin Pork Association Master Seedstock Award. In August 2012, Nuttleman was inducted into the Wisconsin State Fair Pork Producers Hall of Fame to honor his commitment to the industry. He was also a seedstock developer and breeder whose animals received numerous honors and awards over the years. Nuttleman said he stayed in the swine business because the animals were as stubborn as he was.

Nuttleman was the first president of the La Crosse County Pork Producers, served on the original Wisconsin Pork Producers Board, served on the Bangor School Board for 18 years and was a director for Harvestland Farm Credit Services for 32 years. He was also a 4-H leader for more than 30 years and was very supportive of youth pig projects.

Nuttleman respected and appreciated the land on which he loved to grow things to benefit the world around him rather than himself. His passion for his pigs was evident when he had his heart surgery; he insisted he have a valve from a pig. Nuttleman treasured raising his family on his farm in their beautiful valley and spending time with his sons while he passed along his knowledge, humor and endless stories. He was a humble, hard-working, family man.

Survivors include: his wife of more than 56 years, Barb; five sons, Brian (Patty) of Trempealeau, Kevin (Lottie) of Bangor, Peter (Laurie) of Rockford, Ill., Steven (Debbie) of Bangor, and Bruce (Kristina) of St. Louis Park, Minn.; one brother, Robert (Gloria) of West Salem; one sister-in-law, Mary Jane (Allan) Schell of Shalimar, Fla.; one brother-in-law, John (Alice) Jacobs of Antigo, Wis.; and nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents and two brother-in-laws, Neil (Betty) Jacobs and Dan Jacobs.

Funeral services were held July 15 at First Presbyterian Church, Bangor. The Rev. Larry Olson and Pastor Stephanie M. Steiner officiated. Burial was held at Burns Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be given to the charity of the donor's choice. Condolences may be sent at jandtfredrickson.com.

Pearl Irene Edwards

Pearl Irene Edwards

Pearl Irene Edwards, 82, of Middletown, Mo., died July 27. Visitation was July 29 at the Middletown Baptist Church. Funeral services were July 30 at Olney Baptist Church. Rev. Jack Chemin officiated. Burial was in Olney Cemetery.

Edwards was born at home in McBaine, Mo., to Orel Edward and Ruth Jemima (Limerick) John on Jan. 12, 1931. She attended first grade in McBaine. The family moved to Harg, Mo., where she attended school through 6th grade. Her father was her school teacher at Harg. The family then moved to Linn, Mo., where Edward's father became the first Vocational Agriculture teacher at the new high school. She attended 7th grade there and began piano lessons with Mrs. Nilges. The following year the family moved to Huntsville, Mo., where her father took the Vo-Ag teaching job. Edwards began 8th grade and finished her high school there.

She was an outstanding athlete, playing basketball, tennis and running track, which included high jump, shot put and long jump. She set records in all track events she participated in, during her last two years of high school. Edwards was also in 4-H and showed sheep at the fair. After graduation from high school, Edwards attended the State Teachers College in Kirksville, Mo., staying in the dorm during the week and riding back and forth to Huntsville on weekends. She majored in physical education with a plan to teach athletics. She transferred to the University of Missouri in 1950. There she met Ruben Edwards.

He remembers her as the girl with the little white shorts and a tennis racket in her hand, walking across campus. He didn't know her name, but he knew he would marry her. Ruben was in Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. They spent many evenings there with Edwards playing the piano and a group of young men and women gathered around singing. Ruben convinced his fraternity brothers to serenade Edwards because he "couldn't carry a note," and he gave her his fraternity pin. They dated and married on Sept. 2, 1951, in Huntsville.

They lived in Columbia, Mo., in an apartment near campus owned by Mrs. Biggs while Ruben completed his final year at the university. They were active at the Baptist Student Union just across the street. In the spring of 1952, Ruben graduated, their first daughter Patty was born, and they moved home to the farm at Corso, Mo.

Edwards had changed her major to home economics, when she met Ruben. She began perfecting the role of a homemaker and hostess, once they moved home. She and Ruben had four more children, John, Linda, Terry and Jim. She managed the household and worked with Ruben to create a nationally known farm, Hamp-An Farms, that produced exceptional Hampshire hog breeding stock. Edwards kept up with registering all animals, named each individual hog registered, took care of advertising, bookkeeping and became a renowned hostess. She continued this as their emphasis changed from hog production to selling Angus bulls.

She has been known as "Miss Irene" by at least three generations of folks who were fortunate to arrive in time for a meal at her table. Ruben has said many times that he would show the livestock to the buyers, but Edwards would close the deal with her wonderfully and lovingly prepared meals. She had a way of making everyone feel at home and comfortable with her big smile and artful conversation. Along with their own children who became an integral part of the production team of Hamp-An Farms, Ruben and Edwards had 15 young adults come for summer internships and/or to live and work on the farm. They also hosted two exchange students, one from Australia and one from Brazil. They became part of the family, living with them in their beautiful home designed by her uncle, Hurst John.

Edwards loved her gardens, both vegetable and flower. She created a beautiful setting for all to enjoy. She had canned and frozen vegetables and beef and pork to have on hand for her wonderful meals. Edwards had served as 4-H leader and Extension president.

Edwards accepted Christ and joined the Baptist Church in Huntsville, Mo., when she was 10 years old. When she and Ruben moved to the farm, they joined his home church, Olney Baptist Church. There she faithfully served her Lord in many capacities. She taught Sunday school, training union and Bible school. She led the congregational singing, and worked with the Children's choir to prepare musicals to share at other churches. She played and sang in nursing homes in the area as an outreach for Olney Baptist Church. For the past 60 years, she served as church pianist and song leader. Her Bible is worn from her constant reading of the scriptures. She lifted so many with her prayers and support through the years.

Edwards was a devoted wife and partner to Ruben for 62 years. As Ruben began to lose his eyesight, Edwards stepped into new roles to help him continue his love of farming. She read to him and was his driver. Edwards and Ruben have been a great team, creating standards that challenge all who know them.

Edwards is survived by her husband of 62 years Ruben; five children, Patricia Ann "Pat" (Russ) Hardesty, of Auxvasse, John Ruben (Jane) Edwards, of Middletown, Linda Sue (Gary) Young, of Middletown, Teresa Kay "Terry" (Paul) Hill, of Bowling Green and James Russell "Jim" (Phyllis) Edwards, of Middletown; fourteen grandchildren and spouses, Dan (Samantha) Shepard, Amy (Gabe) Craighead, Clay (Kayanna) Hardesty, Gretchen (Alex) Bame, Jed Edwards, Tabitha (Scott) Craig, Rachel (Jim) Craig, Heather (Jamie) Niemeyer, Matt (Lori) Hill, Jessica (Joel) Clover, Katie (Andrew) Howard, Tyler (Lauren) Bernard, Olivia Edwards and Alexey Edwards; thirteen great-grandchildren, Laina, Mia and Arch Shepard, Isiah and Alexandra Craighead, Emma and Evan Craig, Lily and Madi Craig, Carson and Blake Hill and Cadence and Myla Clover; brother, Russell E. John, of Huntsville; in addition to many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Orel and Ruth John.

Memorial contributions are suggested to Olney Baptist Church, Olney Cemetery or the American Cancer Society c/o Myers Funeral Home, 203 East Bates Street, Wellsville, MO 63384.

RED GENETICS

By Katie Maupin

Darryl Mappes drives his Duroc Boar during the 2012 National Barrow Show®. This son of Big Buck that he bred with DTR Swine garnered Reserve Champion honors.

For more than half a century, the Mappes family has carved a living out of the Moore, Okla., countryside, while trying to raise the perfect red hog. Today, Darryl Mappes is the second generation to oversee the 40 sows and 75 brood cows that make up the Mappes farm, in addition to 100 head of his own cattle. Mappes will be the first to tell you that it hasn't always been easy, especially since his father – Dr. Henry “Doc” Mappes – passed away nine years ago. But, he'll also tell you that it's been worth it, because he loves his farm, he loves his family, and he loves this industry.

In 1963, Doc Mappes founded Mappes Durocs based on a love of red hogs and red dachshund puppies. Doc had a couple of Durocs as an FFA project while he was in high school and had always been interested in the red breed. After a brief stint in the Navy and time in vet school, he was ready to get back in the hog business. The Mappes Duroc herdmark has been a stable insignia ever since.

NSR field representative Brian Anderson says the Mappes family name has been synonymous with good Duroc hogs, since he can remember.

“As a young kid growing up, it was always one of the first ads that you would thumb to find in the Duroc News,” he says. “Darryl’s dad, Doc – you could say he was respected, but in most peoples’ eyes, that one was a legend.”

Lean Value Sires’ Mary Pavelko also recalls the prestige of the Mappes name and the family.

“Oh man, Doc was just a great guy – one of a kind,” she says.

Pavelko met the Mappeses before she joined Lean Value, and Doc helped her while she was just getting started in the industry by offering her health tips and sharing new ideas.

“He was kind of my idol,” she says. “He was just a cool guy.”

Al Christian, longtime Duroc breeder and past Iowa State University swine farm manager, considers the Mappeses his extended family and was one of Doc’s dear friends.

“I first met Doc back in the mid-’60s at the National Duroc Congress,” Christian says. “Later, he would tell me that he thought I was kind of a smart aleck. I always thought that was funny, because he and I became very, very close friends. I watched his daughters and boys grow up.”

Christian watched as Doc and his wife, Maxine, raised their family in that Oklahoma countryside. The boys, Mark and Darryl, as well as close family friend, Donnie Bowman, worked hard to help around the farm, as did their daughters Vicki and Cindy.

But one inherited Doc’s love for the red hogs, his philosophies on breeding them and his aspirations of perfection – Darryl.

“I think they just worked really well together,” Christian says. “I could watch as Darryl grew up and saw that Doc could lean more and more on him. It was a really good father and son relationship, and Darryl really stepped up to the plate.”

Together, the father and son would strive to take the hogs they had and make each generation better. Throughout the years, the Mappes herd was improved with sires such as The Doctor, Phenomenal, Showmaster and ISU Cyclone, the 1981 Iowa State Fair Champion they purchased from Christian at the teaching farm.

“We always cussed and discussed – pigs most of the time,” Mappes recalls with a laugh. “We just kind of shared all the values that [my father] taught me about quality and production.”

The duos’ cussing and discussing paid off big at the 2000 Winter Type Conference, when they sold their Champion Duroc Boar for a record-setting $56,000 to Lean Value Sires and Ken Tone Farms. Three generations of Mappes

“To me, when Darryl makes a great red boar, that is the culmination of every great sow and every great boar in his herd coming out in one genetic profile.” – Brian Anderson men – Doc, Darryl and Darryl’s son, Cole – watched “Fire and Ice” shatter the record at the sale, and Mappes says it will always be one of his fondest memories.

“That was one of my dad’s most glorious days,” Mappes says. “It was so great to see his face, when all the hard work and money were rewarded.”

When Doc passed away in 2004, Mappes was devastated and didn’t know if he could carry on the Mappes Durocs legacy.

“When my dad passed away [Al Christian] gave me a talking to, and that’s kind of what kept me going,” Mappes recalls. “I didn’t know if I could keep it going or not. I tried hard to do it, and it was hard at first. Now, we finally got things going. I think he’d be proud, and I wish he was there to share some of this.”

Christian remembers that firm talking to that he gave to Mappes after Doc’s passing.

“I encouraged him to continue on because I just knew that he had that kind of intuition that you find in some young people and that he was dedicated,” Christian says.

Mappes has worked for the past decade to continue Doc’s legacy through the hogs he loved. He’s not only created some of the more unique, breed-changing genetics, but he’s also carved out his own place as a legend in the red breed.

But Mappes hasn’t done it alone. Of course his family has helped out, but so have two dear friends – Jeff Blair and Dan Kyle. Blair is one of Mappes’ best friends. He has spent countless hours helping Mappes in the barn and has served as copilot as the pair drove many miles across the country to shows and sales. Kyle has helped Mappes find some really unique gilts to put into the Mappes Durocs program. He knows just how committed the Mappeses are to red hogs.

The Mappes family farm is not a hobby farm. They’re not show jocks or one-hit-wonders, they’re breeders who are serious about Durocs. So serious, in fact, they’re among the few whose genetics can ring bells both in the Southern barrow circles and at open type conferences.

Lean Value Sires have owned their share of Mappes boars, and as Pavelko will tell you, there is more to the Mappes sires than their unique look or that extra Southern shape and stoutness.

“They have the Mappes name behind them, which has always been a good name. You know they will breed on. They have a good reputation, and they stand behind their animals. They’re the whole package,” she explains. “You can get an impression of a boar at a show, or you can fall in love with him, but unless he comes from a reputable firm, you can’t count on him breeding on. You know what to expect from a breeder. Mappes pigs have a look. You can look into the ring and say ‘There’s a Mappes boar.’ That’s what makes a person a breeder – they know what they like and what works for them. Why do their boars breed on? Well, they have an entire program behind them.”

Anderson echoes Pavelko, and respects the Mappes family for making a living with just one breed – something that is quite rare today. Mappes develops a lot of his genetics right there in Moore, Okla., lining up his genetics to breed for predictability.

$56,000 Record-Selling Duroc and Grand Champion Boar at the 2000 Winter Type Conference. He was purchased by Lean Value Sires, Ohio, and Ken Tone Farms, Colo.

“I respect a Duroc boar put together by a Duroc breeder that has years and years of experience more than one from somebody who has one red sow that happens to make a great red boar one time,” Anderson says. “To me, when Darryl makes a great red boar, that is the culmination of every great sow and every great boar in his herd coming out in one genetic profile.”

The Mappes family strive to breed the perfect red hog. To Darryl Mappes, their Champion Duroc Boar at the 2011 Summer Type Conference – Crown Royal – was pretty close. Crown Royal sold to Lean Value sires for $100,000.

Some would say the culmination that Anderson speaks of came to Louisville for the 2011 Summer Type Conference in the form of the $100,000 Champion Duroc Boar, “Crown Royal,” that Lean Value Sires purchased.

To Mappes, Crown was the one he wished his dad could have been there to see.

“He just always demanded the best quality hogs. He always wanted to raise the perfect Duroc boar – Crown was pretty close,” he says. “I figured that [Crown Royal] had to be a changer because he was so different. But it just makes you feel like you’ve done something. You wonder why you do it sometimes – and that’s why. You know with all the trouble and all the problems that you can have – you have to love it to do it. And it’s so gratifying to see some of the work you do go on and change the breed.”

Crown Royal has undoubtedly left his mark on the red breed. Winning the Premier Sire Award countless times at NSR conferences, and now, his sons – such as King and Bren – are making their own impact.

Despite the fact that he sold not one, but two record-busting red boars in Crown

Royal and Fire and Ice, if you were to ask Mappes what he is most proud of, he’d tell you it’s his family.

“My family has always stuck by me in the pig business. If it wasn’t for my dad and mom, I wouldn’t be able to do what I’m doing, and I’m proud that I’ve gotten to do this for 30 years. My wife has stuck by me for 31 years in the business, and my kids were always involved,” he says. “I’m just real proud of my family, and I’m proud of what I get to do. My dad and mom were a big part of it, and my brothers were a big part of it, and everyone helped me get to where I’m at.”

Mappes and his wife, Tammy, have two children – Brittany and Cole. Cole farms with Mappes, but he prefers running brood cows to brood sows. Currently, Mappes and Tammy have three grandchildren that they hope inherited their love for red hogs: Braxton, Brennen and Kayden.

“One of the neatest things was raising my family on the farm, and then having the grandkids come along,” Mappes says. “I think Braxton and Kayden will probably show, but Brennen is the one that I think will get into it. It’s hard to say, since she’s only 18-months-old, but she has a set of wheels and she’s an ornery little pistol. Hopefully, all three of them will get involved.”

It’s fitting that Brennen would be interested in the swine

When the time comes for the grandkids to drive Mappes hogs, they won’t have far to go. As Anderson says, the Mappeses have always put family first.

“That’s the neat deal – they’re a family,” he says. “When you pull in next to the Mappes Durocs sign, you’re driving past three of four homesteads that all belong to the Mappes family. Hard work and a belief in family – they’ve always put that first and foremost.”

Christian is proud of what his “extended family” has achieved.

HELPING THE MEDICINE GO DOWN

By Ann Fry

Today, more than ever, consumers are interested in how their pork chop gets from the gate to their plate. Antibiotic use in livestock production has caused concern among some consumers about the possibilities of “super bugs” in the environment, increased antibiotic resistance in humans and an unsafe food supply. With so many people watching the industry’s every move, producers need to understand and follow proper antibiotic handling and usage.

Antibiotics have three uses in swine production: preventing disease, treating illnesses and improving nutritional efficiency. Preventative antibiotics reduce the amount of disease-causing microorganisms during a time when pigs may be more susceptible to an illness. These times would include weaning, mixing with other pigs, or after a viral infection.

When treating an illness, antibiotics inhibit or kill the microbes causing the disease. These antibiotics work the same way as they do when treating human illnesses.

Another role antibiotics play in swine production is improving performance. To achieve this goal, antibiotics are used as a feed additive. There are a number of ways that antibiotics may improve performance, although the exact mechanism is unknown. The antibiotics may affect the microbial population in the large and small intestine, enhancing the growth of other organisms that produce required nutrients for the pig. Organisms that compete with the pig for nutrients may also possibly experience slower growth. Finally, the intestine wall thickness can be decreased, creating a greater potential for the absorption of more nutrients.

When used correctly, antibiotics are one effective herd health tool and can be economically advantageous. Following these do's and don'ts will keep you on the path of appropriately using antibiotics in your operation.

Do: Use a full herd health program

Antibiotics are only one part of a complete health package. Other pieces of the total package include biosecurity, vaccinations, facility maintenance and overall animal care. Dr. Jennifer Koeman, director of producer and public health for the National Pork Board, advocates using the most appropriate strategies to ensure animal health, which may include the use of antibiotics when needed.

"Thanks to farmers' investments in better biosecurity, housing, hygiene, air circulation and temperature controls to keep pigs healthy year-round, today's pigs are healthier than ever. However, when farmers and their veterinarians decide that antibiotics are required, they need to be able to use them," she says.

Koeman puts particular emphasis on the producer-veterinarian relationship. When developing your herd health program, consult a veterinarian to ensure all the pieces are correct and appropriate for your operation. Each swine herd is different, so what works for one producer, may not work for you. Working with a veterinarian will create a tailor-made health package for your operation.

The National Pork Board has also developed the Pork Quality Assurance® (PQA) Plus program to help producers develop good production practices. These good production practices include using antibiotics responsibly and maintaining whole herd health.

Don't: Disregard label instructions

Good Production Practice #3 of the PQA Plus program educates producers on using antibiotics responsibly. Following label instructions is included in responsible antibiotic use. All antibiotics have labels, regardless of their intended use. These labels give specific instructions on how the antibiotics are to be used, based on research from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

"The FDA does not approve the use of antibiotics for food animals until they undergo a rigorous review by the agency to safeguard animals, humans and the environment," Koeman says.

Increasing the dose is one of the most common ways an antibiotic is misused.

"It's one of those cases where people think, if a little bit is good, a whole bunch is better," Dr. Michael Tripp, an Oklahoma veterinarian, says.

While it may seem like a good idea to give the animal a higher dose to speed up the healing process, it will take longer to be eliminated from the body. It can also be very dangerous to the animal. Administering the drug more frequently and for a longer period of time than recommended also increases the time required for the antibiotic residue to reach tolerance levels.

Using an antibiotic for purposes other than those indicated on the label is only permissible with veterinary approval.

Additionally, extra label usage, or usage other than what is listed on the label, in feed additives is illegal. Different diseases, as well as the animal itself, affect absorption, distribution and elimination of the drug in different ways.

Dr. Max Rodibaugh, a veterinarian with Swine Health Services, sees another common misuse.

"Producers should not use antibiotics when they aren't needed," he says.

Rodibaugh asserts that getting a diagnosis before treatment is a crucial part of using antibiotics properly. A veterinarian can decide what particular antibiotic you should use, if any, based on the sensitivity. Determining the sensitivity is essentially the way vets estimate how effective an antibiotic will be for the particular disease. Treating without a diagnosis or consulting with your vet can heighten resistance problems, or simply be an unwise economic decision, if you choose an ineffective antibiotic.

Do: Follow withdrawal times

Withdrawal times are the period of time between when an animal is given their last treatment and when they can be marketed for consumption. The target tissues most commonly tested are the liver and the kidney, the two main waste eliminating organs. The withdrawal time actually is based on how long it takes the residue in these organs to fall below a safe tolerance level, not how long it takes the residue to disappear completely. Research is done on withdrawal times similar to the label information.

"There is extensive research testing to ensure meat sold to consumers is free of violative antibiotic residue.

It is critically important to follow withdrawal times," says Koeman.

Rodibaugh echoes Koeman.

"Withdrawal times are the number one most important thing to pay attention to when using antibiotics," Rodibaugh says.

The PQA Plus Good Production Practice #6 focuses on educating producers to maintain good records and adhere to withdrawal times.

Ignoring withdrawal times can be a costly decision. Sending hogs to slaughter with violative drug residue still above tolerance levels in the tissue can cause a heavy backlash for every producer, not just you. Animal activist groups would take an even more scrutinizing look at livestock production, and international markets could close. By simply waiting a few more days and following the withdrawal periods, these negative consequences can be prevented.

Don't: Use products without research

Due to some of the negative public perception associated with using antibiotics, some producers are looking at substitutes.

Rodibaugh says, "The right alternatives may help producers reduce use of antibiotics and help decrease potential resistance problems."

Koeman adds to Rodibaugh's statement.

"It is important that rigorous and objective research is done to evaluate these alternatives," Koeman says.

Currently, there are a few production practices that can also be tried to improve nutritional efficiency and prevent disease, but they can be costly in the long run. There is no well-tested alternative to replace antibiotics for disease treatment.

"No alternatives are really at the forefront that work consistently like antibiotics. A couple may work for a little while, or they may work for one or two things, but none work quite like antibiotics do," Rodibaugh says.

Researchers are constantly searching for alternatives. However, using untested alternatives may still create the same issues for producers that antibiotics have. If you're considering trying something different, consult with a veterinarian before making any decisions.

Do: Set a good example

More people than ever before are criticizing the livestock industry. Improper use of antibiotics can have considerable negative impacts on the whole livestock industry. Therefore, it is up to each of us to do things the right way, especially when it comes to antibiotics. Following the label instructions, consulting with a veterinarian and adhering to the withdrawal times are the right way to use antibiotics.

Continued availability of antibiotics is largely correlated to the public's opinion. Antibiotics will be much harder to obtain if a large majority of the public feels they endanger food

"It is important that rigorous and objective research is done to evaluate these alternatives." – Dr. Jennifer Koeman safety, or even personal health. Proper antibiotic usage gives the public fewer opportunities to scrutinize livestock production practices. Many producers do use antibiotics appropriately. According to the National Pork Board, more than 59,000 producers are PQA Plus certified.

"As pork people, we have to make them see we care, and we will give them a clean wholesome product," Tripp says.

Tripp also says part of setting a good example includes being an educator. Explaining to consumers why and how antibiotics are used in swine production will go a long way in maintaining antibiotic availability. It will also go a long way in establishing amiable consumer-producer relationships. Programs like Operation Main Street, offered by the National Pork Board, trains swine producers on speaking to the public about good pork production practices.

Producers themselves also have to understand antibiotics. Rodibaugh has found that many times he has to explain that if you use antibiotics, there will be a resistance that develops, no matter how the antibiotic is used.

"It is a natural occurrence that results from the way antibiotics work. The antibiotics are designed to kill organisms that are infecting the animal, and if resistant bacteria are present in the animal, they will survive the antibiotic pressure. It is the same way antibiotic resistance happens in humans," he says.

He also notices that people forget antibiotics are produced from natural compounds. Many of the antibiotics approved for swine production, and for humans, are produced by molds.

"Antibiotics are not some foreign compound. They have been identified from organisms found in the soil and present in the environment. People sometimes forget their high school biology," says Rodibaugh.

It is no secret that antibiotic use has become a hot-button issue for the livestock industry. But according to Rodibaugh, proper antibiotic use and handling is the best way to quell consumer concern.

"Good stewardship and good judicious use of antibiotics are so important," he says. "Consumers are concerned about our production methods, and it is extremely important that producers use antibiotics properly,"

National Barrow Show

MAKING A MARK

By Katie Maupin

MORE THAN 250 YOUNG PEOPLE WILL STRAIGHTEN THEIR STARCHED COLLARS AND BUTTON THEIR BLAZERS, AS THEY STEP ONTO THE CRUSHED LIME FLOOR OF CRANE PAVILION FOR THE NATIONAL BARROW SHOW® JUDGING CONTEST. RED, WHITE AND BLUE BUNTING WILL HANG FROM THE RAFTERS AS THEY MARK THEIR PLACINGS FOR THE EIGHT CLASSES PARADED THROUGH THE GROUNDS, JUST LIKE 4-H AND FFA MEMBERS AND COLLEGIATE TEAMS HAVE FOR THE PAST 66 YEARS.

SOME WILL KNOW OF THE TRADITION BEHIND THE CONTEST. OTHERS WILL COME WITH THE LIFELONG GOAL TO WIN. A FEW AREN'T EVEN FAMILIAR WITH THE SWINE INDUSTRY. BUT ALL WILL LEAVE WITH A NEW PERSPECTIVE, NEW CONNECTIONS AND MEMORIES THAT WILL LAST A LIFETIME.

IF YOU WERE TO STUDY THE LIST OF COACHES AND COMPETITORS THAT HAVE TOPPED THIS CONTEST, YOU WILL SEE COUNTLESS LIVESTOCK LEGENDS, BUT YOU MAY NOT KNOW THE STORIES BEHIND THEM. HERE ARE A FEW.

Dr. Roger Hunsley

Dr. Roger Hunsley's portrait hangs in the hallowed hall of the Saddle and Sirloin Club for his contributions to the livestock industry. If you read his Saddle and Sirloin biography, you'll see in the second sentence that he was named high individual at the 1958 National Barrow Show® Judging Contest.

This was quite a feat for a cattle kid from middle-of-nowhere South Dakota. Fortunately, his judging coach at South Dakota State University taught Hunsley the fundamentals – shape, movement and composition.

Hunsley still remembers the class that won the National Barrow Show® for him – Berkshire gilts.

“Without a doubt, the best looking gilt in there – and I mean she was a knockout – was just absolutely devoid of underline. So I put her last, the officials put her last, and I talked her that way,” he recalls. “I think that was the key to the contest, just figuring out what to do with something that was fundamentally wrong.”

That knockout Berkshire gilt busted many competitors' class placing in 1958 and drove home the importance of the fundamentals he was taught. In just 10 short years, Hunsley would return to Austin, Minn., with the first livestock judging team he'd coach for Purdue University. He passed along on his lessons on the basics, and they placed third.

“That really gave not only my team but also myself some incentive to work hard, study the fundamentals and tell the officials about them,” he says.

Hunsley would coach a string of successful teams at Purdue and placed in the top three in Austin nearly 10 times. His 1973 team not only won the NBS®, but also the American Royal and the International. That record held for more than three decades before Texas A&M University finally repeated it in 2005.

To Hunsley, the Barrow Show was about the fundamentals, and it would prove to potential Purdue judging students that a cowboy could certainly sort swine as well.

“I'm sure a lot of these young boys thought, how can this cowpoke teach us something about judging swine,” he laughs. “I wanted to set a pretty good example, early on, that what

I was teaching them was about fundamentals, not philosophy. We taught our students anatomy, biology and basic muscle structure before we taught them anything about grammar and sentence structure. After the first time or two that we did extremely well in swine judging ... we pretty much had a following in Indiana, and they knew the thing to do was to go to Purdue and be on the judging team.”

Hunsley coached NBS® High Individuals, such as Dave Rodibaugh, who were born into swine families, but he also coached Jack Nelson to a win in 1971, and Nelson had no background in the industry.

“If you look around the country today, 95 percent of those young people are still contributing to the industry,” Hunsley says. “I have to feel awfully proud about that.”

Dr. Harold Hodson

Dr. Harold Hodson topped the collegiate judging division in 1960 and coached his first winning team in 1976. Today, he serves as the Chairman of the Official Committee. It’s safe to say that few have been as involved in the NBS® Judging Contest as Hodson, yet to him it’s not about the cards that are marked. It’s about the connections, which is why he founded the great “Pilgrimage” that teams still embark on, each September.

While coaching at Southern Illinois, Hodson had the idea to gather a few judging teams and make stops in Illinois and Iowa before arriving in Minnesota for the contest.

“It was a great experience to get the opportunity to really expose those young people to great breeders,” Hodson says. “They met some of the leaders in the industry to hear their philosophies about the swine industry and just life in general.”

Among those great breeders were legends like Roy Keppy of Iowa, and later Hodson, himself, after he had left the university and partnered on some hogs with Gene Rouse as part of the Rouse and Hodson firm.

For years, Rouse and Hodson served as the Sunday morning stop.

“It’s more than a workout; it’s a chance to come together,” he explains. “In fact, Mike Fischer met his wife on that tour, when he stopped at our place. It not only gives students the opportunity to meet some of the breeders, but it gives different teams a chance to get to know each other.”

Today, Hodson still sees the National Barrow Show® and its judging contest as a place to make connections. It’s one of the few shows that reflects a true cross section of the swine industry, as everyone from purebred breeders to commercial packers converge in Austin, Minn., to exchange ideas about the future of the industry.

Hodson says the NBS® is a show where he has the opportunity to catch up with some people that he only gets to see once a year, which is why he has never missed a National Barrow Show® since he topped the judging contest in 1960 – other than the three years he was serving in the United States military.

“I knew that I had a good day,” he recalls of the experience. “But it was really a great honor. There were a lot of people that I knew – really talented young guys involved in the swine industry that were also judging in the contest, so it was a great honor. To get the opportunity to go there, judge and attend the show was really a great honor and something that I treasured.”

Last year, a truckload judging class was added to the already challenging set of National Barrow Show® classes. Participants ranked the four truckloads.

Dr. Maynard Hogberg

Although Dr. Maynard Hogberg’s name won’t be found on the list of past winners of the National Barrow Show® judging contest, if there was a list of tireless supporters, it would be near the top. Hogberg supported the livestock judging program during his tenure with Michigan State University and now Iowa State University.

When asked about why he stands behind the judging program, Hogberg explains that it is about more than the competition.

“Students learn to analyze things quickly. They learn to use critical thinking to identify pros and cons, and they learn how to make decisions quickly. Then, they have to defend those decisions. Those qualities and those life skills they gain are invaluable to them no matter what they do,” he says. “The other thing it really does is it gets them out of the classroom and out of the ivory walls of the university and into the industry. They learn how this industry functions and how it operates.”

Hogberg also gets out of the ivory walls to attend the NBS® when he can, and has served on the Class Selection Committee for the contest. He has seen firsthand what the contest teaches students and how the National Barrow Show®, with its sense of community and discussion, can evoke change in the industry. But most of all, Hogberg sees young people make connections that will last a lifetime.

“It’s essentially a ‘who’s who’ of the swine industry,” he says. “You bring these young people in, and they get a chance to judge pigs and get some results. But, they also get to rub shoulders with some really prominent people in the swine industry.”

Randy Bowman

Before he became associate director of genetics and multiplication for one of the largest family-owned pork production networks in the country, The Maschhoffs, LLC, before he was an American Yorkshire Club fieldman or an American Landrace Association board member, Randy Bowman walked into the Crane Pavilion as part of the Western Illinois University judging team.

As a hog man, Bowman wanted nothing more than to win the National Barrow Show®. To him, it meant more than Louisville, and when he achieved his goal, the feedback he received from the elite breeders made it one of his greatest achievements, at the time. Although, some of the excitement of that September day has faded, Bowman says once in a while someone will still bring up the 1985 contest.

they saw. It’s not using fancy terms, it’s knowledge of structure and how they visualize the individual animals differently than others ... some of those kids are breeders today, and I think that passion they brought made them successful, and you could tell that when they gave their reasons.”

To have success in Austin, Bowman says you just have to be true to yourself – don’t reach, tell the truth and paint a picture of that class for the legends of the swine industry that will be listening.

“It’s a special event for people in the business,” he concludes. “Whether it is judging in the contest, listening to reasons or being an official, it is just a special place for swine production.”

Dr. Mark Hoge

The National Barrow Show® Judging Contest was part of Dr. Mark Hoge’s life as far back as he can remember. It’s no surprise, since it’s a family tradition. His father, Dan Hoge, has coached more than 30 teams to the Junior Collegiate judging title at Black Hawk East.

When Hoge was little, his mother used to drop him off where the Black Hawk team was working out so he could drive the hogs in the classes. He spent hours cutting out photos from the Duroc News and the Hampshire Herdsman to paste the pictures onto Manila folders. Then, he’d have his dad officiate the picture judging classes he created.

For years the Barrow Show was a part of his family’s life, even though Hoge had never been. At the time, NBS® was considered more of a “gentleman’s gathering,” meaning not many wives and children made the trip to Austin.

“You get blown away in the way they approach what they saw. It’s not using fancy terms, it’s knowledge of structure and how they visualize the individual animals differently than others.” – Randy Bowman

Today, Bowman knows there is a lot that makes the National Barrow Show® memorable, beyond who wins the judging contest.

“There is a lot of history behind the Barrow Show,” he says. “And there are always a lot of influential breeders there and many of them are involved with the judging contest.”

Bowman himself has officiated the contest before, and he’ll tell you that it’s not fancy terms or even the class placings that separate the contestants.

“You can tell those kids that are rising to the occasion,” he says. “You get blown away in the way they approach what Hoge’s first trip was his freshman year of college. When Black Hawk’s van pulled into the Mower County Fairgrounds, he instantly knew the Barrow Show wasn’t about the location or the facilities – it was about the people who attend and the hogs they bring.

When Hoge topped the Junior College Contest, he considered it the pinnacle of his junior college judging career.

“As a sophomore in college, to win the National Barrow Show®, as a hog guy, is a great accomplishment,” he says.

Too often the hog kids want it so badly that they overthink the contest, Hoge explains. That’s what happened when he competed in senior college. A keep/cull gilts questions class shattered his dream of a repeat win, and marred what can undoubtedly be called one of the great senior college judging careers, after winning Louisville and multiple other contests.

"I was fortunate to have a really good year, but it's amazing what I would trade to win the Barrow Show," Hoge says.

Now the coach at Western Illinois University, Hoge loves getting his team ready to mark cards in Austin.

"I tell our students, when we get ready for the Barrow Show, we're going to actually study hogs," he says. "When we go to the National Barrow Show®, and they have those big rings that are just wide open, you can really judge hogs. You can really talk hogs – I mean just break them down and get after it. You can talk hogs to true hog people, and that makes me feel real comfortable."

Coming from a family and a livestock judging dynasty that revolve around Austin, it's easy to see how, in the beginning, Hoge's sole goal was to coach the winning team. But now that he's older and has two boys of his own that are 8 and 5, Hoge says that the National Barrow Show® is more about the deep industry traditions that take place each year in Mower County and preserving these traditions for future stockmen and women.

"Although it is important who wins, it is more important to experience the history behind it. The National Barrow Show® is one of those gems that needs to be supported whole-heartedly," Hoge says. "When the dust settles – win, lose or draw – we've had a good experience, and we've met good hog people. It's funny, after graduation and years down the road, when judging teams get together, it amazes me how many of their memories hinge on the Barrow Show."

Mike McCoy

When Mike McCoy topped the Junior College Judging Contest in 1996, his dad was standing only 15 to 20 feet away. Sharing this accomplishment with his father made the moment special, but the contest itself made it monumental.

"That's the one contest that you look forward to. That's the one that means the most. That is the pinnacle of the judging contests, when you're a hog kid," he says.

As much as that accomplishment meant at the time, it means even more to McCoy today, as he returned home to run Real McCoy Genetics with his father and served as a contest official for more than a decade.

"Being on the committee now, I am able to have a perspective from a contestant's viewpoint as an official. I understand the importance of making that contest truly what I consider to be educational, and keep it truly swine industry driven," McCoy explains. "This isn't an all-species contest. Being a hog contest, you understand and you work with other officials that are the great minds in the industry. You understand, now, why it so often takes the real hog kids to win."

Through his experience at the National Barrow Show® and judging for Dan Hoge at Black Hawk, McCoy learned how to look inside of himself and find a new level of focus to achieve his goals. He calls upon that next level when he plans matings, breeds hogs and judges shows. Today, as an official, he sees the same focus in the students that give reasons to him.

"Seeing how much more talented and more prepared kids are now, just in terms of their ability to deliver a set of reasons, is pretty amazing. But what I really enjoy is seeing those kids who want it the most, who have that real base of knowledge about what we do in this industry and also have that desire and that drive that makes them want it more than the rest," McCoy says. "There are certain sets of reasons that I will always remember. Over the last several years, there are several individuals that when I see them, I remember they gave me one of the best sets of reasons I have ever heard."

One thing is certain, McCoy will keep his calendar clear during the first Monday in September, so he can help with the National Barrow Show® Judging Contest, if needed.

"That contest has meant so much to me, and judging livestock has been so valuable to me that I want to make sure I can give back every bit I can," he says. "That's just a small part of it, but that contest right there means more to me than anything."

Most importantly, each September, McCoy has the chance to see the next generation of great hog men and women give their all in Austin.

"The contest itself, to me, is a one-time prospect show for the great minds that make up the future of the swine industry," he says.

"That's the one contest that you look forward to. That's the one that means the most. That is the pinnacle of the judging contests when you're a hog kid."

– Mike McCoy

“It takes a solid background to get through this contest successfully.”

– Dr. Clint Schwab

Dr. Clint Schwab made his first trip to the Mower County Fairgrounds in 2000 as part of the Colorado State University judging team. In 2011, he returned to Austin, as the CEO of the National Swine Registry.

Schwab, who is now the director of genetics for The Maschhoffs, LLC, credits livestock judging in general and the people he met along the way with guiding him down this career path, but says the National Barrow Show's® purebred roots taught him about the importance of continuous improvement.

“There was a ‘purebred tradition’ to that show that enabled me to solidify my perspective around how that event was a vector for many purebred seedstock breeders to merchandize genetics and share lines to improve their individual herds,” he says. “The importance of the continuous improvement in the fundamental components (soundness, growth, etc.) of breeding animals among the breeder’s improvement programs was always emphasized – much of what I learned from breeders is applied within my current role today.”

While he coached a string of successful Iowa State University judging teams, Schwab saw the “World Series of Swine Shows” as a place for his students to make connections and for the best youth in the industry to rise to the top.

“Students gained a solid perspective about what the purebred swine industry was all about, the inherent opportunities that exist and created a network of contacts in the industry that they didn’t have before,” he says.

Perhaps the greatest challenge he ever faced was not judging or even coaching during this event, but rather planning it, as the NSR CEO.

“Putting together the contest was an honor, but also a huge challenge – as I wanted it to remain at the same level of competition that I was part of as a contestant and a coach. Along with that, I felt it was important to represent the current status of the industry (and direction) and put together a committee that was at the leading edge of defining the next step of the industry,” Schwab explains.

Each year, the organizers spend a great deal of time making sure the National Barrow Show® contest still revolves around the swine industry and the fundamentals that prove to be profitable to purebred producers.

“For swine kids, this is the contest where the best of the best are decided,” he says. “It takes a solid background to get through this contest successfully.”

Andy Rash

Today, Andy Rash is a business owner, entrepreneur and showpig breeder, but in 2001, he became the only person in history to win both the National Barrow Show® Junior and Senior College Judging Contests.

When he judged at the collegiate level, Rash knew all about the prestige surrounding the Barrow Show, and he also knew what it would take to win, after judging several years on the very successful Eastern Hancock High School team from Indiana.

“You feel the pressure, but it is also mixed with excitement. When you go in there, you’re nervous, but at the same time, you’re excited to be there and have an opportunity to be among the elite collegiate swine judges in the country,” Rash says. “I’d say out of all the contests that I have competed in, in college and in high school, that one was most fulfilling.”

Part of the pressure came from the goals Rash set for himself. The rest came from the fact that some of the hardest classes he would see in his judging career would walk across the ring in Austin.

“The quality of classes sets the National Barrow Show® apart – they’re not easy,” Rash says. “They’re not bicycle classes, where you can just ride by. You have to study hogs, and you have to use the basics and look at the total picture.”

Not only are the classes tough, but so is the competition. Rash recalls looking across the ring and seeing the faces of competitors who are now some of the best swine show judges in the country.

“All the talented swine judges come out in force, and they want to win just as bad as you do,” he says.

And if the challenging classes and the steep competition aren’t enough to make the National Barrow Show® Judging Contest a test for even the best swine judges, the official committee will seal the deal. As Rash points out, the committee consists of the finest swine minds in the country. These aren’t people who have simply won a judging contest in the past, they’re elite breeders who carve their living out of the industry each day.

Although the NBS® contest leaves no room for error, Rash credits making those tough marks with his success as a businessman.

“The Barrow Show classes are, without a doubt, some of the toughest that a college judge will face. It’s the little things that sort them, but a decision has to be made,” he says. “Everyone standing around that ring wants to beat you, just like in corporate America.”

JGR Bred with a purpose!

Skull

(TBROO WOW 53-4 x
WGW9 THE GRIZZ 38-8)

Skull has one of the most massive ribs I have ever seen. You know he is for real, after you look at his skull, huge shoulder blade, big top, deep flank, and his huge, thick rump. He is very square on his feet and has high-quality toes and an almost perfect set to his rear legs. Oh, by the way, he has not melted at all.

$12,500 Top Selling Yorkshire Boar, 2013 Southwest Type Conference

We will be attending the 2013 NSR Fall Classic in Duncan, Okla.

We will deliver to the show. Call early for the best selection

Thumbs UP

$32,000 Champion
Yorkshire Boar,
2013 Indiana State Fair

(WIU1 SHAKIN HANDS 17-11 x
JJI1 SNOWCAT 11-4)

Purchased with Chuck & Ben Olsen, we are very pleased to be able to use this powerhouse. You have to love his athletic ability for as wide, square and muscular as he is. If you believe you build from the ground up, Thumbs Up's dew claw and toe spread with his high-quality toes, is as good as you'll find.

We will be planning a December bred gilt sale. Watch for the sale date.

SHOW MOM

Monthly

By Ann Fry

Kerri Schwerdtfeger

Stratford, Okla.

Husband: Kyle

Children: Tate-10 and Karli-9

Favorite NSR or NJSA Event:

It would have to be the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, Iowa. It is a time when my family and I get to spend quality time with other families, from all over the U.S., who have the same love and passion for showing pigs as we do.

Favorite part of being a "Show Mom": Watching my kids enjoy every part of it, from walking and grooming their show pigs at home, to watching them proudly enter into the ring. There is no greater feeling than seeing the look on their faces when they do well, knowing they have worked so hard to get there.

Proudest "Show Mom" Moment: I don't have just one, but if I have to choose, it would be when my daughter, Karli, won Champion Hampshire Barrow at the National Junior Summer Spectacular, this year. It was a total family effort, with her brother, Tate, working behind the scenes helping her get ready for the Grand Champion drive.

Item that you never leave for a show without: I wasn't sure what I was going to put for this one, so I asked my family, and my daughter Karli said, "your pigs."

Activities your family enjoys outside of the show ring: Spending time as a family, whether it is at home or at the kids' events, such as baseball, dance recitals or Wednesday night kids' club at church.

Trick to keep those show clothes clean: To not let them change into them until it is time for the kids to show. Actually, there is probably no such thing as keeping show clothes clean in a barn.

Your ability to drive a stock trailer is best described as: Well, I think I drive like a pro, but don't ask my husband, Kyle.

One way you were able to save the day or avert a crisis as a "Show Mom": Keeping their daddy in check, because if he's not together on show day, we are all in trouble!

Best tip you can give to other "Show Moms": Never forget why you got into showing in the first place: to be together as a family. Winning is great, but being a gracious loser and congratulating the friends around you is even greater. Don't forget the essentials when you leave the house, like their belt.

Recipe for life on the show road: Make lots of new friends and don't forget about the ones you already have. Enjoy this time with your family, because it won't last forever. Always have a winning attitude, but if you don't win, remember that's only one judge's opinion, so keep on keeping on.

A Great Day in

LOUISVILLE!

GOIN' GREEN (THUNDERUP x BIGEASY)

Class-winning boar of Class 3 STC 2013. The first Yorkshire boar exhibited from our breeding program, he turned some heads at the show! A special thanks to Winmor Farms and Showtime Sires for your purchase and to SGI for your contending bid. We bought back interest in this boar as well.

Although his pedigree was subsequently pulled for an incomplete nipple on one side, we still plan to use him extensively in our crossbreeding program. Contact Seth at Showtime Sires for semen (815-736-6097).

- Available at the farm:

Late April Yorks and Durocs, July Yorks bred like the boar pictured.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

RULING CLASS

SDF1 BOLD RULER 87-1 x MM1 CROWN ROYAL 10-6
Ruling Class will only strengthen our already deep set of red boars. Winner of the youngest class at Indiana, he has all the tools to make great red barrows. He has the pedigree, structure, bone and muscle, as well as a cool overall look that will get you to the winner's circle.

DOUBLE TIME

SS1 ABOUT TIME 59-2 x LFC9 HOW TO 50-3
Double Time was a class winner and our pick of the Yorkshires at the Indiana State Fair. He's tall fronted, big boned, with a massive rib and top. Whether you're trying to make junior gilts or barrows, he will move you quickly to the top.

Hog College HOME RUN DRIVE

MONDAY • SEPTEMBER 9

Immediately following the Truckload Show

"Chairman's Choice" Boar & Gilt

$250 Cash Prize awarded to the top boar and gilt selected by the committee.

"College Choice" Boar & Gilt*

$250 Cash Prize awarded to the boar and gilt ranked highest by the college teams.

High Collegiate Team*

$100 Cash Prize and one year subscriptions to Seedstock EDGE and Breeders Digest.

Eight Hog College boars and gilts will be presented in one ring for the Hog College® Home Run Drive.

The animals will be evaluated by a three-member Chairman's Committee, comprised of a representative from each swine association, to pick the boar and gilt they feel best represents their breed.

College teams also have an opportunity to rank the animals and vie for a team prize.

Don't miss this opportunity to see some of the best of all eight breeds compete!

A Tribute to Glenn Conatser

I first met Glenn Conatser in the late-'60s, when I was working for the American Yorkshire Club and Glenn was a livestock Extension specialist with the University of Georgia. We worked many sales and events together, plus, he raised Yorkshires so he attended national events as well. When Glenn was hired to replace Wilbur Plager as executive secretary, it was a joy for me to work as his fieldman/managing editor for several years before I became a full time auctioneer. As I have said before, his first type conference in 1973 in Louisville, Ky., was the first time we totaled $100,000. It is still one of my all-time favorites.

to sell a national worked in the after that. There our industry Glenn during his breed. In our last Glenn still shared in the welfare of the its breeders.

Our prayers are with Helen and family.

ATTENTION

SWINE EXHIBITORS & PARENTS

It is the responsibility of exhibitors and their families to use practical stockmanship skills and common sense when managing swine health. The following recommendations have been provided by the National Pork Board and Veterinarians in attempt to protect swine and human health.

Before leaving for a show, keep the following recommendations in mind:

- Clean trailers and show equipment before leaving for a fair/exhibition.
- If anyone in your family has flu-like symptoms, please do not attend fairs/exhibitions for 7 days after symptoms begin or until you have been fever-free for 24 hours without the use of fever-reducing medications, whichever is longer.
- If any of your pigs show signs of flu-like illness on the farm, check with your veterinarian before bringing your pigs to the fair/exhibition.
- If any of your pigs have had any case of diarrhea, regardless of cause, please do not bring these pigs to the fair/exhibition.

While at the show, take these simple precautions to protect yourself and others:

- Monitor your pigs for any signs of illness and report any illness to the veterinarian on-call.
- Wash your hands often with soap or use an alcohol-based hand cleaner, especially after you cough or sneeze or have contact with animals.
- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. If a tissue is not readily available, use your elbow joint to minimize hand contact.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth.
- Do not eat or drink near animals or animal pens.

When you come home from a fair/exhibition, take the following steps to ensure proper biosecurity:

- Isolate any showpigs that were exhibited at fairs/exhibitions away from other on-farm animals.
- Watch for any signs of illness after returning home.
- Clean and disinfect trailers, equipment and clothing.

For more information, refer to “A Champion’s Guide to Youth Swine Exhibition: Biosecurity” available at www.pork.org.

We appreciate your cooperation at fairs/exhibitions. It is the shared responsibility of every pork producer, our state associations and related-industry groups to work together to protect herd health and public health. Please take this opportunity to be proactive in helping to protect the future of our industry.

GENERAL INFORMATION

- » Entry fees for all entries must accompany the respective entry form.
- » All late entries will be charged double the regular entry fees. All entry fees are non-refundable.
- » The NSR reserves the right to close entries because of pen space limitations any time after the printed deadline.
- » All entries must be postmarked by Oct. 11, 2013.
- » All pedigrees for entries must be recorded by Nov. 8, 2013, or an additional rush fee will be charged.
- » All entries must be ear notched using the official NSR system (starting with number 1 in January and again in July of each year).
- » CROSSBRED BOARS: A documented stress test must be presented at check-in (this is a show and sale requirement for mature boars only, no weanlings). Stress status of boars will be listed in the show and sale catalog.
- » ALL animals (breeding and weanling) selected for sale must be offered for sale.

HEALTH REGULATIONS

1. Each animal entering the Stephens County Fairgrounds must be listed on an official interstate health certificate issued by a licensed, accredited veterinarian. This includes deliveries and parking lot purchases.
 - a. All animals and health certificates will be inspected by state officials prior to unloading.
 - b. Multiple animals may be listed on the same original copy. However, breeding stock and weanling pigs must be entered on separate original health certificates.
 - c. Each animal must also be accompanied with two photocopies of the original health certificate.
2. Certificate must be issued on or after Oct. 25, 2013, with the following information:
 - a. Name and address of consignor; consigned to:
Fall Classic • Stephens County Expo and Fair
2002 South 13th Street
Duncan, OK 73533
 - b. Individual identification of animal (ear notch).
 - c. NEW! ALL animals (purebreds, crossbreds, weanlings, breeding animals) MUST be identified by a federally recognized, permanently numbered ear tag.
 - d. ALL HEALTH CERTIFICATES MUST CARRY THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS: "Farm or origin of the swine has not had pseudorabies or swine dysentery in the last 12 months, has not had any signs or diagnosis of TGE or PEDv in the last 60 days, feeds no garbage, uses no PRV vaccine, and is not under quarantine for any disease condition; also that vesicular stomatitis has not been diagnosed within 10 miles of the farm of origin within the last 30 days."
 - e. Health status of animal, including dates of required tests and vaccinations MUST be listed.
 - f. ALL ANIMALS MUST be tested for pseudorabies (PRV) and brucellosis on or after Oct. 25, 2013, UNLESS they come from a PRV-qualified and brucellosis-validated herd. Swine tested for PRV and brucellosis must show the date blood sample was drawn (month, day and year). Either the Elisa, PCFIA, ALA or S/N tests are acceptable. Differentiable Elisa test will not be accepted. If the herd of origin is PRV qualified and brucellosis validated, individual testing of each animal is not required. In this case, the PRV qualification and brucellosis validation numbers must appear on the health certificate and complete quarterly herd test date (month, day and year) must be stated on health certificate.
 - g. ALL ANIMALS coming to the show MUST be vaccinated against Leptospirosis (6-way) including Bratislava and Erysipelas on or after Oct. 25, 2013. The complete date of vaccination MUST be listed on the health certificate.
 - h. ALL WEANLING animals MUST be vaccinated against mycoplasma & circovirus. This is a sale requirement for weanling pigs only.
 - i. It is strongly recommended that all animals be vaccinated against influenza.
 - j. All out-of-state entries MUST obtain an interstate permit number. The accredited veterinarian may obtain this permit number by calling the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture at 405.522.6141.
 - k. Your driver's license number MUST be included on your health certificate.
 - l. Your veterinarian's cell phone number MUST be included on your health certificate.
 - m. A premises ID number MUST be included on your health certificate.

EXHIBITORS & ELIGIBILITY

- » All exhibitors must be active members of the NSR or must pay the $75 participation fee. An active member must have recorded at least one litter in the 2013 fiscal year.
- » If an exhibitor has an NSR account that is past due, funds from the sale of their animals will be applied to their past-due account.
- » Only exhibitors consigning animals to the Fall Classic are allowed to bring additional animals onto the Stephens County Expo and Fair. Additional animals MUST abide by the same health requirements as Fall Classic entries.

REMINDERS

- ★ CERTIFICATES ARE NOT REQUIRED TO BE STAMPED BY THE STATE OF ORIGIN.
- ★ IN SOME INSTANCES, THESE RULES ARE IN ADDITION TO OKLAHOMA REGULATIONS, BUT ARE NECESSARY TO SELL ANIMALS INTO SOME STATES.
- ★ THESE RULES ARE THE SAME FOR BREEDING STOCK & WEANLING PIGS.
- ★ NEW! ALL ANIMALS ENTERING STEPHENS COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS (PUREBRED OR CROSSBRED WEANLING OR BREEDING ANIMALS) MUST BE IDENTIFIED BY A FEDERALLY RECOGNIZED, PERMANENTLY NUMBERED EAR TAG. THIS INCLUDES PARKING LOT DELIVERIES.

ARRIVAL & DEPARTURE

- » All hogs must arrive on the grounds between 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 20 and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 21.
- » All weanling pig entries must be checked in by 11 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 21.
- » Exhibitors transporting additional animals will be required to obtain official "Sale Permit" from the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture staff when entering the Stephens County Expo & Fair.
- » Before leaving the Stephens County Expo and Fair, this permit must be returned to agents of the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture, with a detailed buyers list documenting the destination of each animal (including pre-purchased deliveries, parking lot sales and sifted weanling pigs).

RULES & REGULATIONS

Enter online at: nationalswine.com

*RULES ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE • FOR UP-TO-DATE RULES & REGULATIONS VISIT OUR WEBSITE AT NATIONALSWINE.COM

BREEDING ANIMAL SALE

- » Breeding animal classes will be divided into classes as equal as possible by farrowing date.
- » A minimum of 60% of the number of each sex (boars & gilts) shown will be selected for the sale. These animals will be selected with no set number selling from any single class. Animals not selected for the sale can be consigned to the sale for an additional fee of $20 per head; this must be done by the conclusion of the show. If the animal sells, the fee will be applied toward the sale commission. If the animal does not sell, the fee is forfeited.
- » All animals selected and cataloged for the sale MUST go through the auction. Sale commission will be 15% for all animals. If an animal that is selected and cataloged for sale does not go through the sale ring, the exhibitor will be banned from exhibiting at NSR events for one year and will be charged 15% of the average selling price of their respective breed sale. This amount must be paid before reinstatement will be allowed. The exception to this rule will be if an animal has become injured or ill and is inspected by a NSR staff member prior to the sale.
- » The NSR acts only as the agent between buyer and seller. If proper payment is made by the buyer in a timely manner, the NSR will make settlement with the seller in approximately 30 days after the sale.

SPECIAL BREED REQUIREMENTS (Hampshire & Yorkshire Exhibitors)

- » By entering any hog in the Fall Classic, the owner warrants that the hog meets specific breed requirements.
- » Such warranty is, however, solely that of the seller and not that of the HSR and AYC, and the HSR and AYC assumes no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.
- » If any Hampshire or Yorkshire animal sold at the Fall Classic is found to be a carrier of the color gene after being tested through the procedures approved by the HSR and AYC, the seller agrees that he/she will promptly refund the full purchase price to the buyer. There will be no refund of NSR commission from animals that are carriers of the color gene.

What is Biosecurity?

Bi-o-se-cu-ri-ty (bahy-oh-si-kyoor-i-tee)

Biosecurity means doing everything you can to reduce the chances of an infectious disease being carried onto your farm by people, animals, equipment or vehicles.

Preparing for a Swine Exhibition

- ✓ Complete Youth PQA Plus® training
- ✓ Double-check show requirements, examples would be; identification, vaccinations and health papers.
- ✓ Clean and disinfect equipment
- ✓ Evaluate pig's health on a daily basis

Biosecurity Word Search

Genetics that WORK!

Congratulations to Katelyn O'Farrell on her Champion Crossbred and Reserve Overall at the '13 Ind. State Fair. This barrow was out of the first litter of MR. DEEDS!

Dirty Deeds

Thanks to Shipley Swine Genetics for their private treaty purchase of this powerhouse. Sired by GUNSLINGER on a littermate sister to MR. DEEDS. We are very excited about the future of this guy and will use him on our best sows. For semen call 740.745.2911.

Mr. Deeds

Sired Champion Crossbred & Res. Grand Overall at '13 IN State Fair, along with multiple class winners at IN & IA State Fairs. Litters available out of MR. DEEDS perfect for the Southwest.

Semen Available!

Delivery available to CIRCLE OF GOLD and the NSR FALL CLASSIC. Litters available out of MR. DEEDS, GUNSLINGER, BIG CHANGE, DYNASTY, RENIG, BONE THUG and SUPERFLY.

Mr. Bigz

MR. BIGZ is sired by GUNSLINGER on a full sister to MR. DEEDS. MR. BIGZ is big everywhere: Big rib, back and butt! All of that in a correct package. If you need to make a change for the better call Shipley's at 740.745.2911.

GRAND CHAMPION MARKET BARROW, 2013 MISSOURI STATE FAIR

Congratulations to Abbe Gibson and Family for exhibiting this outstanding barrow at Sedalia.

Congratulations to Matt Rohrig for producing this N-Fusion x Hillbilly Bone champion.

You know, once upon a time, showing pigs was simple. Families bought pigs, took them home – fed, cared and groomed them for the fair. Where, in the shuffle, did we lose that tradition?

This champion barrow was purchased off the farm in April. He was taken back to Eagleville, Mo., and put in his pen. There, he stayed until time to go to the fair. He was fed ESP Show Grower until he weighed about 120 pounds, then switched to ESP Main Event 16/5 until his desired show weight. 14 days before the show he was put on two ounces of ESP Muscle Maker and one pound of ESP Body Builder, and on show day at Sedalia – that was what he was eating. No $200 buckets of fluff to make him better. No supplement to make sure he can walk – nothing but high-quality feed along with a lot of tender-loving care.

UNDERSTAND, WE FIRMLY BELIEVE THAT WITH A SOUND, STRAIGHT-FORWARD NUTRITION PROGRAM FROM ESP, ALONG WITH HARD WORK, DISCIPLINE AND INTEGRITY FROM THE YOUNG PEOPLE INVOLVED, AND YES, SPRINKLE IN A TOUCH OF GOOD LUCK, you will compete at the highest level.

AS LISTED IN OUR NOVEMBER ONLINE SALE

All we have to say about this 66 litter is WOW. When we went to Richard and Brock Herren's this spring and saw Metaflight we thought he was the most unique Yorkshire boar we had ever seen, and we knew we needed to use him hard. What we didn't know was that the first litter would knock our socks off!! These guys are cookie cutters in terms of their fundamental skeleton. These guys are extremely loose jointed, and their center cavity is absolutely immense. On top of that, they're so good looking from the side and just the right frame size to win a big barrow show. These guys come with a pedigree, so they'd make GREAT options for the South East Regional or Western Regional, but their quality is such, they would also make FANTASTIC options for OYE or Houston.

Instant ADDICTION

Introducing...

INSTANT ADDICTION

A huge thanks to the crew at Curtis Show Pigs for making this guy available before The Crossbred Classic! Not only were we impressed with ADDICTION as a baby, but he certainly didn't let us down the next three times we made the trip to Thompson, Missouri. With no question, this boar is as good as any we have seen in terms of combining skeletal width and power in a correct build. He's perfectly rectangular underneath and built right in his angles, awesome balanced, and has an incredible look from the side. Simply put, use Instant Addiction to make show pigs better!

The Best Judge of Hogs

is TIME

Roughneck 39-2

Knowledge of Roughneck and what his skeleton tells us is the basis for our mating decisions.

Roughneck 39-2

SPF Q Damota Damont
Great grandson of Roughneck

The genetics used here are heavily inbred with these great sires.

Ugh
Son of Roughneck

CPMW Preacher 7-12
Beacon x Huggy Bear

First generation blended genetics that offer muscle and production.

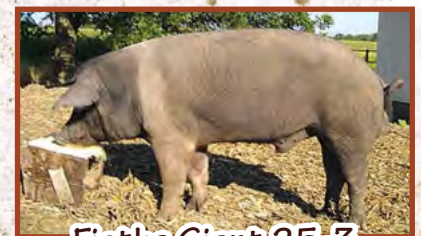

CPMW Outlier 6-2
Beacon x Huggy Bear

Fieths Beacon 28-2

These boars put the "arrows in the bull's eye" for skeleton size and production.

Fieths Giant 25-3

Breed diversity is sometimes confused with genetic variation and phenotypic uniformity. Look at any ad in the Seedstock Edge that shows multiple sires and see if they don't all look alike. It's hard to decide whether to breed to the $3,000 boar or the $100,000 boar. The actual difference is so small. If you are going to improve a breed, you must have variation in type, and since everyone starts at a different place, everyone needs something different. Don't overlook these Hampshires' unique and potential contribution. Your self-confidence to pick the breeding piece you require is a quality for great success in livestock breeding.

10-9 Huggy Bear

Find the good in things and recombine them to make them better.

7-9 Beacon

Fieths 4-1

You don't have to run away from muscle if you have a skeleton big enough to put more on.

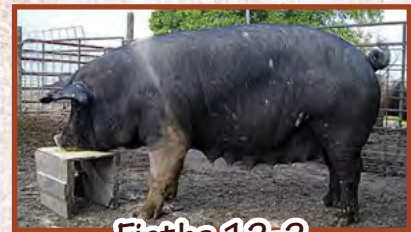

6-1 Beacon

Fieths 14-2

These genetic gems show you how to pay the bills. It's better to understand a little than misunderstand a lot.

Fieths 12-2

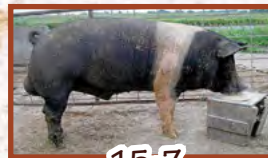

If you have a taste for breeding better Hampshires, you can make a difference by shuffling through our cold-blooded, impersonal selection program. All it takes is desire and determination. When you sample these line-bred genetics, you will keep uniformity within a litter and variation of type alive, "simultaneously." Anyone can paint, but not everyone's an artist.

KMRE GRUS POWER POINT 6-3

A true throwback Hampshire Champion Boar! He is stout skulled, tall shouldered, jet level, huge foot and forearm, big even toes, clean jointed, flexible, athletic, an aggressive attitude with a huge tail root and look of a breeding hog! Out of an outstanding litter and described by many as the best Point Maker son to surface.

Described by Judge Travis Platt, "Paint him any color and drop him in the ring at Expo, STC, any State Fair or Indiana and you have a truly great breeding boar that can run with the best of the best."

Thanks to all that expressed genuine interest in Power Point and for semen call Shaffer's Gold Rush 1-888-690-2022.

SEEDSTOCK EDGE • 203

"The exposure Showpig.com brings our operation is unmatched. We have the ability to reach a large number of customers from across the country through our online auctions and banner ads."

Hi Point Genetics

"Showpig.com has been the undisputed industry leader in show pig marketing since the advent of the internet. We have utilized the online auctions with great success marketing retired boars, lab equipment and show pig prospects. We have also purchased some outstanding herd sires for PSSS utilizing the online sales of America's top breeders. I highly recommend the staff of showpig.com as a reputable place to assist in all facets of marketing your show pig business."

Prairie State Semen Supply, Inc.

"Selling online with Showpig.com has expanded our market place and allowed us to sell show pigs from coast to coast."

Steve Cobb & Family

"Showpig.com provides great service from the start to finish of our online sales. Information is posted accurately and timely! Sales are promoted excellent through e-blasts, print and banners! Most important, there are no worries on sale day and in the closing out of sales!"

Tom Moyer & Family

Showpig.com

"The staff at Showpig.com has always been top notch to work with. We appreciate their professionalism, responsiveness and the fact that they know our industry. We've been very pleased with the partnership!"

WinMor Farms

"The best part about working with Showpig.com is working with the professional and experienced people that not only know marketing but also know and understand livestock and that is a huge advantage when communicating and sending information in."

Conover Showpigs

"Showpig.com has been extremely professional, easy, and enjoyable to work with. By advertising and selling show pigs on Showpig.com we are able to reach customers across the United States. The online auction website is easily accessible and fast. It is also easy for our customers to purchase our hogs that may not be able to make it to the farm due to travel and time restraints."

Shaffer's Gold Rush

"We have been fortunate enough to work with Showpig.com for several years now and have expanded our showpig sales beyond our expectations due to online sales. Through Showpig.com we can reach families from across the nation that we normally would not be able to. The professionalism, customer service and ease of the buying & selling process have made Showpig.com our first choice in online sales!"

Triple L Showpigs

"Showpig.com has proven to be the industry leader in online showpig sales. It is the most proven user friendly product available. We have formed countless new relationships with new customers that we would have never reached without Showpig.com's services. We look forward to working with Showpig.com exclusively as our online auctions agent and continuing to form relationships with new showpig customers through their services."

The Prequel

Real Hog Farms

By Jacee May

The Real Family

Chuck Real loaded five pigs in his trailer and headed to a sale in south Texas. This was the first sale he and his brother were invited to, and it became a pivotal moment for their operation. Real Hog Farms left the sale that day as the highest-averaging consignors, and according to the man himself, "To be accepted that early on was exciting."

This is especially impressive when you consider that in south Texas, near San Antonio, where Real Farms hails today - there were only a handful of pig sales in the 1960s. Everyone raised their own projects, and only a few people bought them.

Having the sale-topping showpigs paved the path to success for a young Real.

"There were not a lot of showpig events back then, not like it is today. Back then, everybody was in the hog business, it was just a way of life - a natural fit for anybody that was farming," he says.

Today, Real Farms takes pride in selling stock solely private-treaty. In fact, they haven't sold pigs in sales for more than 25 years. But, they'll never forget their humble beginning.

Being no stranger to the hog business, Real's parents and grandparents set a foundation in this industry for him. But, when Real and his older brother purchased their first bred gilt in 1964, their operation took a different direction.

"The show thing is what got us hooked to start with. We grew from there," he says.

Real started showing at his county fair, then San Antonio and before he added Houston to his belt.

He garnered Champion Berkshire Barrow at San Antonio in '67 and '69. It was capturing those banners that shaped the love he has for the hog business, and it continued to ignite a fire in young Real.

Growing up and getting started, the Reals faced some challenges just like any operation. But, those challenges were just stepping stones to the success the Reals have today.

"We had no water," he says. "We hauled it. Raising hogs in that type of environment was a challenge, but we didn't know any different. We just adapted and made it work."

Real also says learning, or re-learning the hog business, proposed a challenge to their operation.

"The number one thing was re-learning the hog business for my dad. He had been in it you know, 20 years earlier. My grandparents had been in it, and they just got out of it a few years before. Just learning how to do it and learning how to do the showpig thing was a challenge. It's not anywhere close to what it is today, just a learning curve," he recalls.

With the industry always changing, Real strives to stay on top of the game.

"Where we're headed and where we've been, there's one thing that's for sure - change. We do a lot of things different," he says.

Real knows the future of the hog industry is moving in the right direction. He puts emphasis on junior programs and the influence they have on younger generations involved with the hog industry.

"Junior programs have always been a part of what we've done all these years. It's a larger part today than it was before," he says.

Stockmanship, Real mentions, is vital for young people to learn. He believes it is becoming a lost art in certain industries.

"With junior programs, done with the right motives and goals, stockmanship can be learned and carried on to their future career - whatever it is, whether it's actual production or a related industry," he says.

Real relates the purebred and showpig operations to real world, commercial production. He believes the connection between these two industries needs to strengthen. This can be done by piquing the interest in young people to pursue careers in swine-related industries.

"It's important to keep the connection between commercial and purebred, showpig industries. We're all in this together," he says.

A quick glimpse into how some of our industry's premier producers got their start in the purebred swine business.
