Ad Dropout Policy

To maintain the advertising integrity of Seedstock EDGE, the late ad drop policy developed by the NSR Executive Committee will be upheld by the NSR Department of Marketing & Communications. If an advertiser reserves advertising space in Seedstock EDGE, he or she has until three days after the ad deadline to recall the advertising space. If an ad is pulled after that time, the late ad drop policy will apply. On the first occurrence, the advertiser will receive a written explanation of the policy. On any following occurrences, the advertiser will be charged half the cost of the reserved ad space.

Tradition

Whenever the word “tradition” is used, the first thing that comes to my mind is “Fiddler on the Roof” and Topol singing about the importance and value of tradition. You can hear the passion in his voice as he belts out, “Tradition, tradition.” Topol’s life was experiencing many changes, and he was struggling with the traditions he had grown up with and the traditions of his community. You can appreciate his concern for his family and the way his life was being turned away from the traditions he was comfortable with.

Continuing the same traditions would make everyone’s life less complex, but very seldom does life work out that way. The world is constantly changing. I remember one of my peers stating, “The longer you are around the swine industry, the faster it changes each year.” I could not agree more. As changes take place, opportunities present themselves throughout our industry.

Brian Arnold has a presentation where he states, “Never has there been more interest in showing swine in the junior arena.” This presentation was given to 40 Iowa State University students in mid-September at the National Swine Registry (NSR) office on a Saturday morning. Think about that – 40 college-age students traveled from Ames, Iowa, making several stops on their way to Indiana and back, giving up their weekend to travel in three passenger vans. They wanted to know what our industry is all about and what opportunities are available to them, as they move along their career path. Traditionally, we would think, if they were going to be involved in the swine industry, they would probably be going home to raise hogs. Today, some of them are looking at obtaining advanced degrees in genetics, nutrition, housing and reproduction. And, I appreciate these young people for making a commitment to gain more education, as there is no doubt we need our best minds in positions to make improvements and contributions in their respective fields.

Some are investigating the possibility of being associated with the communication world. Wow, what an impact for the swine industry and the agricultural community these people can make. Never in the history of the agricultural industry has it been more important to have many voices sharing the facts about our production practices and getting this information out to the American public. Social media has placed more emphasis on the need of presenting our story correctly.

“As changes take place, opportunities present themselves throughout our industry.”

The NSR recognizes the importance of the development of these young people, and the Executive Committee has made a commitment to invest in the hiring of a Director of Development. This position would oversee the development and operation of the NSR Foundation. We are seeking candidates for this position. If you know someone that would be a great leader for the NSR Foundation, please contact me at mike@nationalswine.com or call 765.463.3594. Our future includes the values cultivated by the tradition of the purebred swine industry, and we hold the future in our hands.

Grandparents

With my favorite season here and Thanksgiving quickly approaching, I thought about the people in my life I am thankful for. I realize I have taken the time to write about several important people in my life, but I've struggled to write about two of the most important – my grandpa, Ronnie, and Carol. I've had an editorial on deck for them for the past few months, but I had trouble finding the right words to describe this incredible man and his wife. But, I think I've finally gotten them down. Plus, it's only fitting with his birthday right around the corner, I dedicate this editorial to him. This means I don't need to send a birthday card, right?

When I was 7 years old, I remember watching my brother practice showing his steer in my grandfather's driveway. It was getting close to the fair, and it was crunch time. Kyle was obviously not doing what he was supposed to because he was getting yelled at fairly often. My grandfather doesn't know this, but on that day, while my brother was practicing, I was scared. From afar, he had me convinced I would never be able to handle 4-H. I'm fairly positive I cried about it to my mom later, when she came to pick us up. But, if anyone could make me feel better, it was my mom. When it came time for me to start 4-H two years later, I was ready. Over the next 10 years, that man taught me more than anyone. Believe me, I was yelled at a lot and maybe even more than my brother was, but he pushed me to be a better stockman and showman, and I'm grateful for that.

Although I'm very thankful my grandpa taught me about the livestock industry, I learned so much more from him and Carol. Whether we were spending time in the garden, barn or kitchen, there was always some kind of lesson being taught to me. Because of these two amazing people, I can hold my own in the barn, cook a good meal, grill up some amazing steaks, bake pretty much anything, can jams and relishes, plant a mean garden, sell just about anything, hold a conversation with anyone and stand up for myself and what I believe is right. Also, and maybe most importantly, I am very good with a weedeater.

The relationship I have with my grandpa and Carol made me a more independent and confident person, someone who was prepared to proudly take on the world with the skills I learned from these people I love and admire. I could turn to them with any question or problem, and they could help me with them all. They supported me when I was struggling to know what I wanted to do with my life. They reassured me when I was insecure about choices I needed to make. They encouraged me to push myself out of my comfort zone and see the world. And, they taught me to be the best woman I could be. I grew up with two of the most amazing people in my corner, and because of them, I am who I am today.

My grandpa, Ronnie, and Carol are the most selfless people I know, and they have done more for me than they care to admit. I realize how fortunate I am to have been able to have such a great relationship with my grandparents, and it's not something I take lightly. The knowledge that has been passed down to me from Grandpa and Carol is something I will remember and treasure forever. Thank you for your love and support; you'll never know how much you really mean to me. I'll love you always.

Weddings and pigs sales

Over Labor Day weekend, I answered, “Yes,” to arguably one of the most important questions a girl can be asked. For those of you who may be surprised I managed to convince someone to spend forever with me, join the club. I’m pretty lucky.

Like many girls, who may or may not have been secretly dreaming of planning their wedding, I dove in with images of blush pink and lace dancing in my head. What I discovered is wedding planning is more like work than a fairy tale. Clearly, my Pinterest-addled brain defied my more practical side, which is why I’m here to tell you wedding planning is a lot like planning a pig sale.

First things first – you need to set a date.

Whether you just got engaged or decided you’re going to offer a set of bred gilts, the first question you will be asked is, “Have you set a date yet?” Now, if you’re like me, you may have it narrowed down to a general time window such as a season or a month, but you must trek on toward a specific calendar day. Thus, you will start calling sales or event coordinators, depending on the occasion. You will likely have a little trouble finding a date within your verified time window at a venue, with the appropriate amount of charm, within your budget that will comfortably hold all of your friends and family, or maybe that is just a wedding problem. Finally, you will find the perfect place and declare your date. You will call up friends and family to let them know what to mark on their planners, or maybe you call your fieldman to let them know what date your gilts will be offered. Undoubtedly, you will get at least one response along the lines of, “Don’t you know {insert show or sale here} is that day?” In my case, this also applies to wedding plans.

Good photographs are imperative.

They say a picture is worth a thousand words. In online pig sales, a good photo can be worth a thousand dollars, because it’s often the difference between the high-selling barrow and its littermate. When it comes to wedding planning, a grand won’t buy you much in the way of photos. Apparently, the wedding industry has long since realized the value of a great shot. These days, taking engagement photos is also the norm, which leads to a second photo day. Everyone knows tensions can run high in the photo pen. Which angle will look the best? Why are they not cooperating? Where do we need to shoot from to make them look the stoutest? (Some of these are only applicable for pig sales.) I even used some of the best known prospect-picturing tips for our engagement photos. I went into the photo shoot just a tick hungry in hopes of looking slim. While I guess it makes prospects more cooperative, I was just “hangry.”

It’s a family affair.

With this much going on, you’re bound to need back up. That’s where the family comes in. Whether they’re pulling pans for you in the prospect pen or pulling strings to try to get your favorite venue, they are there for you no matter what. Now, that’s not to say there won’t be slight disagreements about how a barrow needs to be described or how your invitation needs to be worded. But, the best thing about family is they always have your back. So, if you have a hypothetical meltdown while you’re “hangry” before your engagement photos, just sure every angle will make you look a little too stout, they’ll be there for you. One of the coolest things about wedding planning is you will have not just one support group, but two.

It will all be worth it.

When the gavel falls on the block as the last entry steps through the ring or extended bidding finally ends online, there is no doubt you feel a little pride for a job well done. You’ve showcased your newest genetics in the best way you knew how. You spent countless hours preparing for this sale, but at the end of the day you think it was worth it. I have no doubt when next summer rolls around, once all the decorating, vows, cake cutting, picture taking and partying is done, it will be worth it. Not only will we be able to spend an entire day celebrating with friends and family who love us, but most importantly it marks the first day we’re officially partners in this journey called life. Sure, wedding planning may take a lot of time, patience and money, but I’ll gain a best friend, confidant, team member, partner in crime and husband – and that’s worth it.

SENECA VALLEY VIRUS: WATCH OUT FOR THIS LOOK-ALIKE

Seneca Valley virus (SVV) may prove to be the next significant disease of concern to impact U.S. pork producers' herds. The disease has been identified in both exhibition and commercial swine in at least seven different states in the Midwest and South. The number of reported cases this year has jumped from two to three to more than 30, since July.

Herd owners should pay close attention to their animals for signs of SVV, which closely mimic foot-and-mouth disease (FMD), a foreign animal disease. Laboratory testing is the only way to distinguish between the two diseases, which are in the same family of viruses. In the current environment of global movements and emerging diseases, producers should not be complacent in obtaining a confirmatory diagnosis.

SVV is a relatively new discovery, and much is still to be learned about the pathogen and its transmission, control and prevention. Anecdotally, some producers are reporting high numbers of ill pigs, while others are reporting few clinical signs. This may or may not be attributed to the presence of different strains of virus.

SIGNS OF SVV:

The following are clinical signs that may or may not be present in individual cases:

- Blisters, or vesicles (intact or ruptured), on the snout or in the oral mucosa
- Acute lameness in a group of pigs (up to 50 to 60 percent of finishing pigs in one case report)
- May see redness or blanching around the coronary bands (where the hoof meets the leg)
- May see ulcerative lesions on or around the hoof wall
- Anorexia, lethargy and/or febrile
- In the early course of the disease, fevers up to 105° F have been reported
- High mortality

BE PROACTIVE

Producers and veterinarians are truly on the front line of this battle. Producers should be especially diligent in looking for signs in herds that have traveled to exhibitions and/or have received swine within the last few months. Participation at shows in the upper Midwest has been a common thread in a number of cases.

Clinical signs of vesicles and lesions should be reported to the state veterinarian as a potential foreign animal disease. Producers should work with their private practitioner for a confirmed diagnosis.

Producers should not send pigs with any of the listed clinical signs to slaughter. (Blisters and erosions are grounds for rejection during inspection.) Once recovered, swine may be sent to slaughter, as they do not pose a food safety risk.

While the U.S. has not had a case of FMD for more than 80 years, no one can be complacent about watching for signs. After all, the world and the pork industry have changed a lot since FMD was last seen here in 1929.

“Producers and veterinarians are truly on the front line of this battle.”

— Dr. Bret D. Marsh

America's Best Genetics (ABG) Makes Whirlwind Tour

America's Best Genetics (ABG) was recently involved in promoting U.S. purebred swine seedstock at three venues in Asia. The trip started in Daegu, South Korea, where Dr. Douglas Newcom, National Swine Registry (NSR) Vice President of Global Technical Service, was joined by ABG members Monte Lutz, of Global Swine Exchange of Iowa, and Max Waldo, of Waldo Genetics, at the KISTOCK trade show. This show, held every other year, draws a large international contingent of exhibitors and attendees. Many current and former customers visited the booth.

Following KISTOCK, Newcom and Waldo traveled to the Republic of Vietnam. There, they joined personnel from International Nutrition, Nebraska Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Grains Council to host a jointly-funded swine symposium on genetics and nutrition. The seminars were held in Ho Chi Ming City in the south and Hanoi in the north. Newcom and Waldo both made presentations related to U.S. purebred breeding stock and farm profitability. ABG member Tony Clayton of Clayton Agri-Marketing was also in attendance.

Before returning to the U.S., Newcom and Waldo joined NSR Director of China Operations, Yvette Zhou, in Xiamen, China for the Xiamen Swine Expo. This was the first year a trade show was incorporated into the annual scientific program. Zhou made a presentation during the China Swine Science Conference outlining key questions to ask your genetic supplier and reinforcing whole farm profitability as the goal of any swine enterprise. Yuxin Chen, of Waldo China, and Freddie Grohmann, of Cedar Ridge Genetics, also participated in trade show activities.

Upon returning to the U.S., Newcom traveled to Albion, Indiana, to visit Whiteshire-Hamroc. Tony Clayton, of Clayton Agri-Marketing, had a group of visitors from Vietnam interested in stocking a large genetic and commercial system with U.S. purebred swine genetics. Newcom explained how NSR worked with its members to facilitate genetic improvement and how we could cooperate with them in the future. Dr. Mike Lemmon and Mark Brubaker explained how Whiteshire-Hamroc manage their genetic program and utilize the NSR.

During Newcom's absence, Mike Paul, CEO of the NSR, hosted Lemmon and Cook Zhong, of Beijing-Whiteshire, and their potential business partner from China. Paul explained the background of NSR, its mission in the U.S. purebred genetics business and how the registry assists members maximize genetic improvement.

Vote for the NSR Boards of Directors

The nominating committees have made their selections, and the 2016 NSR Boards of Directors candidates are ready to serve. Don't miss your chance to cast a vote. Ballots will be mailed Nov. 1, and should be returned to the NSR office and postmarked by Nov. 27.

ELECTION-VOTING PROCEDURE

As a result of the uniform By-Laws created by the Long-Range Strategic Planning process, all four breed associations have adopted the following procedure for the upcoming election. If you are an active senior member of the American Yorkshire Club, the United Duroc Swine Registry, the Hampshire Swine Registry or the American Landrace Association, you will receive a ballot in November.

Upcoming Show Dates & Deadlines

American Royal

The American Royal will be held Oct. 23-25 at the American Royal Complex in Kansas City, Missouri. For a full schedule see page 72.

NAILE

Entries for the North American International Livestock Exhibition (NAILE) Market Hog Show closed Oct. 1. NAILE will be held Nov. 7-9 at the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville, Kentucky. For a full schedule see page 72.

Fall Classic

Duncan, Oklahoma, will once again be the home for the NSR Fall Classic on Nov. 18-21. Entries closed on Oct. 7. For a full schedule see page 73.

Arizona National

The Arizona National is now an NJSA-sanctioned show. The event will be held in Phoenix, Arizona, on Dec. 27-Jan. 1. Entries are due on Oct. 31. For a full schedule see page 73.

Winter Type Conference

The Winter Type Conference will once again be held at the Georgia National Fairgrounds and Agricenter in Perry, Georgia, in conjunction with the NJSA Southeast Regional. The open show and sale will take place on Jan. 30. Entries are due by Dec. 10. The entry form and show rules and regulations may be found on page 77-78 or online at nationalswine.com.

Southeast Regional

The Southeast Regional will be held in Perry, Georgia, from Jan. 27-31, in conjunction with the Winter Type Conference. All entries must be owned by Dec. 1 and entered online by Dec. 10. A schedule of events can be found on page 74 and the most up-to-date rules and regulations as well as an entry form can be found on nationalswine.com.

Births

Bailey June Tucker • Born Sept. 19, 2015

Bailey June Tucker

Scott and Rachelle Tucker are proud to announce the birth of their daughter Bailey June Tucker on Sept. 19, 2015, at 10:55 p.m. at Emanuel Medical Center in Turlock, California. Bailey was 8 lbs. 5 oz. and 21½ inches long.

Scott and Rachelle work on their family's farrowing operation and wean-to-finish farm for Golden State Genetics/Pork Power Farms.

Obituaries

Michael L. Bayes • 1952-2015

Michael L. Bayes, 63, passed away on Sept. 16, at his home. He was born to the late James and Hilda Bayes on June 30, 1952.

Bayes loved working in agriculture and was active in the Ohio Pork Producers. He was preceded in death by his parents and aunt, Betty Deardurff. Bayes leaves behind his wife of 26 years, Kathy Bayes, as well as numerous friends and relatives.

Family greeted friends on Sept. 20, at Porter-Tidd Funeral Home, Mount Sterling, Ohio. Funeral services were held Sept. 21, at the funeral home. Burial followed at Pleasant Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to a charity of your choice. Condolences may be sent to the family by visiting tiddfuneralservice.com.

of Em All

By Ann Fry

For 75 years, livestock enthusiasts from around the world made the trip to Chicago each fall for the International Livestock Exposition. They would be greeted with the sounds of railcars being loaded and cattle being auctioned off in the Chicago Union Stock Yards. The smell of tan bark and animals drifted in the crisp November air. This was the competition they worked for all year. The Yards stood in stark contrast to the skyscrapers rising in the sky and city lights twinkling in the distance.

Agricultural leaders, in 1899, dreamed of creating an event to benefit the agricultural interests of the U.S., encourage livestock breeders to improve production and increase both foreign and domestic meat consumption. Thus, the International Livestock Exposition was born, supported by the Union Stock Yard and Transit Company of Chicago.

The International is regarded as one of the premier gathering places and most respected shows in livestock history. It began in 1900 and closed its doors in 1975. Even after the final show was held, the International has served as a model for livestock shows around the world, and it lives in the memories of those who attended.

Dan Baker

In 1964, Dan Baker thought there couldn't be any city bigger than Columbus or Indianapolis. That year, he had his first opportunity to attend the Chicago International Livestock Exposition as a Spot fieldman, and his eyes were opened to a new concept of a big city.

"When I got into Chicago in my '59 Ford, with all these lanes going this way and arrows going that way, it probably was a record number of times a horn was blown at a country kid in Chicago," Baker laughs.

Once he fought his way through traffic and parked his car for the week, he remembers feeling like a kid on Christmas Day, filled with anticipation and excitement. Baker understood how important the International Livestock Exposition itself was to breeders and livestock enthusiasts around the world from reading about it in the Drover's Journal, a daily publication produced at the Chicago Union Stock Yards.

Finding himself standing at the entry gate of the International Amphitheater was exhilarating for the country boy from Ohio who had only read about it.

"The Amphitheater was an awesome building, especially for somebody who hadn't seen that kind of thing or experienced that kind of atmosphere before," he says.

The International Amphitheater, built in 1934 to host the International Livestock Exposition, replaced Dexter Park, a horse-racing track that was destroyed by a fire in May of 1934. The International Amphitheater quickly made Chicago the convention capital. Baker recalls, the Democratic National Convention was held there in August 1968, in the same place cattle would be shown three months later.

When Baker finally had the chance to attend, the thing that really impressed him was the beef cattle show. The International was one of the few events where Baker and his fellow breed representatives were able to enjoy more than just the hog show. So, when their responsibilities in the swine barn were finished, a number of them would slip over to the main arena to observe the show cattle and their owners.

"I really enjoyed watching the people at that event. At that time, there were a lot of wealthy people in the Chicago area who had farms. You would see ladies in mink coats and fancy jewelry and men in suits wearing the very finest in hats," he says. "It was an event you see nothing like today."

Baker was equally impressed with the Chicago Union Stock Yards. Built in 1864 on the south side of town, the Union Stock Yards were designed to consolidate several small stock yard operations scattered along the five railroads leading to Chicago. It eventually had 2,300 separate livestock pens. Hotels, saloons, restaurants and offices were added to accommodate the community around the yards. It was almost a city unto itself. The Yards were once deemed the busiest square mile in the world.

Having the Yards nearby gave the International an atmosphere unlike any other show, which is the one thing Baker will tell you he misses most.

Dr. Roger Hunsley

Dr. Roger Hunsley still remembers walking onto the dirt floor of the International Amphitheater to participate in the 1958 National Collegiate Judging Contest. For the rural-South Dakota native, it was an overwhelming, yet fascinating experience. Even today, you can still hear a hint of awe and reverence in his voice as he recalls the show that ended 40 years ago.

"It had an atmosphere you didn't find anywhere else. You were walking in the footsteps of some of the greatest livestock judges, breeders, college professors and judging teams that have ever been documented in animal history," he says. "It was a pretty overwhelming experience really."

1958 wasn't the first year Hunsley attended the Chicago International Livestock Exposition. It was a moment stamped in Hunsley's mind forever, as were his trips to the show in 1971 and 1973. Those two years, the Indiana boys he coached at Purdue University stepped onto the dirt floor of the Amphitheater and earned the coveted bronze bull trophy presented to the winning livestock judging team.

Coaching a team to a championship in Chicago was something Hunsley had gotten a taste of ten years before as a graduate student at North Dakota State University (NDSU). His major professor's wife had fallen ill in the fall of 1960, and Hunsley was charged with preparing the judging team to compete at the national contest. He spent two months with the team, and when the dust settled, the NDSU judging team took home the first championship title of any kind in the history of the school. That experience encouraged Hunsley to earn his PhD and become a college professor and livestock judging coach.

As someone who has spent his life teaching people, it should be no surprise that Hunsley looks at the International Livestock Exposition as more of an educational event rather than just another livestock show. He recalls the International was one of the premier gathering places for livestock breeders, of all species, for the 75 years it was held.

"The International provided a place to meet for breeders from all over the world to discuss the future of their industries and their breeds of livestock," he says. "I think a lot of the decisions made there were pretty instrumental for some of the direction of the livestock industry. It was monumental to think in terms of a livestock educational event, at that time."

These meetings between breeders, college professors and livestock associations were often held in the lobbies of the historic Stock Yard Inn, a hotel and restaurant near the Chicago Union Stock Yards. The Stock Yard Inn was also home to the prestigious Saddle and Sirloin Club. The Saddle and Sirloin Club, now recognized as the world's largest and most valuable portrait collection devoted to a single industry, was founded in 1903 by Chicago Union Stock Yards' leaders. Its purpose was to honor those who have made great contributions to the North American livestock industry. The Saddle and Sirloin Club was relocated from the Stock Yard Inn to the South Wing of the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville, in 1976.

cluded in the Saddle and Sirloin Club hangs one to recognize Hunsley and his contributions to the industry as a professor, coach, judge and breed association representative. Being included in such an esteemed club is one of the crowning glories of Hunsley's life.

"If there was ever a highlight in my life, that would be it. For some young boy that grew up in the middle of the sticks of South Dakota, I never figured in my life I would ever have a chance to even see something like the Saddle and Sirloin club, much less be involved in it," he says.

The International was no doubt a special event for Hunsley, but the thing that has the most meaning to him is the National Collegiate Judging Contest, started there in 1900.

"I think that judging contest has developed more of our industry's leaders and animal agriculture more than any other single factor," Hunsley says.

Jim Rodibaugh

The Chicago International Livestock Exposition is the first show Jim Rodibaugh can remember having a junior hog show. This meant the Rodibaugh family could take 42 head of hogs from Rensselaer, Indiana, to Chicago each November – six for the open show, six for the junior show and 30 for three truckloads. They did this from 1969 to 1971, and took home every grand and reserve title they could all three years.

The responsibility to feed their 42 head, along with 40 more from their neighbors, fell to Jim. The hogs had to stay a week at the International after they showed, so Jim was left in Chicago to care for the hogs, while everyone went home to finish harvest.

"I would start feeding in the morning, and I would basically just feed all day. By the time I got done it was pretty much time to start all over," Jim says.

The majority of the hogs shown those three years, from the Rodibaugh family, were sired by a Chester White boar named Charger and out of Hampshire sows. Charger was the first boar to ever be sold at a state fair, and Jack Rodibaugh, Jim's father, bought him for $2,100. Jack was one of the first purebred breeders in the country to start crossing purebreds, a concept he discussed at the International with a Louisiana ag teacher a few years before he decided to try it.

As it turned out, there was something to Jack and the Louisiana ag teacher's idea. In 1969, Jack drove a barrow they called Jasper to Grand Champion honors at the International, and son, Max, had a littermate to Jasper that won the junior show. Jasper sold for $2,800 to the American Cyanamid Company, who then donated the pig to Purdue University. Dr. Roger Hunsley used Jasper to show how a pig's muscle, fat and bone structure affects conformation and shape. A movie was made that can still be found in college libraries across the country, and Hunsley used his slide show presentation as recently as 2013 in South Africa. Jasper was called the "ideal market hog" for many years, and several hog breeders still have models of Jasper proudly displayed in their homes.

Charger continued to produce for the family. In 1970, Jim showed the barrow that won the junior division and went on to be Grand Champion. In 1971, Betsy Rodibaugh sold her Grand Champion Barrow at the International to Bob Evans for a world record of $8,815.

Although the International wasn't a big show in numbers for hog breeders, it was an important show because of the publicity you received if you won.

"If you could win that show, because it was held in Chicago and the reporters covered it, your picture was on the front of almost every newspaper in the country. The Chicago International was the pinnacle of the shows because of the press," Jim says.

Not only were the Rodibaughs on the front page of every newspaper, they were also on the front page of the Chester White magazine each time they won – an even better marketing tool for a hog breeder. After Jasper won in 1969, the demand for Jack Rodibaugh-bred pigs dramatically increased. In 1971, the family held their first 4-H pig sale, which is now the longest-running, live auction 4-H pig sale in the U.S.

Al Snedegar

Al Snedegar attended the Chicago International Livestock Exposition as a Purdue student working with the swine farm in the mid-'60s. At that time, almost every land-grant university exhibited livestock at the International, and they usually exhibited all three species. In fact, Purdue took an 80-pound Southdown wether to Chicago in 1965 that was named Grand Champion.

"That was the most famous Boilermaker of that era," Snedegar says.

“His picture was plastered everywhere, and he showed up all kinds of places. I remember that lamb I walked by every day became so famous.”

Universities competing against breeders like the Keppy family, Oscar Anderson and Jack Rodibaugh is what made the International different from any show young people experience today, in Snedegar’s mind. Both the breeders and universities were there to promote their farms and their programs, to meet and discuss ideas and to determine what changes needed to be made within each species to fit the packing industry’s demands.

For the eastern-Indiana farm boy, traveling into Chicago was unlike anything Snedegar had experienced, at that time in his life.

“The atmosphere, the buildings, downtown, the stock yards, the activity – it was different for a boy that grew up on a farm with lots of space,” he says.

He recalls the area around the International Amphitheater and the Yards as being very congested. Houses were right next to each other, and businesses were wall-to-wall with no alley between them. The area was built for the Yards and people who worked there every day, so there were several diners and bars in the immediate vicinity.

Eating at the Stock Yard Inn was something Snedegar will always remember. Legendary Purdue professor Hobe Jones took all the students who worked in the barn to the Stock Yard Inn restaurant one evening, and it was the most expensive and highest-quality meal Snedegar had ever eaten. But, what Snedegar really remembers is the tradition that surrounded them as they ate.

“All those pictures from the Saddle and Sirloin Club that line the halls at Louisville now were there. That was their home, and you saw a lot of history and tradition that went back a long way,” he says. “There was just something about the air and tradition and the past that was there you don’t find at any hog events anymore.”

The International Livestock Exposition was an event Snedegar is glad he was a part of. It gave him great moments, like having a party for a Shorthorn steer a fellow student showed for three years at the International. Snedegar got an education there, in the middle of the U.S. meat industry, he couldn’t have received in any classroom. But, it was the people he met and the relationships he formed at the International he is most grateful for, which he knows is a tradition that will carry on with every livestock exhibition.

Colleen Callahan

While most families were sitting down to turkey and stuffing on Thanksgiving, Colleen Callahan and her parents were either in line at Johnny Ott’s diner or traveling home from the Chicago International Livestock Exposition. Callahan grew up attending the show with her mother and father, Fran, who was a fieldman for the Chicago Union Stock Yards and later swine superintendent for the International.

The first year Callahan got to be an exhibitor at the International was November of 1960. She was 9-years-old, and her father had purchased a bred Hampshire gilt she named Lady Luck from Carr Brothers, in McNabb, Illinois. Lady Luck lived up to her name. She farrowed in June of that year and had seven boars and two gilts. Callahan castrated all of the boars and

The Stone Archway Gate (pictured below) marked the entrance to the Union Stock Yards and the Chicago International Livestock Exposition. Today, they are the only landmark that remains of the square mile that was once dominated by the Yards.

"Even if there was a venue to be built in Chicago today and a movement to hold a show there today similar to what the International was or NAILE is now, it would never be the same." — Colleen Callahan took every one of them to the International, where they all placed in the top three of their classes. One of the barrows ended up being Grand Champion, making Callahan the youngest exhibitor to ever have a champion.

Her barrow sold at the auction for $23/pound, totaling $4,715 – her or anticipated," Callahan says.

In addition to being flown around the country, Callahan did several newspaper, radio and television interviews after earning the champion title. It was her interview with Orion Samuelson, who had just arrived at WGN, that determined her career path.

Chicago Tribune agricultural writer, Dick Orr, gave Callahan a leg up on all of her coursework when she got to school.

Callahan remembers the International as an educational event not just for herself, but also for the people of Chicago.

"What made the show so unique was its location. It was held in a metropolitan area, and that event could be used for educational purposes. People from the city could come to their own backyard and see every species of livestock, the competition, the rodeo and entertainment," she says.

The International was a moment in time Callahan will always appreciate. While she regrets a major livestock show is no longer held in Illinois, she doesn't wish the International back.

"Even if there was a venue to be built in Chicago today and a movement to hold a show there today similar to what the International was or NAILE is now, it would never be the same," Callahan says. "The times are different, the setting is different. What I'm really proud of is the rich history the International had that many shows have tried to duplicate, but the best they can do is just establish themselves. Maybe they can use the International as a model, but there will never be another one."

The Stock Yard Inn was a place for breed associations, producers and livestock enthusiasts to gather and discuss ideas during the International. It was also home to the Saddle and Sirloin Club, founded in 1903 to honor those who have made great contributions to the North American livestock industry. The Saddle and Sirloin Club was relocated to the South Wing of the Kentucky Exposition Center in Louisville, in 1976.

college fund, as it turned out. The feed company they used, Honegger Feed, purchased her barrow and renamed him Mr. Pig Popper. The day after the sale, representatives from the feed company took Callahan shopping at Morris Men's Shop, located in the Stock Yard Inn, for new cowboy boots, show jeans, a new shirt and a suede jacket with fringe. Mr. Pig Popper was going on a road show, and they wanted to outfit the person who had fed the pig. Honegger Feed had their own plane, and they flew Callahan, her mother and Mr. Pig Popper to all of their distribution points and had the pig set up in department stores to tell people they could raise champions too, if they fed Honegger Feed.

"It was an environment and experience I couldn't have ever imagined

"As I was being interviewed by Orion, I realized I like that. I wanted to be the one asking the questions, the one learning from the people I interviewed and helping people learn who would be listening to those interviews. So, that's what I did," she says.

Callahan became the first woman farm broadcaster in the U.S., a success she credits partly to her involvement with the International. Callahan, who is now the Illinois Director for USDA Rural Development, attended the University of Illinois to major in agriculture communications, after spending time in the press room of the International. Being able to see the process that went on behind the scenes of developing photographs, setting type, writing furiously to meet a deadline and meeting the Chi-

Coming HOME

By Katie Maupin

Coming Home is the second article in a three-part series of stories focusing on farm succession planning. Read last month's story on how to build your own legacy before a family passes the torch to a young person involved in the industry next month.

In 1971, Earl Cain purchased eight bred Hampshire gilts from Dale and Verle McGraw. Earl was a hog buyer for Oscar Mayer at the time, and he saw an opportunity to supplement his family's income on their few acres in Slater, Iowa. Little did Earl know, he was building a legacy.

By 1975, their Hampshire business had grown to the point the family moved home to Chariton, Iowa. With the help of family and the FHA, they bought 360 acres, and the rest, as Earl says, is history.

Those familiar with the Cain family and their businesses, Cain Super Sires Boar Stud and Cain Family Farms, will realize there is a lot of "history" that helped transform eight bred gilts into a successful boar stud and one of the largest recorders of belted hogs in the country. Today, the EC herdmark stamps several notable sires, and the empire the herdmark has built supports four families.

But, how do you take a few sows and turn it into a multi-generation family business? The Cain family was able to do it with a lot of hard work, passion for the industry and knowledge of their business inside and out.

As Earl's son Dusty will tell you, he and his brother, Lee, were raised immersed in the family business.

"We grew up in the farrowing house. My parents didn't have a baby sitter, so we went with mom to the farrowing house and played with baby pigs every day. She put us in the farrowing crate so she always knew where we were," Dusty recalls. "As we got older, we would also go with dad and ride in the tractors. Dad always put a pillow and blanket on the floor, and I could sleep for hours. Once Lee and I got to the age we could hold a shovel, we had a full time job – scraping pens."

Earl used Dusty and Lee's work on the farm and money from their 4-H and FFA projects to help the boys save for college, which is school was never a glamorous job. In fact, Dusty will tell you he hated it at the time. Little did Dusty know as he prepared to further his education how valuable those lessons he learned while cleaning the barn would be.

When Dusty headed to Graceland

University in Lamoni, Iowa, his dad, mom and one hired hand managed the 175-sow operation, ran cattle and raised row crops. The family was certainly busy, and his brother, Lee, then a junior at Iowa State University, had plans to return home to farm after graduation.

"With Lee returning to the farm, I didn't feel the operation was big enough to support three families and the hired man's family – four families," he says.

So, Dusty pursued a degree in accounting and business administration, instead of agriculture. While this may seem like a leap from scraping pens, the lessons he learned in the barn served him well, even behind desks and in board room meetings.

"As I got older and looked back at the farming experience, I realized my parents taught me how to work," he says. "During every job interview, I would discuss my farming background

"Going to college was something we wanted them to do; after college, it was their decision as to what they wanted to do," Earl says.

Scraping pens all through high and immediately the employer knew I wouldn't be afraid to work. All employers want employees that will work hard and show up on time."

Right out of college, Dusty was offered a role as a bank examiner. The Cains' local banker told him it was a great stepping stone into a banking career, and it was. Dusty spent two years as a bank examiner and another decade as a loan officer, yet his love for his family farm never ceased. Almost every weekend, he would always a challenge, and who doesn't get excited about a tough challenge?"

The success and expansion of Cain Super Sires saved the family from having any tough conversations about how the farm could provide another family income. Instead the real question became, "When can I start?"

Since he was still involved with the family farm, there wasn't a steep learning curve, but there was still a little bit of discussion on the operating side of the business. It was decided the

if we don't like something or disagree. If we get a little heated, it is over in a few minutes, and we are working together to make the operation successful," he says. "Hard work is the key to a successful family operation."

Hard work is exactly what he is teaching his two children in this environment. Both his kids, Sydney and Austin, and Lee's sons, Aaron and Dylan, know every aspect of the family farm because they are being raised around it just like Dusty and

"Living close to your family lets you be involved in everything they do. It is great watching the grandkids and having them with you every day. I don't know how you could have it any better." — Earl Cain come home to help his family move pigs, castrate pigs, work in the fields or whatever needed to be done.

During his 12 years off the farm, Dusty learned valuable lessons that helped his family business, such as customer service and financial prowess.

"I enjoyed working with my customers to help them become successful. And, that is the same goal at Cain Super Sires, 'Help our customers have a great experience and be successful,'" he says.

Yet, when the time came that Dusty wanted to return to the family farm, it seemed the stars all aligned to make for near-perfect timing. With the success of Cain Super Sires, the entire operation had grown so the family was looking for some extra hands. Perhaps most important to the timing was Dusty and his wife, Kim, had a new addition to their family, a 6-month-old daughter, Sydney, and Dusty knew he wanted to raise his children with the same opportunities he had.

"Coming back home gave me the opportunity to work with family, to be in a business I love, and most importantly, to raise my kids on the farm and give them an experience that most kids never have," he says. "It is great to wake up every day and know you are helping operate a family business that depends on you to be successful. It is entire family would share in any profits or losses through the family business.

"We incorporated the farming operation – crops, cattle, hogs – keeping the land in individual names," Earl explains. "The boys had a chance to buy land as well, making it easier to be part of the total operation. I think that is the key to making everyone feel equal and creating a sense of financial security for everyone."

With the planning aside, Dusty was able to easily jump back into his family's business after his decade as a banker.

"The transition from the banking world to the farm was very smooth," Dusty says. "I knew the operation inside and out. I had always come home on the weekends and vacations to help on the family farm. I was operating the website and involved with Cain Super Sires. I jumped in with both feet and started running!"

Anyone who has worked alongside family knows family businesses have their own set of rewards and challenges. Dusty says, at Cain's, family is always treated as number one.

"We get along very well, however, none of us are afraid to give our opinion. It is healthy to have different opinions, with the same end goal in mind. Most of the time we get along well, but like any family we speak up

Lee were. Dusty knows if any of them want to return to the farm, the transition will be simple since they know how to work and how things work with their business.

"If they want to come back we will support them, or if they want to go work for someone else we will support that also," he says. "Both scenarios are good, but I hope someone wants to stay and work on the farms so I can retire someday."

Dusty's advice for those young people who want to return to the farm is simple. Never spend more than you make, since you can never go broke, if you're making a profit, and life is short, so enjoy each moment with your family.

"Wake up each day and say, 'Every day is a holiday, and every meal is a feast,'" he says.

Earl knows life on a family farm may not always be easy, but he thinks it is worth it.

"Farming is a great way of life. Even though it's hard work, the rewards are great," he says. "Living close to your family lets you be involved in everything they do. It is great watching the grandkids and having them with you every day. I don't know how you could have it any better."

United Duroc Swine Registry Candidates

AT-LARGE • Steve Malcolm, Indiana

Steve Malcolm, 47, of Huntertown, Indiana, is the owner and operator of Malcolm Farms, where he works with his brother, Phil; his father, Joe; and his son, Spencer. He is married to Susie, and they have three children together: Jordan, Spencer and Taylor.

Size and scope of operation: At Malcolm Farms, they run a 70-head sow herd, where the family raises high quality showpigs from farrow to finish. Their goal at Malcolm Farms is to provide an elite set of showpigs to swine enthusiasts and to help continue to make hogs better. Every day, they strive to make hogs better and fix problems in various breeds, while impacting the lives of young showmen. Raising showpigs has been a passion for Malcolm and his family for many years, and they will continue to work hard each day to make the next generation of hogs better than the last.

Pork leadership activities: Allen County Fair Executive Committee member, where his goal is to make the swine show run as smoothly as possible. This position allows him to have many opportunities to teach 4-H youth about the swine industry. Vice President of the Hoosier Hampshire Committee.

Other leadership activities: Volunteer Wrestling Coach for the Carroll Wrestling Club, Indiana. Malcolm's favorite hobby is coaching wrestling, and he enjoys interacting with young people and teaching them about a great sport.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/ or the United Duroc Swine Registry's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

I personally believe that the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s roles are essential to the showpig world. The NSR puts together a tremendous set of national shows all over the country. These shows give people a chance to bring and showcase their livestock. These shows are extremely competitive, and they also give breeders and other swine enthusiasts a chance to see what is out there. The NSR and UDSR keep this industry flourishing. Raising Durocs has been a passion for my family. The UDSR puts together tremendous events at these national shows where the best Durocs in the nation come and compete. The NSR and the UDSR are a major reason for the success of this great industry and without them, I believe there would be a major setback in the swine world.

AT-LARGE • Joe Roberts, Missouri

Joe Roberts, 61, of Fair Grove, Missouri, and his wife, Joy, have a son, Kevin, and his fiancé, Rochelle; a daughter, Michelle; a stepson Matt, and his wife, Kama; and a stepdaughter, Sarah and stepgrandson, Bowen.

Size and scope of operation: Roberts owns 50 head of Duroc, Hampshire and crossbred sows that primarily produce showpigs.

Pork leadership activities: Dallis-Polk County Pork Producers past president and 4-H swine leader

Other leadership activities: Construction superintendent for 30 years in Springfield, Missouri.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/ or the United Duroc Swine Registry's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

The National Swine Registry (NSR) and United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR) need to always look ahead in the fast-paced, changing industry. We need to keep moving the National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) forward and work hard to keep integrity in the industry. In addition, we need to keep looking for ways to make purebreds the choice for youth shows, as well as the commercial industry.

Hampshire Swine Registry Candidates

AT-LARGE • Dusty Cain, Iowa

Dusty Cain, 43, of Chariton, Iowa, and his wife, Kim, have a daughter, Sydney, and a son, Austin.

Size and scope of operation:

Cain Super Sires and Cain Family Farms is a 370-sow farrow-to-finish operation, consisting of Hampshire, Duroc, Yorkshire and crossbred sows. Earl Cain & Family has been the top recorder of Hampshires for many years. They farrow year-round and sell showpigs, boars and open and bred gilts. Additionally, Cain Super Sires and Cain Family Farms has a boar stud to breed their sows and sell semen around the U.S.

Pork leadership activities: Iowa Hampshire Association member and local 4-H and FFA swine consultant

Other leadership activities: NSR Executive Committee member, school board member, Extension Council Board member, former Chamber of Commerce Board member and former bank board member.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/or the American Yorkshire Club's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

The National Swine Registry (NSR)'s first priority is to record and maintain purity records on all breeds. Additionally, the NSR should help members promote and market hogs by organizing national events for breeding hogs, as well as junior events for our future NSR members. "Do the right thing, work hard and breed good Hampshire sows to good Hampshire boars, and the rest will take care of itself." The Hampshire breed continues to win a lot of our major hog shows when competing against crosses and the other breeds. In my opinion, it is the perfect time to be a Hampshire breeder, and we must all continue to work hard to make our hogs better.

ELECTION-VOTING PROCEDURE

As a result of the uniform By-Laws created by the Long-Range Strategic Planning process, all four breed associations have adopted the following procedure for the upcoming election. If you are an active senior member of the American Yorkshire Club (AYC), the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR), the Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR) or the American Landrace Association (ALA), you will receive a ballot in November.

ARTICLE 6: BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

- 6.1 Number. A board of directors consisting of seven (7) members shall manage the affairs of the AYC, UDSR, HSR and ALA. One director should be elected from each of the three districts, with four directors serving as at-large representatives. The boundaries of each district will be based on membership, recordings and geography, and will be established by the NSR Executive Committee. District boundaries will be reviewed every three years thereafter, and after such review, the NSR Executive Committee shall revise the boundaries as it deems appropriate. At no time shall more than three directors be elected in the same year. No more than two members of one state can serve on the board at one time.
- 6.2 Tenure and Qualifications. Directors shall serve a term of three years or until their successors are elected or are appointed. The members of the board of directors must be active members of the AYC, UDSR, HSR or ALA, in good standing. No director shall serve a term of more than two consecutive three-year terms and must be off the board for three years before being re-elected to the board.
- 6.3 Nominations and Voting Procedure. The president and vice president will select a nominating committee. The committee will be made up of the following:
- The president of the AYC, UDSR, HSR or ALA
 - The vice president of the AYC, UDSR, HSR or ALA
 - One member appointed by the president and vice president, from each district that has a vacancy occurring that year.
- a) The nominating committee must select nominees for the board in time for their names to be published in an official NSR publication prior to mailing of ballots. All eligible voting members will vote for all candidates in all districts, and the candidates at-large.
 - b) There will be space provided on the official ballot for write-in candidates.
 - c) Ballots will be mailed to all eligible active members.
 - d) In order to vote in the election, an active member must have registered a litter during the fiscal year and must have paid their maintenance fee for the same period.
 - e) Ballots will be mailed first class from the headquarters of the NSR. Prior to each election, the NSR Executive Committee shall set a date for the mailing of ballots to members, and a reasonable deadline for the return ballots. Only those ballots postmarked by the required date, and received at the NSR office, will be counted in the election.
 - f) The candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected as director.
 - g) Newly elected directors' term will take effect following the first annual meeting after the election.

American Landrace Association Candidates

EASTERN • Sam Malcolm, Indiana

Sam Malcolm, 44, of Garrett, Indiana, and his wife, Jonell, have six children: Maranda, Micah, Madilyn, Makenna, Malachi and Merek.

Size and scope of operation: Malcolm currently manages 30 purebred and five crossbred sows in a farrowto-finish scenario with emphasis on showpigs and breeding stock. He is also president of Malcolm & Whiteshire, LLC, a startup showpig genetic company raising purebred showstock for exhibitors across the country. Malcolm & Whiteshire consists of 45 purebred females and is gearing up production for the 2016 show season. The company will house and sell semen on select purebred boars. The Landrace breed is a cornerstone of this new venture.

Pork leadership activities: 20-year superintendent and leader in county 4-H swine project, president of the Allen County 4-H Swine Committee and member of the Allen County Jackpot Open Show Committee

Other leadership activities: Local youth sports committees member and coach, various 4-H committees

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/or the American Yorkshire Club's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

National Swine Registry (NSR) and American Landrace Association (ALA) role should be to assist purebred breeders with opportunities to market their animals, whether it be showpigs or commercial seedstock. It should also support the National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) and help educate youth on the Landrace breed and its role in the commercial segment of the swine industry. Additionally, the NSR and ALA should actively foster state and regional Landrace associations to promote the breed to junior exhibitors.

WESTERN • Nick Siedelmann, Iowa

Nick Siedelmann, 30, of Linden, Iowa, with his daughter, Addison.

Size and scope of operation: Siedelmann is director of genetic operations at Waldo Genetics in Nebraska, where they currently run a 1600-sow, commercially-driven, purebred seedstock operation. Of this population, there are approximately 450 Durocs, 150 White Durocs, 500 Yorkshire and 300 Landrace sows, along with 200 pedigreed York x Landrace test sows. They have three separate farm locations in Iowa and Nebraska. The largest portion of business is the sale of commercial semen, both terminal and maternal, collected at studs across the Midwest. They also sell parent females domestically and participate in several exports to various countries across the world.

Pork leadership activities: Manager of the National Barrow Show (NBS®) test station for three years, chair of several swine committees while at Iowa State University (ISU), developed the current ISU truckload student team to increase student involvement and set up the first ISU alumni online pig sale to raise money for the new pavilion penning

Other leadership activities: Current member of the Iowa Club Lamb Association board of directors, volunteer for local 4-H and FFA programs, and coach little league and other youth activities during the summer

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/or the American Yorkshire Club's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

The National Swine Registry (NSR) and American Landrace Association (ALA) need to help provide the tools commercial seedstock producers need to compete with larger, segregated companies in an evolving commercial market. We need to be able to drive the ship in the correct direction in a short enough period of time to keep up with companies with herd sizes five times our size. This will require lots of cooperation and new ideas on how to make this happen. In the Landrace breed especially, the genetic components lie within the breed scattered across the country, and we need our resources to locate and identify those components each herd needs to succeed for generations to come. We can do this while also lending aid and support to the show side of our industry too. Not only does our next generation of swine enthusiasts tend to come from the show side, but that side of our industry also interacts with the public much more than we have the ability to. If we want the public image to be a good one, that is where we have to start.

American Yorkshire Club Candidates

AT-LARGE • Dan Burzlaff, Iowa

Dan Burzlaff, 42, of Delmar, Iowa, and his wife, Kim, have three children: Alivia, Grace and Zane.

Size and scope of operation: Burzlaff has a 40-sow operation where he raises Yorkshire, Duroc, Hampshire, Berkshire and crossbred showpigs and breeding stock.

Pork leadership activities: Past president of Clinton County Pork Producers

Other leadership activities: Grace Lutheran Camp board member, Welton Volunteer Fire Department fire fighter, Grace Lutheran Church member and past 4-H leader

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/or the American Yorkshire Club's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

The National Swine Registry (NSR) must continue to search for new marketing opportunities for its members, as well as look for new ways to improve existing markets for both the breeders and the customers. As a Yorkshire Club, we need to focus on keeping the quality of our products high to meet both the commercial and showpig industry standards.

WESTERN • Michael Tripp, Oklahoma

Michael Tripp, 58, of Ringling, Oklahoma, and his wife, Rita, have two daughters: Heather, her husband, Justin Stephens, and son Hunter; and Abbie, her husband, Terel McLemore, and son Caddo.

Size and scope of operation: Tripp has a 30-sow operation focusing on raising showpigs and breeding stock. As a veterinarian, Tripp also does consultations with several showpig operations across the U.S.

Pork leadership activities: National Swine Registry (NSR) Executive Committee member, Oklahoma Pork Board veterinary representative, Oklahoma Swine Committee for APHIS/USDA member, American Yorkshire Club Board of Directors Vice President

Other leadership activities: Past president of Oklahoma Veterinary Medicine Association, head of deacons at First Baptist Church in Ringling, staff member at Oklahoma Baptist Girl's Home, member of American Association of Swine Veterinarians, member of Academy of Veterinarian Consultants, legislative committee member of Oklahoma Veterinary Medical Association

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry's and/or the American Yorkshire Club's role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

NSR needs to continue to provide and improve sales to help members merchandise their animals. It also needs to help its members deal with changing demographics and animal care issues, as they affect our industry. We need to continue the strong support of our youth programs.

From the Field

Brian Anderson, NSR Field Representative

Two things that go well together are Duroc hogs and the National Barrow Show (NBS®). The 2015 NBS® was no different. Great hogs, great people and awesome weather always makes an enjoyable combination.

This year's judge was Brett Beyers from Illinois. No stranger to the history and betterment of the Duroc breed, Brett and his family have written chapters of success and continue to do so at a fast and furious pace. His passion for red hogs is obvious, and we appreciate his comments and enthusiasm for the Duroc breed. Also, a big shout out to Kevin Wendt and his service and professionalism in selling red hogs. He brings a tremendous passion and conviction to the block that is appreciated by all involved. Thanks, Kevin.

This year's Premier Sire was CAIN4 Slats 1-3, a young boar at Cain Super Sires in Iowa that is just starting to hit his stride. The Reserve Premier Sire was HP3 O So Good 19-2, owned by Parrish Farms of Ohio.

Congratulations to Cody, Casey and Roy McCleery, of Texas, on this year's Hog College® Duroc Boar. He was a son of HD3 Asia 17-7, back on a good New Dimension sow. This guy was so good in his skeleton and design. I loved how clean jointed and flexible he was, yet he had good bone with square and even toes. He offered great extension on both ends and read really immature in his look. He looked like a female maker, and I'm sure he will get a chance to do so. Thanks to Duane and Brian Martin Family, of Iowa, on a great selection.

This year's Champion Boar was again shown by Iowa State University. They are starting to make this look easy at Austin, Minnesota. This year's champion was sired by the Premier Sire, Slats, and back on last year's champion's littermate sister. This one captured the attention of many. Heavy boned, opened up, big ribbed and powerful are just a few of the ways you could describe this one. He had so many positive traits, it was hard not to appreciate his value. I really think this one is going to make some noise and is sure to get the phones ringing in Cambridge, Iowa, at his new home at Swine Genetics International and Vegas Showpigs. Thanks, guys.

Jason Butts drove his Off Label 15-3 son to reserve status and exhibited a really nice boar. He was really tall shouldered and square from end to end and top to bottom. This guy had so much value and is sure to get a fair shot. He won Class 2 and will get a chance with the Blake Family in Oregon.

Mappes Durocs and DTR Swine drove the Class 3 winner, a son of Slats on a good Bren momma. This guy will go to work for Schuler Farms in Illinois. He was one of the heaviest-boned boars in the show, really tall fronted and had lots of power from end to end.

Howard Parrish drove a nice pair of second place boars. His second-place Class 1 hog looked like a he-boar. He was big footed, really opened up and had a great boar attitude. He sold to Dean Paustian of Iowa. Howard's second Class 3 boar was a really nice hog. Opened up and square with great muscle shape working down his top, this one had lots of value and is sure to get a fair chance for Frey and Strathman of Wisconsin.

This year's Hog College® Duroc Gilt was exhibited by a firm that is no stranger to quality Duroc females. Mike Johnson and Guy Jackson brought an outstanding daughter of Slats as this year's Hog College® female. This gal was not only typical of what you expect from Guy Jackson, but also what we are starting to see in so many Slats progeny. Tall fronted, extended and really immature in her look, this gal looked like a lady and had tremendous presence while covering the ring. She was really flexible and loose in her skeleton and had that look that made you think you could build a herd around her. The Wolff Family, from South Dakota, will do just that.

The junior gilt exhibited by Dylan Cain that was Supreme Champion in the Junior Show automatically qualified to move directly into the top of the sale lineup because of her junior honors. Man oh man, was she a good one. This one had so much good to her, I can only imagine it was awfully hard to part with this one. Loose, flexible and sound as a cat, this gal offered so much quality and cleanliness of joints with a skeleton that was absolutely second to none. This one was absolutely big time, and I can assure you that you will hear great things from her. She was purchased by Lettow Showpigs of Iowa. Thanks, guys.

The Champion Duroc Gilt was shown by Iowa State University also. Not a bad day for these guys that have a strong history of producing good red hogs. She won the youngest gilt class and was another daughter of Slats. This gal was really good built and so square and genuine in the way she was made. I loved her upheaved look, and she had a hip and hind leg that is hard to put into this breed. This one looked like a momma and will get a fair chance in the hands of Mappes Durocs, of Oklahoma.

The Reserve Champion Duroc Gilt was shown by Jack Rodibaugh and Sons. She was a daughter of Impeccable and arguably was as stout featured and had as big a forearm, skull and blade as any hog in the show. This gal combined so many positive things into a very complete package. She was certainly one of the really unique ones in the show.

The Champion Duroc Boar entry from Iowa State University topped the sale at the 2015 NBS® in Austin, Minnesota.

SHOWS

Thanks to Jeff O'Dell for his brood sow purchase.

The Diamond V entry that won Class 2 was one that made you take a second look. This one was crossbred-backed in her muscle shape and power with so much body volume and dimension. Her kind are hard to make, and I can imagine it was not an easy decision to let this extreme breeding piece go. Thanks to the Vorpapel Family, from Minnesota, for bringing one this good to the show. Thanks to Fred Ripberger, of Illinois, for his purchase. I bet he has a plan for that one.

The HP gilt that won the oldest class was another that looked like a momma. This gal had as much power and dimension as any in the whole show. She was really big ribbed and had a tremendous amount of volume and capacity. She was a big hog that had lots of performance. Mappes hauled this one south, also, and will put her pieces to good use.

33 head of Duroc gilts averaged almost $1,115. I would say, good, red females have value no matter the time of year, and breeders and buyers proved that if you make them good enough they will find a new home, many times at a very good value. Again, thanks to all for the efforts in making this 2015 NBS® one to remember.

Transfer the PEDIGREE!

A pedigree is more than a piece of paper – it's your word. It's a bond that says your breeding stock is a superior product, backed by quality genetics and predictable performance. So, after a sale, ensure that you continue that bond with your customers. Transfer your pedigrees in a timely manner. Not only does it record a history of official ownership, but it guarantees customer satisfaction and just might set the tone for repeat business.

From the Field

Blaine Evans, NSR Field Representative

This year, the National Barrow Show (NBS®) Hampshire show didn't set any records in terms of entries, but as always, the quality that showed up was exceptional with lots of good pieces to grab. Brian Hines, Michigan, was asked to judge the Hampshires, this year, and was assisted by his two daughters. It was really neat to watch Brian and the girls work together sorting the hogs. They made it a true family event with Brian's dad, Dr. Bob Hines, Kansas, giving his two cents from the side lines.

As always, the Hog College® event at the NBS® is something that some wait all year to see. I felt we had a great lineup of all breeds for Hog College® Row, this year. In particular, the Hampshire representatives were extremely impressive. It was an honor to have Iverson Farms, Iowa, bring the Hampshire boar to Hog College® Row. I know it was something Ron took very seriously, and in doing so, he gave up what could have been his next herd boar. Ron's boar was sired by EC2 Mudslide 85-1 and out of a 1ARK McRib 18-6 daughter. I was excited for Ron, when he participated in the Hog College® Home Run Drive. This particular boar was named the Chairman's Choice Hog College Boar. Ron's boar was one I felt had lots of breeding value in terms of a skeleton. He moved with flex and ease. This hog had a naturally high head carriage and a killer look from the side. He isn't the type of boar I would label "out there" in any one area. His greatest value, in my eyes, comes in the fact that his bone, skull, muscle and body matched so well, and he looked like one that can make Hampshire hogs that are problem free. Real Hog Farm, Texas, got this guy gathered up on sale day. Be sure to check in with the crew there, if you are in the market to use this one.

Grimm Purebreds, Iowa, exhibited the Champion Hampshire Boar, this year. Jim's boar was sired by BEB3 Tiger 9-6 and out of a JGR1 Pipe 15-4 dam. I was a fan of lots of parts and pieces of Jim's boar. I felt he combined stoutness with look and design as well as any. This guy had a big, stout head and forearm, and his toes and feet matched the kind of muscle and bulk he had up high. His rib shape was bold and his body was pliable, while still being tall at the point of his shoulder with a good look from the side. Southern Gold Sires got a good buy on this guy and took him back to Salem, Indiana. Be sure to look him up while making your breeding decisions.

The Reserve Grand Hampshire Boar, this year, was driven by Jake and Kaylee Keppy, Iowa. The Keppy entry was sired by JLM2 Carry On 21-1, and his mother was a JL1 He's A Ten 10-10. Jake drove one of the more interesting boars of the show, in my opinion. This one had a lot of value in terms of making Hampshire barrows and gilts that can compete in the show ring. I would call this guy one that is the right length of body, muscle and shape to make barrows, yet still had some of the breeding hog basics in terms of a stout skull and huge feet to enhance and take a sow herd off center. The Keppy boar was another one that was popular on sale day, and Matthew Gunderson, Minnesota, is the proud new owner of one I wouldn't forget about.

The next boar to hit the sale ring was the J&K Genetics and Jerry McLemore entry. Another one sired by the popular JLM3 Carry On 21-1 going back to a JLM2 Thrift Shop 24-4 sow, this guy was probably the most out there and different one of the whole show. I call him the most extreme in terms of muscle shape and dimension. He was really opened up at his blade and worked tons of muscle from there back into a big hip and stifle. A hog that was still good on his pasterns, he was tall shouldered and had some length of neck. A really intriguing hog, he was the high-selling boar that went to Cain Super Sires, Iowa.

The class winner of Class 1 was the next boar in the sale ring, exhibited by Steve and Derek Earnhart Families, Indiana. Derek drove a son of JSE4 Ante Up 50-2 out of a MSG7 Mark 14-2 sow. The sire of this boar is a Point Maker 72-2 x Huggy Bear boar they made last year and is doing a good job for those guys. This particular hog had some of the most futuristic pieces. He was really tall fronted, really long necked and attractive up front. He had a long hip and got his hindleg back behind him like he should. Brad Hensch, Iowa, got him bought on sale day and will put him to work.

The Hampshire gilt show presented lots of quality in the whole lineup. As a result, we sold every gilt we offered in the auction. It just goes to show, the demand the Hampshire breed has at this time and good Hampshire gilts will always have value at NSR events.

The Hog College® Hampshire Gilt, this year, came from the Craig Paulson Family, South Dakota, with a daughter of BJKE3 Wrecking Ball 3-1 and out of a HH1 Walk This Way 95-3 dam. This gilt was actually a purchase from Heimer Hampshires, Missouri. She was a prime example of how the NJSA program has not only grown but has gotten the junior kids involved in all aspects of our industry. Special thanks to the Paulson Family, as well as Jesse Heimer, for allowing us to offer this gilt as the 2015 Hog College® gilt; she really represented the Hampshire breed, the Paulson Family, Heimer Hampshires and the NJSA program with second-to-none quality.

The Champion Gilt this year was the Earl L. Cain and Family, Iowa, entry, out of the famous JL3 Score 14-8 going back to a MVLS0 Oh My 3-1 sow. The Score boar has become somewhat of a household name this past year, winning tons of titles at the shows and working so well into the Cain program. This gilt is no exception to what I have seen out of Score. She had an awesome look and build from the side, really comfortable at the surface, with all the muscle and body you want in a female. She sure had some friends sale day, and Giertz and Larson, Illinois, took her home.

The Reserve Champion Gilt was exhibited by Nichole Haverback, Illinois. A BOLN3 Point Maker 90-1 out of a BOLN1 Homemade 17-4 sow, Nichole's gilt was one powerful example of a Hampshire gilt. She was opened up underneath, big bladed, had worlds of body and rib and still handled all the little extras she had with a sound kind of frame work and skeleton. She's the type of gilt I'm sure Matthew Gunderson will have fun breeding on in the future.

Special thanks to all that helped out during the NBS® this year – we can't do it without all your help.

As always special thanks to Col. Kevin Wendt, Ohio, for doing a great job in the merchandising of the Hampshires; its always fun to work with you. Congratulations to everyone on your successes at NBS®, and good luck with your purchases.

From the Field

Brian Anderson, NSR Field Representative

The 2015 National Barrow Show (NBS®) has come and gone, and the Landrace breeders have a lot to hang their hats on. Landrace numbers were good, and the quality was very high, so the opportunities were many.

A huge thank you to Jordan McGrew of Illinois for sorting a high-quality set of Landrace hogs and for all your insight and positive comments. Jordan and his family are a big reason the Landrace breed is where it is today. Thanks, Jordan, for dipping your foot in the ring and giving us positive insight.

I would be remiss if I didn't take a minute and thank Dan Baker for selling this set of Landrace hogs. As many of you know, this was the last event Dan would sell for the National Swine Registry (NSR), and I want to thank him for all he has done to help me in my short time with the NSR. He always has a smile on his face, a story to tell and will always lend an ear. I consider him a true friend and look forward to new voices in the future, but the Baker-isms will be sorely missed.

Let's talk hogs. This year's Hog College® Landrace Boar was a flat good one. This son of Bad Cat 9-8 was exhibited by Lance and Mitchell Westcamp of Ohio and was one of the very best boars of any color in Austin, Minnesota. He was flexible and sound as a cat. This guy had a tremendous build and could flat handle it. Along with a flexible, loose-made skeleton, this dude had tremendous muscle shape. I think he has tremendous breeding value and will make an impact on the next generation. A huge thank you to Malcolm & Whiteshire, LLC of Indiana for an excellent purchase.

Another of the outstanding individuals in Austin was the Landrace Hog College® Gilt. She was exhibited by junior exhibitor Maddie Fugate from Illinois. Maddie has developed a bred-and-owned herd of Landrace hogs that have made her extremely competitive at each and every show she goes to. She decided to share one of her great ones with the general public, and she was much admired and appreciated. Maddie's gilt was a Bad Cat daughter and sold to junior exhibitor Drake Hook of Iowa. She got a great home and will be heard from, I am sure.

Premier Sire at this year's event was JMG1 Below Zero 2-5, owned by Top Cut Sires of Indiana. Reserve Premier Sire was JMG0 Falken 4-7, owned by Whewell and McGrew. Congratulations to all these firms.

This year's Champion Boar was shown by Vista Brook Farms of Kentucky. He was sired by KORB3 Lookout. He was an excellent champion. This guy had tremendous length and body, yet was big and massive. He looked like a champion and will be sure to get a chance to excel at his new home at Wolf Farms in Iowa. This rascal was stout and had plenty of power to go along with it.

The Reserve Champion Boar was shown by the Noah Carroll Family of Minnesota, great supporters of the NBS®, which resides in their backyard, and good hog people. This one represented their program very well. He was sired by the Premier Sire, Below Zero, and was sound, loose and really flexible. He offered tremendous extension and was heavy boned and big footed. Congratulations to a very hard-working family.

This year's Champion Gilt was shown by Russell Whewell and Family of Illinois. She was a daughter of the Reserve Premier Sire, Falken. This lady was really big centered and extended. I think she was one of the stouter-featured, bigger-footed females in the sale and offered tremendous breeding value. She will be sure to get a chance at her new Minnesota home, as she will go to work for the Noah Carroll family.

The Reserve Champion Gilt was shown by Vista Brook Farms with a daughter of Lookout. This one was broody and had power from one end to the other. She had plenty of mass and dimension with a great skeleton to boot. The Carroll family will give her a chance also.

Thanks to all involved in such a great event, and again, Dan Baker, thanks for all your years of hard work and professionalism from the block.

Grand Champion, 2015 Ohio State Fair & 2015 NBS® Hog College® Landrace Boar

Introducing Legacy 16-1

(BAD CAT x SHARK TANK) Bred by Lance & Mitchell Westcamp, Ohio

Legacy is defined as something that is a result of events in the past. This Legacy begins with the hottest Landrace boars from the past two years, Bad Cat and Shark Tank, and their sire, Outlook. They have combined to sire more than 25 champion or reserve champion boars, gilts and barrows at major and regional events. Legacy was first selected as the Champion Landrace Boar at the 2015 Ohio State Fair and was then tapped by the NSR to be the 2015 Hog College® Landrace Boar. We purchased him for $4,500 at the NBS®. Legacy is what champion Landrace pigs should look like as he is balanced, square, thick and may have the best hip and hind leg we have seen in a Landrace boar. Congratulations and thank you to the Westcamps for breeding Legacy and buying back into him with a contract. We are excited, to say the least, with this boar and his future. Limited semen will be available on Legacy, as he will be used heavily in our program. Call Sam (260.410.2305) for semen pricing and availability.

From the Field

Michael Lackey, NSR Field Representative

Mid-September is always a busy time of year for our industry. Boar studs are swamped trying to fill orders, and breeders are home trying to settle sows and harvest crops. But, it's also a special time for many of our members because the "World Series" of swine shows has rolled around, and it's time to attend the National Barrow Show (NBS®) in Austin, Minnesota. This year's event was no different; we were greeted with great weather and an amazing set of breeders and hogs. Chuck Olsen of Irene, South Dakota, and George Watson of Hillsboro, Kentucky, sorted the Yorkshire ring at this prestigious event. Chuck and George, thank you for your time, effort and years of dedication to the Yorkshire breed.

The Premier Yorkshire Sire was awarded to JGR3 Attraction 23-7, owned by Grimm Purebreds of Maynard, Iowa. The Reserve Premier Yorkshire Sire honors were presented to OSU4 Shootin' Stars 6-1, owned by Hilman Schroeder and Brandon Butler of Wisconsin. Congratulations to both these firms on an excellent set of hogs.

The first boar to make his way to the ring was the 2015 Yorkshire Hog College® Boar. Thank you to George Watson and Family for letting us have this son of ABD3 Dress to Kill 1-3 to put on Hog College® Row. If you are a Yorkshire enthusiast, this one needs to be on your list of boars to use. His mother is one of the best sows on George's farm and has produced a herd boar in every litter. He is just a young, March 17, boar but he has huge feet, good bone and is as sound as they come. This guy has a great shape to his rib, and he is great in the angles to his hip, hock and rear pastern. For a young boar, he has great muscle shape and dimension down his top and width from behind. I truly believe he will do nothing but get better for his new owners. He sold to Triple B Sires of Eufaula, Oklahoma, for the price $9,500. Great buy, gentlemen!

Congratulations to Wayne Huinker of Decorah, Iowa, for exhibiting the Champion Yorkshire Boar at the 2015 NBS®. This son of RIY3 Bone Buzz 87-7 is square at the ground, wide in his chest with a big, bold blade that opens into a huge rib cage. He is square and correct in his hock and has the ideal frame for making Yorkshire hogs better. This guy is really complete and correct, and with his pedigree, we should hear from him in the months to come. He sold to Swine Genetics International of Cambridge, Iowa, for $5,000.

I would describe the Reserve Champion Yorkshire Boar as a power hog. He was exhibited by Grimm Purebreds. This son of JGR3 Attraction 23-7 is packed with muscle. He scanned a 12.1 inch loin eye and .69 inches of backfat. He is open and square in his chest floor and wide through his center and lower skeleton. He tracks away with genuine base width and is sound. He is tall fronted, level designed and correct in his ham-loin junction. He sold to Terry Stade of Shakopee, Minnesota, for $1,100.

The boar that placed second in the oldest class behind the reserve champion made his way to the ring next. He is a January 15-farrowed boar sired by AJYC3 Great White 2-6, shown by Adam Conover of Macon, Missouri. Adam's boar looks like a Yorkshire herdsire should; he is a true breeding piece. His feet all point in the same direction, and he hits the surface with a square, big toe. He is heavy structured, has a square turn to the base of his rib cage and is open through his center. If you are serious about making better Yorkshire females, look this one up. He has a linebred pedigree that should make the next generation better. Daniel Burzlaff of Delmar, Iowa, bid $2,000 to take this herdsire home.

Next in the ring was the entry from Kristi Smith of Princeville, Illinois, with a son LFC3 Platinum Finish 53-7. If you came to Austin looking for a great-designed, heavy-muscled Yorkshire boar, then this one was your kind. He's tall shouldered, has a show ring look on the side and is huge topped. He sold to Lindsy Loos of Litchfield, Nebraska, for $4,750.

Hilman Schroeder of Sauk City, Wisconsin, was in the ring next with a son of OSU4 Shootin Stars 6-1. This was the different breeding hog at the show. Not the prettiest one you will ever see, but one that is truly heavy structured and stout featured. He's square built. His toes point in the same direction, and he's sound. I promise he was not pampered, and he will generate daughters that will do what Yorkshires are known for. He sold to Tom Rake and Family of Waunakee, Wisconsin, for $1,000.

Next was the entry from Nelson Bros of Wakonda, South Dakota. Ron's boar is sired by SSFS3 Untouchable 6-1. He's a stout-featured, big-footed and heavy-structured breeding hog. This guy covers all the basics and then some. He should make better females for Butterman Farms of Fond George Watson's Hog College® Boar sired by Dress to Kill topped the Yorkshire sale when he sold for $9,500 to Triple B Sires of Oklahoma.

SHOWS

Du Lac, Wisconsin, who paid $800 to take him home.

The gilt sale began with a great female. We are thankful Daniel Burzlaff would allow this gilt to represent the Yorkshire breed on Hog College® Row. She won the Chairman's Choice and College Choice Monday night during the Hog College® Home Run Drive. She is sired by AJYC3 Great White 2-6, and this lady looks like a foundation Yorkshire female should. When you let this girl out of the pen, she floats around the ring. She is sound and flexible. She's about right from a muscle standpoint and beautiful in terms of balance. She is one of the best Yorkshire gilts I have seen in a long time! She will make the next generation of Yorkshire hogs better for Joe Coyne of Pontiac, Illinois, who paid $7,500 to take this lady home.

Western Illinois University of Macomb, Illinois, drove this year's Champion Yorkshire Female at the NBS®. The champion is a daughter of NBS3 Wheelhouse 42-1. This lady is complete, correctly balanced, feminine, great underlined and sound. She is really hard to pick a hole in, just like you would expect from a firm like Western Illinois University. Joe Coyne also loaded the Champion Gilt on his trailer for the price of $2,250.

The Reserve Champion Gilt was driven by Grimm Purebreds. If you like gilts that are stout, wide, big centered and heavy muscled, then you needed to look at this daughter of JGR3 Attraction 23-7. This one has all the power and width you can ask for in a female, but is still correct in her build and has the JGR herdmark to back her up. She sold to the Hofschulte Family of Miami, Oklahoma, for $3,600.

Up next was the Reserve Champion Yorkshire Gilt from the inaugural junior gilt show at the NBS®. Congratulations to Braelyn Baloun of Lennox, South Dakota.

Braelyn's gilt is sired by SSFS3 Untouchable 6-1, and this lady is solid. She doesn't wow you in any one area, other than her completeness. I think this one has lots of breeding potential and offers a lot of flexibility on what boar you would like to use. She sold to DS&K Farms - The Preston Girls of Lanark, Illinois, for $1,500. Good buy, girls!

The next gilt in the ring won the third class of the day; she is sired by 6MSB4 Well Played 29-3. Todd Nordman and Family's gilt is square and genuine underneath, she is heavy structured and durable in her look. For the price of $1,100, they decided to take her back home with them to South Dakota.

Lacey Schmitz of Oakes, North Dakota, was next up with her entry that won the oldest class of the day. This daughter of CDO3 Iceman 233-7 can be described as a powerful show gilt. She has a great look from the side. She is square built and has all the muscle you could want in a female and then some. She sold to Doug White of Storm Lake, Iowa, for $1,000.

This year's sale marked the 40th time that Dan Baker of West Lafayette, Indiana, stepped into Crane Pavilion to officiate the American Yorkshire Club (AYC) sale at the NBS®. As most of you have heard, this was also the last time Mr. Baker would sell the Yorkshires at a National Swine Registry (NSR) event. Dan, I don't have the words to adequately describe what your years of service have meant to the AYC, NSR and me personally. All I can say is a very simple thank you for your friendship and for all you have done to make this breed of hogs better and help this industry develop into what it is today!

From the Field

Michael Lackey, NSR Field Representative

I am not the type of person to have a big bucket list. I have been blessed with the opportunity to do what I love and get paid for it. With that said, if you enjoy attending pig shows and seeing high quality breeding stock, and you have not yet attended the National Barrow Show (NBS®), add it to your bucket list! There is truly something special about standing in Crane Pavilion in mid-September watching a hog show. If you have never made the trip north, mark it down for 2016.

The 2015 NBS® Crossbred Boar Show was not huge in numbers, but offered quality hogs at very affordable prices. Brian Hines, of Michigan, and Brett Beyers, of Illinois, had the task of sorting the small but high quality crossbred show. Brian and Brett, great job. Thank you for stepping in and helping out on short notice. It's always a pleasure to work with you gentlemen.

Diamond V Showpigs of Adams, Minnesota, drove the Champion Boar and Class 2 Winner. This son of Beyond is square and true in his build. As you study his chest floor, he is wide and correct at the base of his rib, he opens into a big center, and he has plenty of muscle shape down his top and going away from you. He is good footed, square hocked and sound. He will now call Brownsdale, Minnesota, home and work for Wyatt Holst for the price of $1,500.

Earl L. Cain and Family of Chariton, Iowa, exhibited the Reserve Champion Boar. He is sired by Arctic Cat. Earl's boar is stout. He's the biggest-skulled and heaviest-boned boar in the entire crossbred show. He is powerful, when studied from the ground up, built square and honest at the base of his ribcage, opened up through his center body and set his feet down wide as he went away. This guy is a muscle hog that has a big top and tons of width from behind. He sold to Randy Madden of Alden, Iowa, for the price of $1,400.

The Class 1 winning entry from DS&K Farms, Lanark, Illinois, was next in the ring. He is a son of Cowboy Swag. Scott's boar is a great-designed hog. He is tall fronted, level topped and has a great hip. He squares up behind his blade with true muscle shape, he is thick and square in his hip and wide and dimensional through his lower ham.

Lynch Brothers of Boone, Iowa, made their way to the auction next with a boar that stood second behind the reserve champion in the heaviest class. Sired by Bear Bone, this boar is tall fronted and stout made. He is square from behind and has a great shape to his rib. The Lynch Brothers decided to take him back home on their trailer for $1,700.

Next in the ring was the second-place entry from Class 2. This blue-belted boar was exhibited by Robert Beckard of Dassel, Wisconsin, and sired by Monumental Circle. If you needed a different colored one that is good built, correct from the side and has muscle shape, then this guy would have suited your needs. He sold to Neal Brandt of Lakefield, Minnesota, for $1,000.

The Crossbred Boar Show at the 2015 NBS® had some good breeding pieces that will make a difference. Dan Baker, as always, thank you for being a gentleman and a professional on the auction block. Good luck with selling pigs this fall, and we'll see you at the NSR Fall Classic.

2015 NBS® Awards

Mower County Fairgrounds | Austin, Minn.

Joel Nelson was awarded the Distinguished Service Award, presented by Morgan Core (l) of Hormel Foods, and Mike Paul (second from left), president of the National Association of Swine Records. Nelson's wife, Marla (second from right), and daughter, Nancy (r), accepted the award. Nelson served as the sound man for the NBS® for several years and was a board member for the local NBS® committee.

Larry Rasch (r) of Austin, Minnesota, was inducted into the National Market Hog Show® Hall of Fame. Mike Paul (l), president of the National Association of Swine Records, presented the award. Rasch served as the NBS® Superintendent from 1993 to 2006. He was also instrumental in the construction of the new facilities for the Mower County Fair and the NBS®.

2015 NBS® Truckload Live Evaluation Contest

Mower County Fairgrounds | Austin, Minn.

For the first time, a live evaluation contest was held in conjunction with the 2015 NBS® Truckload Show. This provided an opportunity for crowd participation where individuals performed live estimations for carcass traits, including backfat, loin eye area and hot carcass weight. Ties were broken on a pricing equation using the Hormel Lean Pork Value Table.

RULES & REGULATIONS*

Jan. 27-31, 2016

*Rules are subject to change

For up-to-date Rules & Regulations visit nationalswine.com

Entry deadline: Dec. 10, 2015

Enter online at: nationalswine.com

GENERAL INFORMATION

- » Entry fees for all entries must accompany the respective entry form.
- » All late entries will be charged double the regular entry fees. All entry fees are non-refundable.
- » National Swine Registry (NSR) reserves the right to close entries because of pen space limitations any time after the printed deadline.
- » All entries must be postmarked by Dec. 10, 2015.
- » All pedigrees for entries must be recorded by Jan. 13, 2016, or an additional rush fee will be charged.
- » All entries must be ear notched using the official NSR system (starting with number 1 in January and again in July of each year).
- » CROSSBRED BOARS: A documented stress test must be presented at check-in. Stress status of boars will be listed in the show and sale catalog. This is a show and sale requirement.
- » No entry or substitute entry will be allowed to show or sell without a registration certificate. Purebred entries will be divided into classes by farrowing date.

EXHIBITORS & ELIGIBILITY

- » All senior exhibitors must be active members of the NSR or must pay the $75 non-member exhibitor fee. An active senior member is age 22 and OVER, paid annual dues and recorded at least one litter in the 2015 fiscal year.
- » Participants age 21 and UNDER are required to pay a $15 junior participation fee.
- » Entries are limited to two boars and three open gilts per breed (Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace, Yorkshire, crossbred) per exhibitor.
- » ALL entries must be farrowed on or after June 1, 2015. Purebred entries must have at least six functional teats on each side.
- » All entries must meet their respective breed requirements. Entries that do not meet these requirements will not be allowed to show or sell at the conference.
- » If an exhibitor has an NSR account that is past due, funds from the sale of their animals will be applied to their past-due account.

BREEDING ANIMAL SALE

- » Purebred breeding animal classes will be divided into classes as equal as possible by farrowing date. Crossbred boars and gilts will be divided by weight.
- » A minimum of approximately 60 percent of the number of each sex (boars and gilts) shown will be selected for the sale. These animals will be selected with no set number selling from any single class. Animals not selected for the sale can be consigned to the sale for an additional fee of $20 per head; this must be done by the conclusion of the show. If the animal sells, the fee will be applied toward the sale commission. If the animal does not sell, the fee is forfeited.
- » All animals selected and cataloged for the sale MUST go through the auction. Sale commission will be 15 percent for all animals. If an animal that is selected and cataloged for sale does not go through the sale ring, the exhibitor will be banned from exhibiting at NSR events for one year and will be charged 15 percent of the average selling price of their respective breed sale. This amount must be paid before reinstatement will be allowed. The exception to this rule will be if an animal has become injured or ill and is inspected by a NSR staff member prior to the sale.
- » The NSR acts only as the agent between buyer and seller. If proper payment is made by the buyer in a timely manner, the NSR will make settlement with the seller in approximately 30 days after the sale.

DNA STRESS STATEMENT

- » No known stress positive or stress carrier Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace or Yorkshire animals will be allowed to be exhibited or sold at any NSR-sponsored event.
- » Such warranty is solely that of the seller and not that of the American Landrace Association (ALA), American Yorkshire Club (AYC), Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR) or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR).
- » The ALA, AYC, HSR and UDSR assume no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.
- » If any animal sold at this conference is found to be a carrier of the stress gene, the purchaser has the right to receive full refund of the purchase price from the seller.
- » DNA testing for the stress gene on purebreds must be done within 60 days of the sale date and all costs associated with testing for stress must be paid by the purchaser. The seller has the right to review the test results and the right to re-test the animal at a laboratory of his/her choice.
- » Cost associated with re-test by the seller is at the seller's expense. There will be no refund of NSR commission from stress-carrier animals.

SPECIAL BREED REQUIREMENTS

- » By entering any hog in this conference, the owner warrants that the hog meets specific breed requirements.
- » Such warranty is, however, solely that of the seller and not that of the ALA, AYC, HSR and UDSR, and the ALA, AYC, HSR and UDSR assume no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.
- » If any purebred animal sold at this conference is found to be a carrier of the color gene after being tested through the procedures approved by the HSR, UDSR, ALA and AYC, the seller agrees that he/she will promptly refund the full purchase price to the buyer. There will be no refund of NSR commission from animals that are carriers of the color gene.

ARRIVAL & DEPARTURE

- » EARLIEST entries may arrive is Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 6 p.m. and ALL open show hogs must be at the fairgrounds by 10 a.m., Friday, Jan. 29, 2016.

RULES & REGULATIONS*

*Rules are subject to change | For up-to-date Rules & Regulations visit nationalswine.com

HEALTH REGULATIONS

1. EACH ANIMAL ENTERING THE GEORGIA NATIONAL FAIRGROUNDS MUST BE LISTED ON AN OFFICIAL INTERSTATE HEALTH CERTIFICATE ISSUED BY A LICENSED, ACCREDITED VETERINARIAN.
 - a. Health certificates must be issued on or after Dec. 31, 2015. ALL HEALTH CERTIFICATES (including Georgia exhibitors) MUST BE ISSUED ON OR AFTER DEC. 31, 2015. Since the Southeast Regional is not considered a 4-H or FFA show, the seasonal health paper for Georgia exhibitors will NOT be valid for this show. All Georgia exhibitors will need to present health certificates on or after Dec. 31, 2015. Any required blood testing will also need to be completed on or after Dec. 31, 2015.
 - b. All animals and health certificates will be inspected by officials prior to unloading. Inspectors will ask to see the original copy of the health certificate upon arrival.
 - c. Multiple hogs may be listed on one original, provided they are transported and arriving on the same shipment.
 - d. Each exhibitor should present one photocopy of their health certificate for each animal during junior show check-in. PLEASE NOTE: If you have double-entered your junior show gilts in the open show and sale, you will also be required to present two additional photocopies of a health certificate during the open show check-in process.
2. REQUIRED PERMITS, STATEMENTS, IDENTIFICATION & MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS
 - a. Name and address of consignor, consigned to: Winter Type Conference or NJSA Southeast Regional, 401 Larry Walker Pkwy., Perry, GA 31069-1367.
 - b. ALL OUT OF STATE ENTRIES: A permit number is required on each shipment of swine entering Georgia and MUST be recorded on the health certificate. Only an accredited veterinarian may obtain this permit by accessing the following website: <http://forms.agr.georgia.gov/SBPermits/Permits.aspx>. If you have any questions on obtaining permits, contact the GA Dept. of Ag, 404.656.3667.
 - c. Individual identification of animal (ear notch and ear tag). ALL animals (purebreds and crossbreds, market and breeding hogs) entering the Georgia National Fairgrounds MUST be identified by a federally-recognized, permanently-numbered ear tag. For more information on federally-recognized ear tags, please visit www.nationalswine.com.
 - d. Health status of animal, including dates of required tests and vaccinations, MUST be listed.
 - e. A Premise ID number MUST be included on your health certificate.
 - f. Your veterinarian's cell phone number MUST be included on your health certificate.
 - g. A driver's license number for the exhibitor (exhibitor, parent or guardian is acceptable) MUST be included on your health certificate.
 - h. ALL HEALTH CERTIFICATES MUST CARRY THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS:
Farm or origin of the swine:
 - has not had any clinical signs or diagnosis of Senecavirus A (Seneca Valley Virus) in the last 30 days
 - has not had pseudorabies or swine dysentery in the last 12 months and uses no PRV vaccine
 - has not had any clinical signs or diagnosis of TGE or PEDv in the last 60 days
 - feeds no garbage and is not under quarantine for any disease condition
 - has not been diagnosed with Vesicular Stomatitis within 10 miles of the farm of origin within the last 30 days
3. REQUIRED TESTS AND VACCINATIONS:
 - a. ALL hogs (breeding and market) MUST be tested for pseudorabies (PRV) and brucellosis on or after Dec. 31, 2015, UNLESS animals come from a PRV-qualified and brucellosis-validated herd.
 - i. If the herd of origin is PRV-qualified and brucellosis-validated, individual testing of each animal is not required. In this case, the PRV qualification and brucellosis validation numbers must appear on the health certificate and complete quarterly herd test date (month, day and year) must be stated on health certificate.
 - ii. Swine tested for PRV and brucellosis must show the date blood sample was drawn (month, day and year).
 - iii. The Elisa, PCFIA, ALA or S/N tests are acceptable. Differentiable Elisa test will not be accepted.
 - b. ALL breeding animals coming to the show MUST be vaccinated against Leptospirosis (6-way) including Bratislava and Erysipelas on or after Dec. 31, 2015. The complete date of vaccination MUST be listed on the health certificate. Market animals should not be vaccinated.
 - c. It is strongly recommended that all breeding animals be vaccinated against influenza.
 - In some instances, these rules are in addition to Georgia regulations, but are necessary to sell animals into other states.
 - These rules are the same for animals entered in the Winter Type Conference or Southeast Regional.

The American swine industry takes the position that it is the worldwide leader in producing consistent, wholesome, high-quality pork. To have relevance in the industry, for both "Farm to Food" and our "Youths Education," show stock must change to more performance and overall function. The best SHOW HOGS are patterned after the best BREEDING HOGS that add value to an industry.

High-performance Hampshires can accomplish: problem free production, efficient growth, soundness with flexible movement, tasteful meat quality and muscle volume. CPMW Paydirt 28-1 points to how backwards our show industry is. He is a "Ten" with "No Holes" in his genetic and phenotypic conformation. A sire that can cut across prejudice, preference and politics to be endeared by friend and foe.

WHEN YOU REALIZE YOU'VE FOLLOWED THE WRONG TRAIN OF THOUGHT, CONSIDER OUR GENE POOL TO SOLVE PROBLEMS AND REAP BENEFITS.

WW-Paul Livestock Scales

Proud sponsor of the NJSA

Model 58SX
500-lb. single animal livestock scale

The new and improved WW-Paul Scale Model 58SX includes the new side slide, bi-fold gate design for faster and easier operation. The Model 58SX is easily retrofitted with an electronic cell, readout indicator and ticket or tape printer, if desired. Heavy-duty construction guarantees an accurate and dependable livestock scale.

All hog and sheep components are constructed from A-513 high-tensile steel tubing. Framework is fabricated from 1 1/2", 14-gauge tubing, and interior vertical rails are built from 1 1/2", 16-gauge tubing. All joints are saddle cut for extra strength. Gate frame is 72" tall and panels are available in 41" or 48" heights. All units have powder coat finish.

New STRUCK GOLD

(Equalizer x Steel Force's Littermate)

CROSSBRED BOAR BUY OF THE YEAR!!!

Very stout skulled, big footed boar that has that extra extension and flash every breeder wants to implement into their herd. Struck Gold has a big rib cage and full rump while being opened up through his lower skeleton. But what makes this guy a MUST USE is the fact that with all of his bone and power he's still tremendous in his skeletal build from the side. Feet and legs are impeccable as he's strong pasterned and flat/clean jointed..... Strike it RICH with STRUCK GOLD!!!!

New HAIR NATION

(Grand Drive x Stand Out)

HAIR is BACK in style!! Tremendous Extension and head carriage wrapped up in an extremely sound and pliable package. HAIR NATION is very bold bladed and square chested while being massive through the center portion of his rib. But it's all of his extra skeletal quality and design that makes us feel this guy could truly make an impact on the yorkshire breed. So get on board and make Yorkshires better and as Mark Hoge puts it, "Lets bring HAIR NATION back."

New CASH

(GMAN X Happy Feet)

This record-selling spotted boar from the 2015 WPX is exactly what we have been looking for. This ultra cool designed, level rascal is as flawless in his hip and hind leg structure as you can make one. We feel he will follow Tango's siring ability and work perfect on the most popular spotted genetic lines available today. When on the move, you realize this guy is something special. Tango and Cash are two outstanding spotted boar options!

TRUE BLUE

(Marshall Monster x Money Shot x Toxic)

A truly impressive mature boar!!! True Blue is a MUST USE if your trying to help the maturity pattern of your sows. This guy is extremely proportionate and great designed from the profile. He's opened up and plants and pushes off of a perfect hip and hind leg. Visitors marvel over his soundness while being great pasterned and monster footed.

New FLAME THROWER

(Striking Matches x Killer Instinct x Suzanne)

What a creature!! When we saw Flame Thrower we knew this one could change the barrow world in one generation. Its no secret we need to make hogs longer and more extended sacrificing any width or power and Flame Thrower will defiantly fit the bill!!! This dude is extra tall bladed with a big back and lots of shape and mass but what makes him even more unique is the fact that he can motor for days while being strong pasterned and good footed. Furthermore, on paper he's as power packed as any, with a pedigree tracing back to the great Suzanne (Monumentals Mother). So if you're ready to light em up, you better get ahold of the flame with Flame Thrower!!!

TRIGGER

(Colt 45 x Stick This)

This is the one! Visitors marvel about Trigger's ability to combine stoutness and power with skeletal organization. His generating power is being proven by his successes just like OYE - siring the Reserve ham (3rd Overall, Bronze Medal Winner) and siring the most gilts of any sire that sold in the OYE gilt sale. In addition his pigs have won shows all across the country.

Career PROFILE

By Bonnie Johnson, Marketing Associate, AgCareers.com

Working your way up

Starting at the bottom and working your way up can be daunting. Even if you hold a degree, it doesn't mean you are entitled to a management role. It is not uncommon for organizations to have a "promote from within" culture. This may mean you need to get your foot in the door by taking an entry-level position at the bottom and work your way up.

Becky Ropp of Growmark worked her way up to become the Director of Talent Management. Ropp first interned at Growmark and then started part-time in a secretarial/coordinator position in advertising. This led to a full-time communications position, then a marketing and communications role until she was promoted to Director of Talent Management.

Entry-level positions have distinct advantages you need to consider. Starting at the ground floor eases the mentality that you need to "earn your stripes" before you become a manager; there can be resentment from other employees if a new grad starts at a higher level.

"Working your way up can really help you understand the workings of the organization, where employees are coming from and who the people are that can help you get more done," shared Ropp.

"In order to be successful, you need to really understand what all employees in the organization do," said Carlos Gerle, Training & Development Manager, Murphy-Brown, LLC (now Smithfield Hog Production Division). "When you work your way up to a management role, your employees will give you respect because you've been there, know what it takes to do their jobs and have experience doing it."

TRAINING PROGRAMS

It is difficult to be a productive team member if you do not understand every aspect of the business. Training programs can help sharpen technical proficiencies and very importantly, hone soft skills such as time management and adaptability.

Many companies offer structured training programs that will expose you to day-to-day operations and introduce you to the organization from the ground up with hands-on work. You'll also be exposed to a large range of departments on a rotational basis. Trainees are given a foundation in all areas of the business to help develop the skills and knowledge needed to assume a management role.

The structured training programs also have a very clear, detailed succession plan and timeline. They will probably specify that you will be in the program for X number of months and then be placed in a supervisory role within X months. In general, it can be anywhere from six months to a couple years.

Murphy-Brown, LLC has a manager trainee program that can lead to a management role within two years. The timeline is not set in stone, as it depends on the progress of the individual and their flexibility. A willingness to relocate to other locations around the country or even the world will significantly increase the number of opportunities available to you. Management trainees at Murphy-Brown can eventually take on roles such as farm manager, grower relations, resource specialist, production manager and R&D and logistical management, just to name a few. Gerle started as a manager trainee at Murphy-Brown 14 years ago and is now training & development manager in their corporate office. "Don't be closed to all the options in agriculture; production was the last thing on my mind in college, but it turned out to be a very good career," said Gerle.

BASF has several different Agro Professional Development Programs for new grads. "They are hired into this program because they have demonstrated to us, via previous internships, volunteer positions, leadership roles in college and during their interview, that they have potential to be developed within BASF," shared Sheila Waldrop, BASF Sr. Recruitment Specialist. "These are the people we expect to move into leadership roles, and we require that they are mobile," added Waldrop.

Not all companies start employees in a training program right away. Growmark has several training programs for different experience levels; the internship program for college students, but also programs for current employees. The Emerging Leaders program for employees that have been with the organization 2-3 years features a series of courses and gives participants a broader base of knowledge to understand the organization as a whole. The Lead program is for employees that have been with Growmark for 5-10 years, and its goal is to develop future executives.

Starting at the bottom can be beneficial and worthwhile for candidates looking for career growth opportunities. Develop work ethic, basic skills and learn about all aspects of the business, all while you earn respect from coworkers and managers. See, it's not so bad to start at the bottom; there is only one way to go, and that is up!

best i ever saw

*He was one of those hogs.
I felt like he was one of the* EASIEST DECISIONS

to win a hog show that I ever had.

For the time, he was pretty square built, stout skulled, the right frame size, muscular and really sound.

Jim McCoy

When Brian Down's barrow hit the ring during the 2000 Illinois State Fair Open Barrow Show, he wasn't all the way through the gate before Jim McCoy was wondering just how in the world he got the good fortune to see this one. You see, no junior champions were allowed to show in the open show, and this barrow was shown by a junior exhibitor. For his time, the barrow was phenomenal and went on to win the Open Barrow Show easily.

After the banners were handed out, McCoy would learn his winning barrow had weighed out by just one pound in the junior ring. Junior judge Al Christian was said to have lamented over the fact he couldn't use him a decade later, when he returned to judge the Illinois State Fair.

Down's barrow was raised by John Lane of Indiana. He was three-quarter Yorkshire, sired by Slam Dunk housed at Galen McCune's Great Plains Genetics and out of a sow sired by Eddie Robinson's Elevator boar.

High Points Winning Barrow on the Indiana Junior Show Circuit

Congratulations to Cole Wilcox on exhibiting this very successful show barrow!!! We could not be any more proud of how this barrow was fed and shown throughout the Summer! Great Job! Also, a sincere Thank You goes out to Travis Platt for his placing of this barrow and involvement from start to finish!!!

As Listed in Our March Online Sale:

EN: 291-5 XB • Breed: Crossbred Barrow

Sire: Sky Wire • Dam's Ear Notch: 284-1

Sire of Dam: Bear • Weight in lbs (as of 03.23.15): 58

Description: These 291 Sky Wire barrows are REAL FANCY!!! They are extra clean made about their lower third yet they have really good true rib shape and curvature!!! All three of these barrow will really impress you with the mass and shape they have and express down their top and they are very agile and athletic barrows! Heads in the air and they go with an attitude and cocky kind of look that seems to always work in the show ring!!! Take your pick!!! Certainly, have some variety on what color, but past that these three barrows are so much alike it's scary!!!
