Uncommon people

“Success is uncommon; therefore, not to be enjoyed by the common man. I’m looking for uncommon people.”

When Coach Cal Stoll spoke these words to Tony Dungy and the rest of the freshman football team at the University of Minnesota, he likely had no idea how they would be remembered.

These words came to me as I attended the funeral for John A. ‘Jack’ Rodibaugh. Each one of Jack’s seven children – David, Max, Jim, John, Stephen, Peggy and Betsy – spoke about their father and how he impacted their lives. Each of them mentioned the love shared between Jack and his wife, Emily, and the love given to them and their families. As Jack was known to say, “Practice your faith. Your spouse in life is your most important decision. Never quit learning. Seek balance in life and all that you do.”

I first remember meeting Jack in 1976 at the National Barrow Show (NBS)®. I was aware of the all the contributions the Rodibaugh and Parkison operation were making to the swine industry, such as Jasper, the Chicago International Champion who was used as a symbol of the ideal market hog. Not only were their hogs making a difference, but the people from this firm were making contributions to the pork industry. Jack was selected to serve as the judge for the Duroc breeding show at the 1976 NBS®. This was the first big Duroc show Jack would judge. Folks, there were 89 February boars, 63 March boars, 53 February gilts and 33 March gilts exhibited that day in Austin, Minnesota. My wife and I were fortunate to be the exhibitors of the Grand Champion Duroc Boar. Jack had no idea who I was. The show report in the 1976 October issue of the Duroc News contained the following statement, “Mr. Jack Rodibaugh proved many ‘Doubting Thomases’ wrong when he did one mighty powerful job of judging hogs and giving reasons. Jack Rodibaugh was not political in his placings as it did not matter who was driving the hogs. It can be stated quite plainly – Jack Rodibaugh did the best job of placing Durocs at the NBS® that has been done in modern times.”

I think back and recognize that Jack Rodibaugh was aware of the many times people stated hog shows are political and there was no room for the new people. What a turning point in time that show was, as many of the animals placed were from breeders who were younger or unestablished in the industry. Jack was once again ahead of the game and realized the need to incorporate all exhibitors into the mix. Jack returned to the NBS® in 1977 and did an outstanding job of placing the Duroc breeding stock. He once again plugged in the best boars and gilts, no matter who was driving them.

Years later, Jack served on the board of directors for the Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR) and was a huge supporter of the formation of the National Swine Registry (NSR). Jack served on the Administrative Committee, the forerunner to the NSR Executive Committee. This was not an easy transition, as there was still turf protection. In fact, Jack moved to eliminate the Super Majority rule and stated if it is good for one of our breeds, it is good for all of them.

In closing, I want to thank Emily and all the Rodibaugh family for sharing Jack and his talents with our industry. As I listened to the sons, daughters and others reflect on the impact Jack made in their lives, I remember the statement, “I’m looking for uncommon people,” and yes, he was.

“Practice your faith. Your spouse in life is your most important decision. Never quit learning. Seek balance in life and all that you do.”

Youth View

Women role models

I grew up surrounded by strong, empowered women who told me I could do anything I dreamed. Obviously, I think my mother did a great job raising me, but the most important thing she did was teach me to believe in myself. I have written countless times about how great a woman I believe my mother to be, but I think it's time to share the spotlight. I am fortunate I have encountered many strong women throughout my life, and in honor of attending my first FarmHer "Grow" conference, in September, I would like to recognize two women in the agriculture industry who have helped me feel empowered – Bryn Jenson and Erin Dorsey.

I met Bryn Jenson seven years ago at the Team Purebred Junior Nationals. She was the announcer, and I was on the junior board, so we spent a lot of time together in our first week of knowing one another. I say she was the announcer, but she was so much more than that. Bryn helped at registration, she helped with educational contests, she kept the junior board in line, and she kept everyone laughing, which, as you know, is a quality I highly admire. Our friendship has evolved so much since that year, and I have to owe all that to the fact that I fell on the dance floor at her wedding. At the time of her wedding, we had known each other for a few years, but biffing it on the dance floor really solidified our friendship. When I went to work for the National Swine Registry (NSR), Bryn was at almost every show to help, regardless of the task. It was during the first few months of working together I got to learn just how amazing, intelligent and hilarious she really is to be around.

Erin Dorsey is a force to be reckoned with, and I absolutely love working with her. Honestly, when I met her for the first time, I was a little intimidated by her. I know she hates when I say that, but I couldn't help it. I was on the junior board, and she was this big-haired woman with a strong personality, so I think my feelings were justified. However, it's hard to stay intimidated by someone as generous and caring as she is. Erin comes to every National Junior Swine Association (NJS) event she can, does whatever I ask of her and never complains. Honestly, she has taught me so much about how to run an event, and with her background, I'd say she's a pretty great person to learn from. Erin taught me to be confident and to not waiver in the decisions I make. I cannot thank her enough for that. She truly is the best, and I am grateful to have her on my side.

That is what friendship looks like. These women have helped me grow as a leader, but more importantly, they have helped me grow as a person. The advice these ladies have given me over the years has made a significant difference in my life. To me, any person who will give up their free time to come help with some of the most miniscule and tedious tasks deserves respect. It's not easy to be on the road away from your family for days at a time, but these women do it without complaint. I am incredibly fortunate I am surrounded by powerful and supportive women who have paved their way in a male-dominated industry, but I'm even more grateful they have shared their knowledge and love with me as I have begun my journey.

I know she hates when I say that, but I couldn't help it. I was on the junior board, and she was this big-haired woman with a strong personality, so I think my feelings were justified. ## Fueling Creativity

"Just let me create!"

Even after more than 20 years as a graphic designer, it always amazes me when people tell me they could never do what I do, because they are not that creative. I say to those people, in the immortal words of Colonel Sherman Potter from the TV show *M*A*S*H*, "Horse hockey!"

Every person is creative in their own way. It may not be with Photoshop or In-Design, but everyone has their own set of skills they use every day to do jobs that, if I were to try and do them, would make me say, "I can't do that."

The breeders I have met during my time at the National Swine Registry (NSR) are some of the most resourceful, creative people you will ever know. Day in and day out they weather the storm that is livestock production. Most of the time profit margins are very tight, and they have to be creative in their own ways to save money and market their product.

As far as saving money, the breeders I have met seem to be some of the most resourceful people I have ever seen, taking old barns, old equipment and lots of elbow grease and turning them into facilities that rival anything out there. I was recently in one such facility where a corn crib had been turned into part of the farrowing operation. It was the cleanest, well-lit barn I have ever been in. The wood beams themselves had been wrapped in Dura-Plate that made this who-knows-how-old barn look like the starship Enterprise from Star Trek, on the inside.

When marketing their products, breeders can be very creative. They tend to have a specific image in their mind for what they want to see in their advertisement, catalog or flyer. They just don't have the technical skills to create the ad. That's where the Seedstock EDGE staff comes in. We take what we feel the customer is wanting and try to make it a reality. It doesn't always happen on the first try, but it is our job to talk to the client and figure out what the vision is in their head. Many times, the breeder's idea turns into something wonderful by the time we are done. The breeder is as responsible for the success of the ad as the person making it.

I guess what I am trying to say is don't be afraid to throw out some crazy idea when you talk to someone, be it here or somewhere else, about the idea you have in your head for where you want your ad to go. It is our job to make your idea a reality. The limitation of you not having the software or experience to create something that makes your product stand out should never stop you from thinking outside the normal and being the creative genius we all are deep down inside.

It is a running joke around the Marketing and Communications department that I have, on more than one occasion, gotten a bit passionate about what I do and told people a tad louder than I thought to, "Just let me create!"

So, I leave you with the advice that no idea is dumb, and be the creative person I know you can be.

Sharing the story of agriculture with urban students

By Kevin Waetke :: Vice President Strategic Communications, National Pork Board

With students across the country back in school, teachers are seeking lesson plans to keep their classes engaged with fresh content. Today's teenagers are food enthusiasts who spend more money on food and drinks than anything else. With $44 billion in spending power, now is the time for agriculture to take a seat at the table.

Through support of the U.S. Farmers & Ranchers Alliance (USFRA), the Pork Checkoff is sharing the achievements from today's farms and ranches and debunking many of the misconceptions young consumers have about genetic engineering, antibiotics, crop inputs and other farming methods. The USFRA created Discovering Farmland as an extension of the popular documentary film, Farmland, by James Moll.

The customized curriculum includes standards-aligned, high school-level lessons, activities and interactive resources. It's become increasingly popular with teachers and students alike and provides real-world insights into where food comes from and how it is grown and raised.

TIMELY AG TOPICS

Since its November 2015 launch, more than 10,000 people have downloaded resources. Lesson topics include:

- Farming as an industry
- Educated consumers
- Breaking down stereotypes
- Challenges in farming and ranching

The curriculum touches on how the industry has evolved using sustainability to enhance agricultural practices. It also highlights issues such as how the media reports on food production and consumer demand, as well as how farmers and ranchers must adapt based on this influence.

VIRTUAL FIELD TRIP

Also available to teachers is an on-demand virtual field trip about technology and innovation on today's smart farms. The USFRA, in partnership with Discovery Education, the leading provider of digital content and professional development for K-12 classrooms, hosted the virtual field trip at Deere & Company World Headquarters, in April.

Share these free classroom resources with teachers in your school district. For details, visit discoveringfarmland.com.

The virtual field trip provides urban classrooms unique access to the inner workings of a farm and new techniques that have revolutionized the industry.

WHAT'S NEXT?

This fall, the USFRA and Discovery Education are debuting new digital learning opportunities. Students will be able to investigate food product label claims by choosing products from virtual grocery store aisles.

Students will be able to move at their own pace as they learn about, investigate or experience a particular topic or challenge that agriculture faces.

NSR promotes purebred genetics at VIV China

The National Swine Registry (NSR)'s Vice President of Global Technical Service, Dr. Douglas Newcom, recently returned from a trip to promote NSR purebred genetics at the VIV China trade show, in Beijing. Newcom was joined at the event by Yvette Zhou, NSR Director of China Operations, and the following NSR/America's Best Genetics (ABG) members: Tony Clayton, Clayton Agri-Marketing; Clyde Shaffer and Mr. Eddie Tang, Shaffer Genetics; Max Waldo, Linda Gibbs and Yuxin Chen, Waldo Genetics; Jason Feng and Sally Xie, Whiteshire-Hamroc; and Jake Cluver and Chuck Bastrom, Ag World International. Prior to the trade show, Zhou and Feng attended a meet the press event to help promote the NSR/ABG presence at VIV Asia, to be held in Bangkok, in March 2017. They were able to promote NSR members and services to the press in attendance and join a networking discussion with other participants. The NSR booth was part of the USA Pavilion, where multiple companies from the U.S. are located together, with additional signage pointing visitors to products and services from the U.S.

Mark Ford, new Director of the Beijing Agricultural Trade Office (ATO) stopped by to introduce himself. The two most important topics discussed with Ford were the need to revisit the import health protocol for live swine and resolving a health protocol to export swine semen from the U.S. to China. Newcom also participated in two video interviews with swine media groups. Shawn Shen, from the Chengdu ATO, stopped by the booth to discuss a reverse-trade mission they are planning for 2017 where he will bring a group of 10 to 12 Chinese producers for a tour. NSR will be assisting in coordinating herd visits with ABG members to coincide with World Pork Expo. NSR also participated in the U.S. – China Agricultural Trade Forum, where representatives from the Beijing ATO, China Animal Agriculture Association (CAAA) and China Feed Industry Association (CFIA) spoke about Chinese agricultural markets and the need for mutual cooperation to benefit both U.S. and Chinese producers. Each U.S. and Chinese company in attendance was allotted three to five minutes to describe their company or association, products and services.

Additional breed composition testing will also be required as technology becomes available for each breed. This motion will be implemented upon the implementation of the new NSR pedigree program.

His involvement in agriculture started when he was a young boy, with one of the highlights being the receipt of his American Farmer Degree through the FFA program at Punxsutawney High School. Many years later, he was honored to be inducted into the Pennsylvania Livestock Association Hall of Fame, in 2004.

McConaughey enjoyed sharing stories of showing livestock at many county and state fairs. He started showing at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), in 1956, and continued through 2008.

In 2008, McConaughey and his wife, Lois, were proud to earn the Supreme Champion Bred Gilt award at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, where he had shown since 1938. This award was the culmination of a lifetime of striving for excellence in his breeding stock.

John A. "Jack" Rodibaugh

1925-2016

John A. "Jack" Rodibaugh, 91, of rural Rensselaer, Indiana, passed away on Sept. 18, at the Rensselaer Care Center.

Rodibaugh, the third of seven children, was born June 19, 1925, in a home without electricity or running water in New Augusta, Indiana, to Charles Allen and Kathryn Marietta Rodibaugh. The family moved to 15 acres near Jolietville, in 1932. Rodibaugh attended schools near Fortville and in Jolietville, then Westfield, where he graduated from high school in 1943. Rodibaugh loved basketball and was proud of his team's county championship. In 1935, he showed his first pig in 4-H, a Poland China gilt, and this kindled a lifelong passion for breeding, showing and selling pigs. After graduation, Rodibaugh entered the U.S. Navy for three years, then attended Purdue University on the GI Bill. He graduated, in 1950, from Purdue with a degree in animal husbandry. At Purdue, he was a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity.

The best decision Rodibaugh ever made was to ask Clara Emily Rigsbee to marry him. They were married July 30, 1950, in Rushville, Indiana. This inseparable "team" shared 66 years together developing a legacy of faith, family and farming. As a result of relationships developed at Purdue, Rodibaugh had an opportunity to partner with Bob Parkison, in Rensselaer, to farm and raise purebred Chester White hogs. Rodibaugh's vision, leadership and hard work resulted in expansion of the swine breeding business to four different pure breeds and the idea to utilize crossbreeding. His Chicago International Livestock Exposition Grand Champion Barrow, in 1969, "Jasper," became internationally known and the subject of an educational movie heralding the advent of "meat-type" hogs. Rodibaugh's skill in breeding pigs was widely recognized, resulting in his judging exhibitions in 22 states and Canada. He shared his success with charitable contributions to his church, Purdue University, fraternity, family members and the community. Rodibaugh also gave of his time to numerous organizations and was a leader in helping his church, the Indiana Pork Producers, purebred swine associations and the Rensselaer school system adapt to change. He was the recipient of numerous recognitions by the swine industry, agriculture and education. One recognition which he was most proud was having his portrait hung in the Saddle & Sirloin Club Hall of Fame, in 2007.

Rodibaugh was a Purdue sports enthusiast, an avid fisherman, consummate storyteller, practical jokester and constant teaser.

Rodibaugh is survived by his wife, Emily, and children, David (Danita) of Rensselaer; Max (Carol) of Frankfort; James "Jim" (Teri) of Rensselaer; Betsy Keffaber (Kerry) of Fishers; Peggy Goodman (Rick) of Rensselaer; John (Debbie) of Rensselaer; and Stephen (Shannon) of Rensselaer; 28 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren. Also surviving are sisters, Mary Margaret Fox and Joanne Reed. Rodibaugh was preceded in death by his parents and siblings, Allen, Kathryn, Barbara Lou Paxton and Robert "Bob," and brothers-in-law, Philip White, Albert Rigsbee and Frank "Rany" Fox.

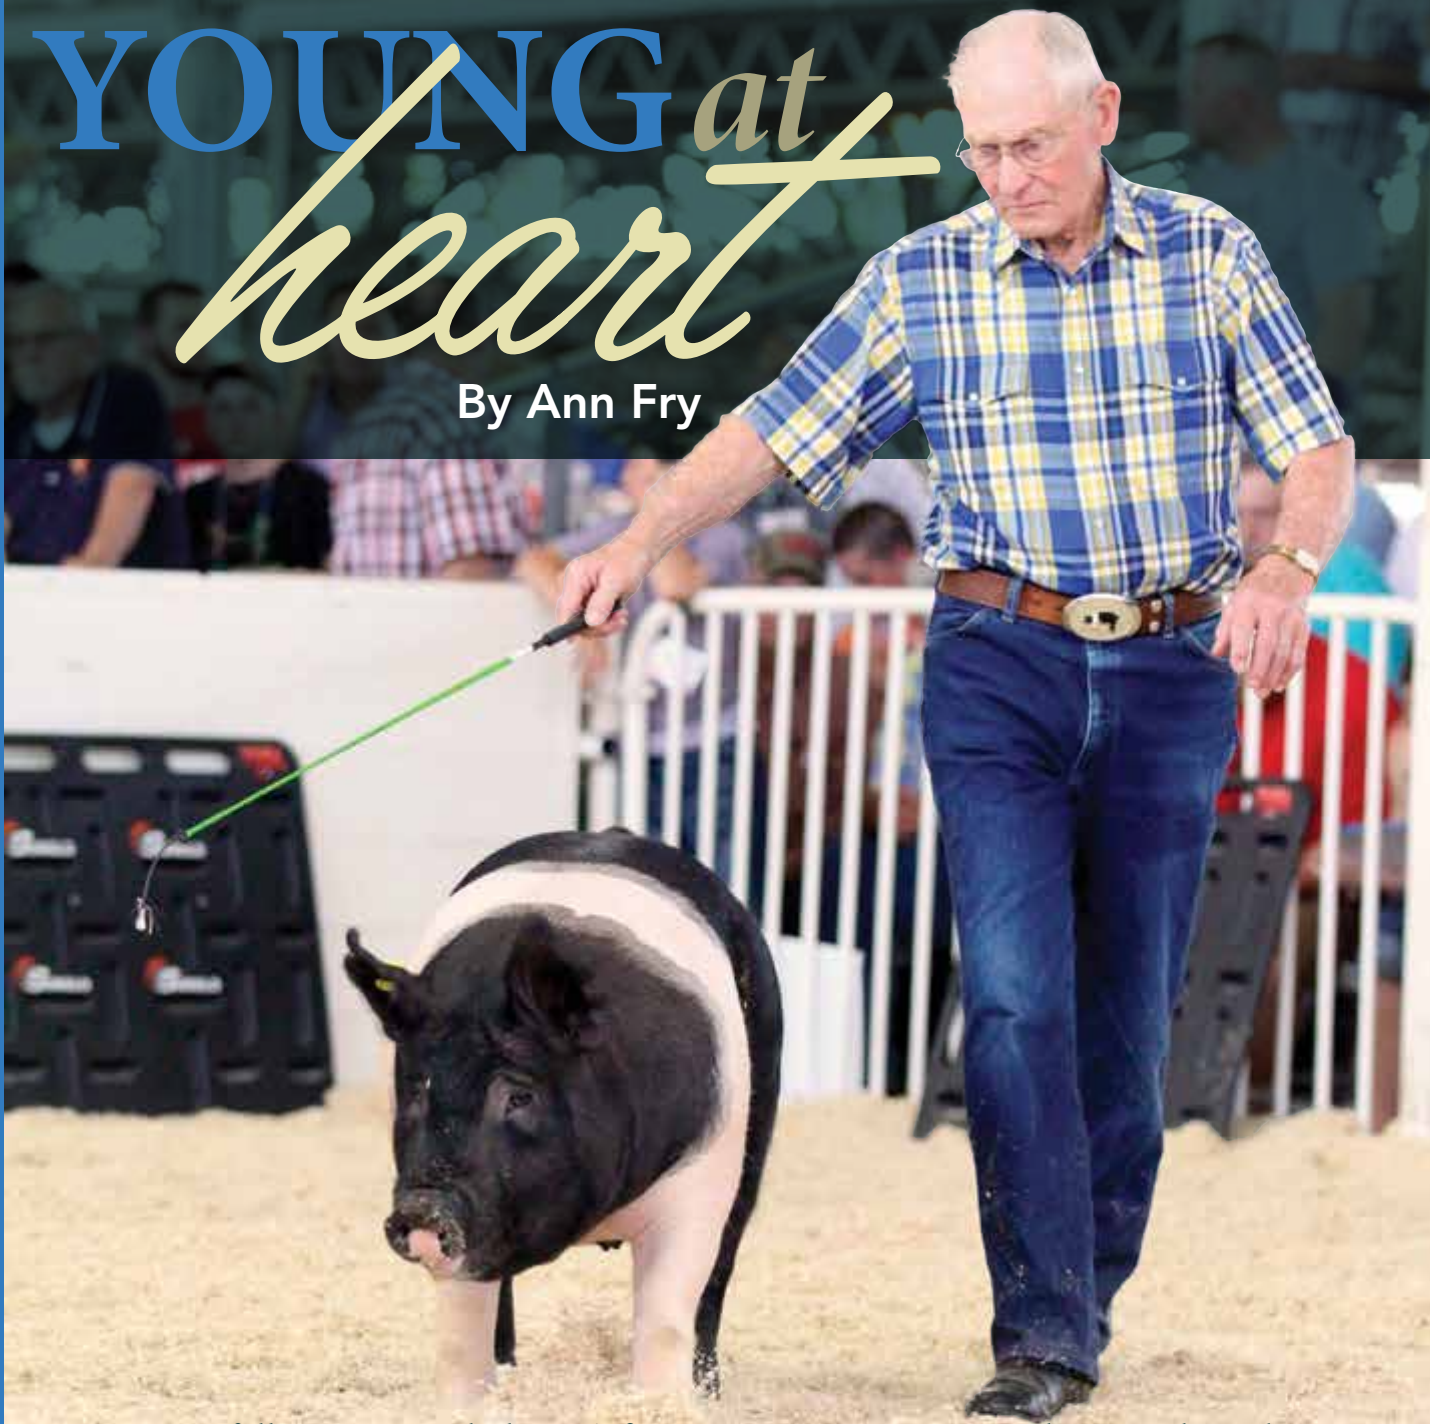

Memorial contributions may be made to Trinity United Methodist Church in Rensselaer, the Rensselaer Schools Student Care Fund or the Purdue Foundation for the Livestock Judging Team. Contributions can be mailed c/o Jackson Funeral Chapel, P.O. Box 70, Rensselaer, IN 47978. Burial with military honors followed at Memory Gardens, Rensselaer, Indiana.

The family wishes to say thank you to all who have given wonderful support and care to Rodibaugh over the past few years. Most who knew Rodibaugh know he liked to offer advice, and in his own words, "Practice your faith. Your spouse in life is your most important decision. Never quit learning. Seek balance in life and all that you do."

YOUNG at heart

By Ann Fry

On a crisp, fall morning with the sun's first rays just starting to streak across the Indiana horizon, Del Guard steps out the back door of his white farmhouse, letting the screen door quietly close behind him. He walks across the gravel drive and steps inside the warm farrowing house to be greeted by grunts from Hampshire sows and soft squeals from the next generation of pigs. He quickly walks down the aisle, checking each sow and her litter, his trained eye missing nothing. Satisfied all is well, he continues his routine and begins another day at Young & Guard.

For the past 58 years, Guard has been managing Hampshire sows on the West Lafayette, Indiana, farm. He and his wife, Mary Beth, formed a partnership with her father, R.C. Young, in 1958, and began Young & Guard. Initially, they raised crops, chickens, beef cattle, sheep, hogs and dairy cows. But, when Young died, in 1961, Guard decided to focus on the crops and hogs. They did keep the Young & Guard name, however, in honor of the man who gave the Guard couple the opportunity to farm.

It has been a team effort from the Guard couple to make their farm a success. Although she is often found working behind the scenes, Mary Beth has been a major contributor to the Young & Guard operation.

“Mary Beth deserves a lot more credit than she usually takes,” Guard says. “She kept the family going, kept me fed, helped run wagons, drove tractors, she did it all. And, she did it humbly and quietly with no fanfare. She’s always been very supportive of our operation.”

The operation consisted of 300 sows, primarily Hampshires, for several years. Yorkshires, Durocs and Landrace

The Young & Guard partnership began in 1958 between Del and Mary Beth Guard and R.C. Young. The farm where the Guards still live today has been in Mary Beth’s family since her grandfather purchased the land, in 1895. Pictured above are Mary Beth Guard (l), Del Guard (c) and manager Tracie Knotts (r).

Perhaps the industry is catching on to a philosophy Guard has held for a long time – a really good production hog can be made into a showpig, and a really good showpig can be a production hog.

raising pigs, it’s that things are always changing. To keep up with the industry and the market, producers have to be willing to adapt and figure out what it takes to survive, just also found a home at Young & Guard, over the years, partly to cross with the Hampshire females and partly to diversify the competition among grandchildren in 4-H. For most of the time the operation has been in business, the focus was on making commercial gilts and seedstock. Now, with 100 sows, they are switching gears to focus on raising purebred Hampshires for showpigs.

Guard will be among the first to admit there is a difference in the commercial and showpig sectors of the swine industry. However, at recent shows he has seen a trend toward choosing more practical, production-oriented showpigs than have been popular in the past.

Transitioning to showpig production has Guard taking a closer look at the pig’s overall appearance, when it comes to selecting keeper animals. But, he says, they are still uncompromising on the basics of soundness, growth and productivity, just as they have always been. Studying pedigrees, something Guard learned to do as a boy on his family’s dairy farm examining the Guernsey Breeder’s Journal, is also important at Young & Guard.

“Knowing the pedigrees and the background of each animal here like we do, we know what some of the pigs are going to do in the future, versus what they just look like at the moment,” says Tracie Knotts, manager at Young & Guard.

If there is one thing Guard has learned through his many years of

as he is doing now by moving to a more showpig-focused operation.

“I read in a book once, ‘You don’t make the rules, but if you’re going to play the game, you better figure out what the rules are, and play by the rules.’ The rules in this industry are you have to be willing to change and adapt,” Guard says.

In addition to the thousands of pigs raised on the Hoosier Homestead farm Mary Beth’s grandfather purchased, in 1895, the Guards also raised four children. From an early age, Guard says, the children learned to work, move pigs, pull pigs and drive a tractor. Some of the Guard family’s favorite memories were made during the 10 years each of their children showed 4-H pigs at the county and Indiana State Fair. All of the Guard children went on to get degrees from Purdue University and pursued careers outside of pig farming.

The picture above was used in promotional items for the Young & Guard operation. For many years, Young & Guard ran 300 sows to sell as commercial gilts and seedstock. The original caption for the picture read, "Don't be left out! (in the search for growthy, productive, durable hogs)."

(top) Morgan Knotts has shown several Hampshire hogs from Young & Guard, starting when he was 5 years old. He views Del Guard as more of a grandfather figure than someone he just shows hogs for.

One of their daughters, Beth, and her husband, Jeff Nagel, came back to the farm, in 1996, to take over the cropping program. This allowed Guard to concentrate on the swine operation.

Guard says, they all love coming back to the farm, and they know it will always be there for them. Although, there are times the Guard children wish their parents weren't quite so tied to the swine industry.

"I remember after our son got married, he kept asking us to come visit him. He finally said, 'If I buy the champion boar someplace, then would you come visit me?'" Guard laughs.

Tracie joined the Young & Guard operation, in 1995.

"We're all family here. For 21 and a half years, we've worked together, laughed together, cried together and prayed together," Tracie says.

As much as Tracie enjoys the day-to-day aspects of her job, her favorite part of the operation is the opportunity it gave her to raise her kids on a farm. Every day during the summers, the Knotts children would tag along with their mom. They were included in the farm operation and the Guard family as much as if they were related by blood.

"Del has been there whenever I needed him and is more like a grandpa than someone I just show pigs for," Morgan Knotts says.

And, Morgan has shown a lot of pigs for Guard, starting when he was just 5 years old. He had watched his sister, Randee, show a gilt all summer, and he knew he could do it, too. He was allowed to show the gilt at the Indiana State Fair Open Show, where she sold for $2,000 to the Sharrett family, in Ohio. Morgan also showed a gilt at the World Pork Expo, in 2010, who was named the Champion Hampshire Gilt. That gilt was a littermate to the Silver Bullet boar who can be found in several Hampshire pedigrees and is still used at Young & Guard.

Randee has been strongly influenced by Guard, as well.

"He taught me I have to work hard to get where I want to be and what hard work really is. I appreciate him and love him more and more every day, because without him I wouldn't have pushed myself to be where I'm at today," she says.

The Young & Guard operation

has had a hand in shaping the future of more than one young person, over the years. In addition to the Guard's four children, their 14 grandchildren and the Knotts children, several college students have learned a lesson or two from Guard.

One student was Keith Schuman, who wrote the Herdsman software program on the computer Guard purchased, in 1980. Guard recalls he first challenged his daughter, Jan, to write a program that would allow him to track his purebred sow records. Schuman happened to be in the office at the Guard's home one day, explained he could help, and the rest, Guard says, is history. Another notable student Guard remembers is Keith Schoettmer. Schoettmer was named the first America's Pig Farmer of the Year, in 2015.

Tracie always gives the students one piece of advice before they leave Young & Guard.

"It doesn't matter what you do in your life, the money comes and goes, but you spend too much time doing a job to do a job you hate," she advises.

Working at the Young & Guard operation is a job that doesn't feel like a job to either Tracie or Guard, and neither one can imagine not doing it. When asked about the future, they both agree it is a bit uncertain, but there is one thing they do know – as long as they are able, they will continue working together to make Hampshires better.

"We both have a passion for Hampshires and trying to make them better," Guard says. "As long as the good Lord gives me strength to get up and go help, we'll keep working at it. I know the years are getting up there for me, but I'm still young at heart."

DMP GENETICS

Turning the Page

We are announcing a major change in our Hampshire operation. Our home farm, south of Mendon, Ill., that has housed our swine operation since 1968, is being developed into small acreage home sites. Since beginning this process last year, it has become apparent that a 100 sow/farrowing operation and our property development cannot exist on the same 120 acres. Therefore, we have made the difficult decision to "turn the page" and offer our entire Hampshire sow herd for sale online on Showpig.com.

This dispersal will include the entire current sow herd and all replacement females retained during 2016. This will be a unique and unprecedented opportunity to access elite foundation females from a proven genetic program that has been a major contributor to the Hampshire breed for decades.

We will have all the important information concerning these upcoming sales and extensive information about the offerings on a new website www.peterfarms.com, hosted by Showpig.com.

The first TURNING THE PAGE SALE will be WEDNESDAY, NOV. 23, 2016.

A Royal tradition

By Ann Fry

In October of 1899, as the weather was turning colder and the cattle breeders around the country were leaving their farms Show. This was the first national event for the exposition was held in a tent at the Kansas City Stockyards with 541 in attendance. This was the beginning of what is known today leaves were starting to fall, Hereford and fields for the National Hereford and sale of purebred cattle. The show registered Herefords and 55,000 people as the American Royal.

DIGILINK
Visit americanroyal.com to learn more about what the American Royal has to offer.

Kristie Larson, director of education at the American Royal Association, says the show continued to be held in a tent, each fall, until a building was constructed at the Kansas City Stockyards, in 1922. The original structure burnt in February 1925, but was rebuilt in time for the show in November, of that year. That building stood until 1992, when the current facilities first opened.

The name American Royal was given to the show by C.F. Curtis, dean of agriculture at the Iowa State College of Agriculture and writer for Drovers Journal, in 1902. Curtis had visited the British Royal, and when he came back and visited the show in Kansas City, he said, "Let this be known as the American Royal." With the new name, the show was opened to more breeds and species, and it became a Kansas City tradition.

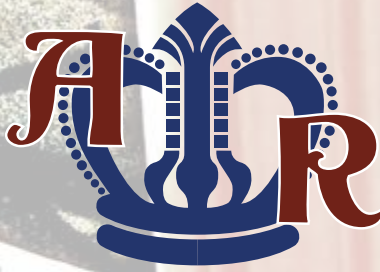

In Larson's opinion, the tradition is what makes the American Royal special.

"This is our 117th season, so we have a lot of heritage and a lot of tradition," she says. "Generations of families have been showing here. I think it's always fun when people come because their dad or granddad showed here, or they were involved in another aspect of the Royal. That kind of tradition in the livestock industry is pretty special."

The American Royal was the first national show Brian Anderson exhibited at. He took a Duroc barrow his first year and remembers guiding his hog around huge, cement pillars in the middle of the show ring. He also remembers the cinnamon rolls sold just outside the doors of the barn. He jokingly says bringing the cinnamon rolls back to the fairgrounds was his first order of business, when he was hired as livestock manager at the American Royal Association.

All jokes aside, Anderson has big plans for the future of what he considers one of the premier stock shows in the country. In the short time he has been there, he has already made a few changes to the American Royal Livestock Show, such as changing the schedule for sheep and goats and rearranging where the cattle will be stalled. He hopes these changes will make the show more user friendly and appealing for youth exhibitors.

“Kids have options this time of year on where they can exhibit their animals. It’s up to us as a show to figure out how we can not only be the best in the country, but how we can be the show who protects their education by not making them miss too much school,” Anderson says.

Education is very important to the folks at the American Royal Association. They offer school tours for second through fourth graders to learn about American Royal agriculture. They work with Farm Bureau Organization’s Ag in the Classroom and My American Farm to provide agricultural curriculum for grade school teachers. A youth leadership day is offered to high school students interested in agriculture leadership, careers and advocacy.

Providing opportunities to help students with continuing education is also important. In 2015, $77,300 were awarded in scholarships to collegiate agriculture and veterinary students, high school and collegiate livestock judging contestants, and American Royal livestock and equine exhibitors.

The biggest challenge the American Royal faces is the timing of the livestock show. Traditionally, the livestock show is held at the end of October, which usually ends up overlapping with the National FFA Convention. This presents a tough choice for kids to decide which event to attend. Anderson says, the simple solution would be to change the time the show is held. But, the American Royal is unique because there are five different cattle breed associations headquartered within a 45-minute radius of the facility. Several of those associations set their annual meetings or other board meetings around the American Royal schedule. To avoid the most problems, Anderson is proposing moving the show to a weekend schedule, allowing kids to not miss too much school as well as make it to at least part of the National FFA Convention.

The question always at the forefront of Anderson’s mind is, “How can I bust down the walls of this facility by making participation sky high?” He wants the American Royal to be the show at the top of every youth livestock exhibitors list to attend. He knows the American Royal has made it to its 117th season because of good leadership with good vision. But, he also knows if things simply continue as they’ve always been, other shows will soon pass them by.

United Duroc Swine Registry Candidates

AT-LARGE • Doug Albright, Michigan

Doug Albright, 31, of Coldwater, Michigan, is married to Dana, who is employed at University of Michigan Children's Hospital as a child's psychologist.

Size and scope of operation: Albright Swine Farms is a 230 sow farrow-to-finish operation that sells showpigs year round, as well as market hogs and breeding stock. The sow herd consists of primarily Duroc and Berkshire sows. Albright Pork Enterprises also owns and operates Countryside Quality Meats, a USDA Inspected Slaughter Facility in Union City, Michigan.

Pork leadership activities: NJSA Youth Advisory Board member and Spartan Classic and Spartan Jackpot chair.

Other leadership activities: Branch County Farm Bureau Young Farmers board member, Branch County 4-H judging team coach and BACC FFA Youth Advisory Board member.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

As the pig industry has evolved, we have had to evolve with it, which has meant focusing on the showpig market and the NJSA. The Duroc breed itself must maintain its values on performance and growth, as we still have a demand in the commercial sector for terminal boars. With those priorities in mind, promotion is key. The Duroc breed has an opportunity to continue to grow youth participation as well as demand for boars world wide. Utilizing our resources within NSR to both grow and maintain the NJSA, as well as global market opportunities, should be at the top of our priority list.

CENTRAL • Brett Beyers, Illinois

Brett Beyers, 39, of Sibley, Illinois, and his wife, Jodi, have four children: Brooke, 14; Lane, 9; Kinley, 6; and Keaton, 3.

Size and scope of operation: Beyers Farms consists of approximately 35 Duroc sows and a few herd boars for the production of showpigs, breeding stock and semen sales. In addition to managing his Duroc herd, Beyers is also a showpig feed salesman for Earlybird Nutrition.

Pork leadership activities: NSR Executive Committee member, United Duroc Swine Registry board member, assistant swine superintendent of Ford County 4-H show, president of Livingston County Pork Producers and founding board member of Illinois Club Pig Association.

Other leadership activities: Our Lady of Lourdes Parish Council and Ford County Youth Soccer League coach.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

The first part of the role should be to provide the opportunity to register purebred hogs and offer the additional services that go along with the process. The second part of the role should be to provide opportunities for the youth of the organization to gain knowledge of breeding and production practices to help the future generations flourish in this industry. We live in an ever-changing world, and we, as an industry, need to be able to adapt to changing times.

CENTRAL • Jayson Butts, Wisconsin

Jayson Butts, 35, of Evansville, Wisconsin, owns and operates Butts Farms with his father, Alan, his wife, Courtney, and their two children, Kaden, 8, and Emersen, 5.

Size and scope of operation: Butts Farms runs 50 sows, mainly consisting of Durocs with just a couple of crossbred sows in the mix. Those 50 sows are bred and selected for the showpig world, as well as focusing on the breeding stock side very heavily. Butts Farms has a deep history in the Duroc breed along with being very involved in the showpig industry, making it a unique operation.

Pork leadership activities: Active member of the Wisconsin Showpig Association, former board member of the Rock County Pork Producers and county swine leader of the Evansville 4-H Club.

Other leadership activities: Lifetime member of the Evansville FFA Alumni, member of the St. John's Lutheran Church and served on the advisory board for Pioneer Hi-Bred in area KD (Wisconsin).

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

The NSR and UDSR have always made very positive contributions to the swine industry and purebred breeders. We need to continue to look to the future and make decisions that best fit breeders, as well as the NSR, because without one the other doesn't exist. The NSR and UDSR must continue to work heavily with the commercial world and foreign trade. The NSR must play a huge role in legislative issues. Most importantly, the focus needs to remain on today's youth. Our youth are our future. Every aspect of our business is geared toward the future with everyday reminders of the past. Any great owner of a business is diversified and focused on working for every aspect of their business. This holds true for fellow breeders, UDSR and NSR.

WESTERN • Chad Hill, Texas

Chad Hill, 45, of Lubbock, Texas, and his wife, Misty, have three children: Hunter, 22, Austin, 18, and Tucker, 4.

Size and scope of operation: Chad Hill Durocs consists of 40 Duroc, Spot and Chester White sows. Hill Boar Stud houses 20 boars. Hill is also employed by Essential Feeds with a territory in West Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Pork leadership activities: Past president and vice president of Hereford Livestock Show Board of Directors.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

I believe the NSR and UDSR's role is to assist members, regardless of size or sector of the industry. I feel this can be achieved by creating multiple avenues to market our members' products. I believe the Duroc breed has become a driving force at National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) shows, as well as junior breeding shows across the country. It is important the UDSR keep that trend moving forward. As a board member, I would stay open minded and consider what's best for all members of the UDSR.

WESTERN • Chuck Real, Texas

Chuck Real, 64, of Marion, Texas, has been married to his wife, Debbie, for 42 years. They have three children: Daryl, and his wife, Sue; Laura and her husband, Ryan Huebinger; and Russell and his wife, Sharee.

Size and scope of operation:

Real Hog Farms has been raising Durocs continuously since 1978. They have 110 Duroc, Berkshire, Yorkshire, Hampshire and crossbred sows they farrow year round. They also have a 20-head boar stud, and they farm 750 acres of corn, wheat, grain sorghum and oats.

Pork leadership activities: National Pork Producers Council Director for Texas, past Texas Pork Producers Association (TPPA) president, TPPA board member, director of TPPA since 1978, past director of United Duroc Swine Registry board, current director of American Berkshire Association board, past chairman of Texas Boar Test Station and past commissioner on Texas Animal Health Commission.

Other leadership activities: Past Bexar County Farm Bureau director and treasurer, past president and member of Bexar County Junior Livestock Show, director of Gaudalupe County Youth Show, director of Producers Co-op in New Braunfels, Texas, and 4-H leader and livestock judging coach in Guadalupe County.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

Continue to be an advocate for breed purity and provide member services. We need to be strongly involved in youth activities, particularly the National Junior Swine Association (NJSA).

AT-LARGE • Kyle Riggs, Indiana

Kyle Riggs, 34, of Anderson, Indiana, and his wife, Jerrica, have a 2-year-old son, Carter.

Size and scope of operation: Riggs/Thurston Showpigs is a 35-sow operation that consists of 25 Duroc sows and 10 crossbred sows focusing on the production of showpigs and breeding stock. Their goal is to make high-quality showpigs that are sound, balanced and have high health for junior members to exhibit across the country to learn the values of livestock production. They also produce a select group of gilts for breeding stock in their annual bred gilt sales.

Pork leadership activities: Nutrition consultant for Provimi North America working with commercial swine producers and feed mills in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, Indiana Duroc Board member and a show/sale director.

Other leadership activities: Board member of the Ohio Targeting Excellence program and member of Bethany Christian Church.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market.

I feel the most important role of the NSR and the UDSR is to continue to focus on making the purebred swine industry even better, as it is the premier vehicle in raising our youth today. As a purebred breeder, it is very exciting to see the power our National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) events and programs have in the development of our next generation of leaders. The NSR and UDSR should also continue to focus on breed integrity while seeking innovative ways to promote the Duroc breed, not only in the showpig industry, but in all of pork production. The Duroc breed and the purebred swine industry has a great thing going, but we can continue to find new ways to raise the bar as well as help educate others about the value of NJSA, NSR, UDSR and the purebred swine industry.

Hampshire Swine Registry Candidates

AT-LARGE • Kyle Baade, Nebraska

Kyle Baade, 30, of Plymouth, Nebraska, and his wife, Laura, have a son, Anders, and are expecting a daughter in late October.

Size and scope of operation: Baade Genetics is a 75-sow farrow-to-finish operation consisting of Hampshire, Yorkshire, Duroc and crossbred sows.

Their primary focus is on showpig and seedstock production. They also operate an on-farm boar stud.

Pork leadership activities: Local 4-H and FFA swine consultant, showmanship clinics with local and area youth and supervise collegiate judging teams at on-farm workouts.

Other leadership activities: AGR alumni, Tri County FFA alumni and booster and member of United Methodist Church.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

The NSR and the HSR should be an asset to both purebred and commercial breeders alike. Commercially, by incorporating purebred breeding stock through the use of the STAGES™ program, as well as exploring new opportunities for product advancement and for the showpig sector with sales to market their hogs. I feel it's imperative all producers need to be educated on changing regulations and promote the livestock industry to counteract the growing voice of non-agricultural activists.

EASTERN • Jim McCoy, Ohio

Jim McCoy, 58, of Bloomingburg, Ohio, has three children: Mike, Melissa and Melanie; and his fiancée, Amanda Ivey, has one son, Zander. McCoy has eight grandchildren: Libby, 11; Mallory, 9; Maya, 7; Max, 7; Reid, 4; and Sarah, 3; Sam, 1 ½; and Keaton, 1 ½.

Size and scope of operation: Co-owns Real McCoy Genetics, a 120-sow breeding stock and showpig operation made up of Hampshire, Yorkshire, Spot, Berkshire and crossbred sows. They also have a 50-head boar stud with purebred and crossbred boars.

Pork leadership activities: Ohio Hampshire Breeders Board of Directors member and past president Fayette County Pork Producers Board past president, officiated multiple judging contests from 4-H to collegiate levels, past member of NSR Youth Advisory Board and past chairman and a swine show judge for the past 37 years on the county, state and national levels.

Other leadership activities: Local Farm Bureau Board member and member of various church committees.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

We need to continue to encourage young breeders to get involved in raising Hampshires. We also need to stress the importance of the breed in creating more product in the crossbred scheme, both in the show ring and commercial setting. I also think, as breeders, we need to recognize the weaknesses in the breed, stop tolerating problems as being "OK," correct them and intensify the effort to solidify the positive things we already have to offer. Perseverance is a word learned throughout life, and the Hampshire business is no exception.

WESTERN • Mike Day, Oklahoma

Mike Day, 55, of Ames, Oklahoma, and his wife, Loria, have a daughter, Whitney Jimenez, and a son, Cody. In addition to raising purebred swine, Day has worked at Vance Air Force Base for 20 years in the refueling department.

Size and scope of operation:

Day Farms runs about 15 to 20 purebred sows with five Durocs and the remainder Hampshires. They raise breeding stock for National Swine Registry (NSR) events and junior exhibitors to show. They also sell breeding stock to other breeders across the country.

Pork leadership activities: Member of the Hampshire Swine Registry and the United Duroc Swine Registry.

Other leadership activities: Member of the Okeene United Methodist Church and past chairman of Pastor Parrish Relations Committee.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

The NSR does a great job promoting purebred swine. We need to find more ways to get pedigreed hogs into shows throughout the country, while also working to maintain pedigreed influence throughout the commercial sector worldwide.

American Landrace Association Candidates

AT-LARGE • Jonas McGrew, Illinois

Jonas McGrew, 34, of Sciota, Illinois, and his wife, Jill, have one daughter, Kylie.

Size and scope of operation: McGrew Showpigs is a 40-sow operation marketing competitive showpigs around the country.

Pork leadership activities: Illinois Club Pig Association (ICPA) board member

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the American Landrace Association (ALA)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

The NSR and ALA's role should be developing programs or events to promote the Landrace breed, especially with juniors, as well as developing programs or activities to encourage juniors to become involved in the bred-and-owned division. It should also be to develop a system to maintain integrity within the Landrace breed while continuing to improve the quality of the animals.

AT-LARGE • Mark Korb, Ohio

Mark Korb, 55, of Oxford, Ohio, has been married to his wife, Kelly, for 30 years. They have two children, Anna, 26, and David, 24.

Size and scope of operation: Korb Farms currently has an operation of 60 sows focusing on breeding stock and showpig production. Ten of the sows are Landrace, and 25 are Hampshires, Yorkshires and Durocs. They also farm 300 acres of corn and soybeans.

Pork leadership activities: Board member and past president of Butler County Pork Producers and show manager and past president of Butler County Born and Raised Show.

Other leadership activities: Building and Grounds Committee member of Queen of Peace Church and Fellowship Sunday – Donut Committee member.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the American Landrace Association (ALA)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

I would like to see the NSR and ALA promote the breed more by creating incentives such as larger cash rewards at National Junior Swine Association (NJSA) shows. I feel these incentives would help create more demand for Landrace offspring. We also need to protect the integrity of the breed and try to balance the demands of both the commercial and showpig sectors.

AT-LARGE • Lynsee Pullen, Indiana

Lynsee Pullen, 28, of Walton, Indiana, and her husband, Kyle, have a son, Kashton, and another son due in January. Pullen is the daughter of Terry and Michelle Shaffer.

Size and scope of operation: Shaffer's Goldrush is a family owned and operated boar stud and showpig operation. They offer more than 90 herd sires of all 11 breeds of swine and have more than 150 sows.

Pork leadership activities: American Landrace Association president and Indiana Landrace Association president.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the American Landrace Association (ALA)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

As a proud member of the NSR and ALA, I feel our role is to first and foremost be a reliable resource of new information and education. Being able to educate breeders about new topics in the swine industry, as well as help young breeders begin their purebred operation, is the best way we can grow as an industry. Knowledge allows us to stay progressive, and I feel it is important for the NSR to be at the center of that.

I also am very passionate about the NSR and ALA assisting in growing the number of Landrace exhibitors and entries at each NSR event, regional and national shows, in both the open and junior divisions. I think member outreach, the potential for a futurity show and more scholarship opportunities will help bring excitement to the Landrace breed.

They produce showpigs and breeding stock for showpig production. The crop farming operation consists of 4,000 acres producing corn, peanuts, cotton and soybeans.

Pork leadership activities: Former board member and past president of the Arkansas Pork Producers, past Pork All American and former board member and past president of the American Yorkshire Club.

Other leadership activities: Arkansas FFA Advisory Council member, board member and Blue Ribbon Sale committee for District Livestock Show, past county 4-H Advisory Council member, former county Farm Bureau board member, past 4-H and FFA livestock judging team coach, past president of local school athletic booster club, former board member of local youth sports association, former volunteer youth basketball and baseball coach, chairman for local fundraising auction and dinner for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and member of advisory committee to livestock and ag faculty at Arkansas State University.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the American Yorkshire Club (AYC)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

NSR's primary role should be to provide a structure to maintain the integrity and ancestral history of the member breeds. The NSR membership is made up of very different segments of the industry, from the performance-based commercial and export breeders to rapidly growing youth and showpig sector. NSR should develop plans to help grow all segments, continuing to provide leadership and assistance to all members developing their individual marketing opportunities. This all must be done in economically viable ways.

AT-LARGE • Matt Rohrig, Iowa

Matt Rohrig, 33, is from Orient, Iowa.

Size and scope of operation: Rohrig currently runs about 60-70 Yorkshire and crossbred sows for the production of showpigs and breeding stock. About half of the sows are purebred Yorkshires.

Pork leadership activities: At-large board member for Iowa Swine Jackpot, president of Iowa Yorkshire Association, Iowa Purebred Swine Council member, 2013 Iowa Master Seedstock Producer Award and Iowa Pork Producers Association member.

Please describe what you feel the National Swine Registry (NSR)'s and/or the American Yorkshire Club (AYC)'s role should be in assisting purebred breeders compete in today's market:

One priority of the NSR needs to be to record and maintain breed purity in all four breeds. Additionally, NSR needs to continue to promote the use of purebred stock in all facets of the industry – from the commercial side to junior shows. I also believe that within the Yorkshire breed and the AYC, we need to remember to focus on what Yorkshire hogs are all about – being the mother breed. In an era where many are worried about making purebreds compete with crossbreds in the show ring, we sometimes forget that every breed has a purpose and a priority – they don't all have to look the same. Within the Yorkshire breed, I feel it is important we have building foundation type females in our focus – it is the cornerstone of the breed, and it will continue to give breeders an edge in an extremely competitive marketplace.

From the Field

Mick Bellamy, NSR Field Representative

The 2016 National Barrow Show (NBS)® was a great way to end the summer national events and the state fair season. The quality was excellent in all our breeds, with lots of high-caliber boars and gilts getting good homes.

The Duroc show was very capably judged by Doug Albright from Michigan. Doug is one of the good, young minds in the industry, and he did an excellent job in his first national event. He was assisted by Ben Lenig, who works alongside Doug every day at the Albright Farm. Thanks, guys, for a very good job.

The Premier Duroc Sire award went to HAMI4 Barn Burner 17-4, owned by Giertz and Larson, Illinois. The Reserve Premier Duroc Sire went to HP4 Nation Wide 23-3, owned by Parrish Farms, Ohio. Congratulations to both firms.

We started the Duroc sale with this year's Hog College® boar. Selected from the Hirschfield and Son firm of Nebraska, this HD3 Royalty 19-2 son was one stout he boar. Huge ribbed, heavy structured and possessing extra mass in his top and hip, he was an excellent buy at $1,600 to the Giertz and Larson firm in Illinois.

The Champion Duroc Boar, exhibited by Stewart's Duroc Farm, was next. This son of ISU5 Veisha 29-3 was an extra heavy-structured hog who could still combine muscle and flexibility in a big, fast-growing package. He went to Jeff Owen of Wisconsin for $2,100.

Nelson Brothers' Reserve Champion Duroc Boar came next. The winner of the youngest class, this son of NBD4 Red Rock 24-5 was extremely attractive from the side with good length of front, extra bone and a square top and hip working in him. He went to Drake Purebred Farms in Indiana, for $1,100.

Huinker Durocs' winner of Class 2 was next. Sired by HD5 Turnaround 36-7, this one had a ton of muscle, was really good looking and had the structural integrity this firm is known for. He was the second buy of the day for the Giertz and Larson firms and is headed to Illinois at $1,100.

Stewart's second-place boar behind their champion was another stout boar with good muscle and bone. He went to the Crawford Family in California, for $900. Huinker's second place boar behind their class winner was next. Another son of HD5 Turnaround 36-7, he followed the trend of being big backed, big ribbed and extremely correct. Bill Owen took him to North Iowa Boar Semen for $1,100.

Some other boars of note came in later. The Howard Parrish boar that was fourth in Class 2 was really heavy boned, big centered and had extra extension up front. He went to Darrvin Miller of Illinois, for $2,300. HP also had a boar out of Class 3 that was really unique. This son of HP4 Nationwide 23-3 scanned a 12.7 eye and was huge ribbed, with a big, square hip and rump. Combine that with his length of front, and this one was very interesting. He went to Stoney Creek Farms as the high-selling boar at $6,000. Dr. Hendrickson and Tom will know what to do with him.

Another boar I want to mention is the Devin Goehring boar from Class 2. Sired by HP5 Mad Badger 8-6, this one was as stout as any boar shown all day. He had a big, dense skull and huge feet and legs with a bunch of muscle. Change him in one little area, and this one could get interesting! He went to Dean Paustian and Wendy Wulf of Iowa, for $2,100.

One thing that has been certain all summer at our national events is the Duroc gilt shows have been loaded with powerful females. The NBS® was no exception.

We led this portion of the sale off with the Hog College® Duroc Gilt. Selected from Albright Swine Farms of Michigan, this daughter of OAB4 Can't Stop 8-3 was one powerful female. She started her week off by winning both halves of the Home Run Derby. The Chairman's Choice and College Choice are the two portions of this competition. She was one that had tremendous body mass, rib, muscle and look and just floated around the ring. She topped the sale at $7,250 and went to Ed Clark of Texas. Thanks to the Albright firm for sharing this one!

Dylan Cain's Grand Champion Gilt from the NBS® Jr. Classic was next. Sired by CAIN5 Believe in Me 10-2, this one was so good looking, tall fronted and shapely with extra extension up front. She went to Lenhart Durocs of Ohio, for $6,250.

Drake Purebred Farms' Champion Duroc Female was next. She was the winner of Class 3 before being selected the champion. She was sired by the HD4 TCG Centerfold 38-5 boar. This one may have been as structurally correct as any red female shown all summer. Her ability to combine that with bone, rib, muscle, and just be way good looking was truly unique. She found a new home in Nebraska with the Hirschfields. It will be interesting to see what they can do with her.

Nelson Brothers' Reserve Champion Duroc Gilt followed. This daughter of NBD4 Incredible 128-2 was the winner of Class 4. This one was big bodied with a high-quality underline and big legs. She had plenty of mass and muscle to go along with it. She was an excellent buy at $1,100 for Dunmovin Farms from Wisconsin.

Braelyn Baloun's daughter of 1RR4 Austin Powers 19-2 was the winner of Class 5. She was as good from the side profile as any gilt shown. Compliment that with bone, shape and rib makes her a good buy for the Gordon Dramen Family of Minnesota, at $1,000.

Kaden and Emerson Butts brought four high-quality gilts to Austin. They drove four of the top five gilts in Class 2. The first and second place gilts were littermate daughters of ESSP4 Honeymoon 12-1. This pair were extremely correct with a feminine look and really good muscle shape. The Latta Brothers of Oklahoma, picked this pair off. Rod got the class winner at a $1,000, and J.B. bought the second place gilt for $1,700. Do you reckon they argued over who got the best one on the long ride home?

Braelyn Baloun was back again with the winner of Class 1. Sired by the MAFF5 Trump Card boar, this young gilt was stylish, practical and really shapely with good mobility. She went to Diamond V Showpigs of Minnesota, for $1,000.

McGrew Showpigs, Illinois, were in next with a really popular gilt sired by NBRP5 He's the One 15-6. This one's design, rib, center body and true shape made her extremely popular with the buyers. Mark Hoge of Good Hope, Illinois, picked this one off at $3,700.

There were several other gilts of note later in the sale. Howard Parrish, Meeker Durocs and Huinker Durocs all had popular gilts down in the sale. Time and space doesn't permit us to write about each one, but it was a good gilt sale that stayed strong throughout.

The 2016 NBS® was a good event. The demand for our four breeds was strong. If we will keep bringing high-quality livestock, it will stay that way. History has proven good ones will sell wherever they're shown.

I want to wish you all a safe and bountiful harvest. Sell lots of showpigs, and we'll see you in Duncan!

From the Field

Blaine Evans, NSR Field Representative

As the madness of the summer winds down and state fairs come to a close, the thought of the National Barrow Show (NBS)® seems to usher in the fall for showpig enthusiasts. This year was no exception to the rule, with a few more numbers in the NBS® Junior Classic and good, high-quality breeding stock in the open shows. For the second year in a row, Brian Hines, Michigan, was the judge for the Hampshire breeding stock. Brian is one who looks at hogs from many different viewpoints. Not only is he a past fieldman and very progressive breeder of Hampshire hogs, but the Hines Girls show some of the most competitive showpigs in the country. Thank you once again to Brian for doing a great job and giving us a sale order that was effective and fair.

This year's Premier Hampshire Sire award went to RAFD4 Hamp Stamp 4-5, owned by Russell Whewell Family, in Illinois. The Reserve Premier Hampshire Sire was JKK5 Zero Tolerance 24-4, owned by Jake and Kaylee Keppy and housed at SGI, in Iowa. Congratulations to those firms on a pair of boars that have been doing a great job in the breed.

The Champion Hampshire Boar at the NBS®, this year, was entry 5-1 from the Earl L. Cain and Family, Iowa. The Cain boar was sired by HH4 Thunderstruck 239-2 and out of a FSF3 Clydesdale 12-2 sow. This Thunderstruck son was one who hit Brian hard in the first class, and it was easy to see why. Not only was this hog stout at the ground in terms of his foot size and bone, but from here up he had plenty of dimension to his body and the muscle you would need. What was most impressive was his ability to have a show ring design and balance, with all the extras to go along with it. On sale day, this guy had some friends. For the price of $4,000, he found a new owner with Top Choice Genetics, Ohio. Congratulations to all involved.

The Reserve Hampshire Boar, this year, was driven by Russell Whewell. Russell's boar was out of RAFD4 Hamp Stamp 4-5 and out of a JLM1 Pivot Point sow. The Whewell hog was so interesting in many areas. He was a larger-framed, more-extended kind of hog with great shape to his body, clean joints and a stout set of running gears. He was still tall shouldered and attractive from the side. This guy checked a lot of boxes in terms of growth production, but still had the right kind of design for making the kind of hogs that get along in the show ring. Kyle Baade and Ron Iverson will give him a good shot on their sow herds, and for the price of $7,000, they made a good investment.

One of the highlights of the NBS®, as many of you know, is the Hog College® program. The tradition of what the Hog College® animals have represented over the years is still a huge honor to anyone who is chosen. The Hampshire Hog College® Boar, this year, comes from a firm who is no stranger to raising breeding hogs – Bill and Jana Range of Illinois. The Range boar was sired by HH4 Thunderstruck 239-2 and out of a GMW1 Look at Me 4-1 sow. Bill's boar was the definition of a breeding hog, and he was received that way during the Hog College® Home Run Drive, where a panel of fellow breeders selected him as the Chairman's Choice. Congratulations to Bill and Jana for not only being selected as the Chairman's Choice, but also being the high seller at $10,000 with this powerfully made breeding hog who will take up residency at SGI in Iowa.

Congratulations to Justin Peterson, Illinois, for showing this year's Champion Hampshire Gilt. A daughter of FNKA4 Beast Mode 1-2 out of a YSF3 Sucker Punch 18-3 sow, Justin's gilt represented what Hines was doing as a judge – keeping females looking like ladies and boars looking like men. This gilt was no exception to that rule. Here was a really attractive, heads-up kind of gilt who didn't take a bad step the whole time she was in the ring. This gilt had enough bone and muscle for a female and was so attractive from the side. On sale day, H.L. Gibson, Ohio, struck again in buying another high-quality female to add to the herd.

The Reserve Hampshire Gilt award went to Drake Purebred Farm, Indiana. The Drake gilt was the kind that more should breed around. She had so many things we sometimes forget in check. In terms of production and underline quality, she was unparalleled, but this gilt still can and will make showpigs. She had an attractive look from the side, she was good in her rib shape, and her angles laid into her skeleton in a way that will make her an athlete for many years to come. Bart Ward, Ohio, is the new owner and will accomplish many things with a female like her.

The Class 2 winner was driven by Jake and Kaylee Keppy, Iowa. She was a female out of the herd boar JKK5 Zero Tolerance 24-4 and a JSE1 Bushhog 81-5 sow. The Keppy gilt was the different one of the top end of gilts and the one who could swing the most change in one generation. She was unmatched in terms of power and one of the heavier-structured Hampshire gilts of the show with lots of muscle to go along with it. She too was a stylish gilt that could be very fun to breed on in the future. Ed Clark, Texas, will put this exciting breeding piece to work in his herd.

The Hog College® Hampshire Gilt was from H&H Hampshires, the Frank Lucas Family, Ohio. When I was making a herd visit at Frank's during the summer looking at lots of different hogs, Frank showed me a pen of littermates out of 1FHH4 Unbroken 24-1. During the visit, we let the gilts out to walk around, and one gilt disappeared into the soybean field. As summer intern Jackson Johnson retrieved the gilt, it was as if a light bulb went off for both Jackson and me. We mentioned to Frank he should nominate her for Hog College® Row, and the rest is history. This gilt was out of a young JM3 Bumpercar 2-5 sow who is as impressive as a Hampshire sow can be. There was a lot of quality in this year's Hampshire Hog College® Female. Practical bodied, good looking and one that will be fun to mate in the future, congratulations to Frank and his family on this great honor. Thanks to Ed Clark, Texas, for purchasing another great female.

At the end of the day, the Hampshires didn't set any records in terms of numbers, but from year to year I will say the quality was up and appreciated by the buyers. As always, thanks to Col. Kevin Wendt, Ohio, for doing a professional job with the auctioneer duties. Also thanks to all those who helped with this event, from the Hormel staff to the different college groups that assist during this event, we can't do it without you.

From the Field

Blaine Evans, NSR Field Representative

Jordan McGrew, Illinois, served as the judge for the Landrace show at the 2016 National Barrow Show (NBS)®. The McGrew name needs no introduction to the breed. There weren't many for Jordan to sort, but you could tell his passion for the breed and ability to read hogs is second to none. Thank you, Jordan, for doing a great job.

This year's Premier Sire of the Landrace breed at the NBS® goes to KORB2 Revolution 12-2, owned by Russell Whewell and McGrew Showpigs, Illinois. The Reserve Premier Sire is KYIK3 PSSS Blade Runner 6-7, owned by Prairie State Semen Supply, Illinois. Congratulations to both of those firms on a pair of hogs who have been doing a good job.

The Champion Landrace Boar, this year, was driven by Russell Whewell, Illinois. His son of KORB2 Revolution 12-2 out of a DOVS2 Bad Cat 9-8 sow was just like what Russell has been known to bring out. A rugged kind of herd boar with big feet and bones, that hog had a good, breeding hog look to his skull and shape to his rib with plenty of muscle. Congratulations to the Whewells for another champion at an event.

The Reserve Landrace Boar was entry 101-1 from Nathaniel Klinefelter, Illinois, with a LF15 Look Out 1-3 son out of a JMG0 FALKEN 4-7 sow. The Klinefelter boar was a basic-built boar who didn't look like he would take a firm in the wrong direction. His feet and legs pointed the right direction, he was comfortable at the surface, and he had plenty of body and rib. He was really a nice breeding hog who will go to work at the Wisconsin Boar Stud, Wisconsin. Congratulations to all involved.

The Hog College® Landrace Boar, this year, was from McGrew Showpigs. Their son of KORB2 Revolution 12-2 was nominated and selected to represent the Landrace breed on Hog College® Row, and the boar was sure a good representative of the breed. The McGrew boar was one of the more unique Landrace boars at the show. He was very current in terms of his height of shoulder and length of neck. This hog wasn't the biggest bodied, but had plenty enough and had muscle to go along with it. Congratulations to the McGrews. It is always an honor to have a Hog College® animal, and we appreciate their dedication to the breed.

The Champion Landrace Gilt, this year, was driven by Samantha Lahman, Minnesota, with a daughter of KYIK PSSS Blade Runner 6-7 and out of a CNTM3 Razor Blade 1-2 sow. She was a really good example of what a Landrace gilt should look like. Not only was she productive about her body cavity and functional on her feet and legs, but she still had a showpig look and design. Congratulations to this firm for having a great champion at a national event.

Noah Carroll and Family, Minnesota, exhibited the Reserve Champion Landrace Gilt with a NCAR5 Ice Block 9-6 female who goes back to a JMG1 Below Zero 2-5 sow. The Carroll entry was a good female in her own right and tied a lot of things together that are needed. She had the bases covered in terms of being a productive-looking kind of gilt. Congratulations to the Carrolls on a great reserve champion.

The Landrace Hog College® Gilt was brought to us by Malcolm and Whiteshire. This joint partnership has been working together for almost a year now, and the goal is to make showpigs backed by predictive genetics, as well as different kinds of pedigrees that can help impact the gene pool of their given breeds. It was my honor to help name this gilt the Hog College® Gilt, this year, and have her represent the breed on Hog College® Row. This gilt was out of the 2015 Hog College® Boar, WCMP5 Legacy 16-1. Malcolm and Whiteshire purchased this boar last year and have been using him hard. The dam of this gilt is a MFF1 Excellerator 0-5 sow who is very different from most of the population, genetically. This was a very good built and sound-moving gilt who had a good look and some production to her rib shape and underline. This was the kind of gilt who will be fun to breed for a while. Thanks to Noah Carroll and Family for their purchase of this female.

As we finished the NBS®, it was easy to call it another great event. We would sure like to see the Landrace numbers at this show grow. The breed has made great strides in the past few years, and the sky is the limit for where they can go. Special thanks to Col Ron Kreis, Ohio, for taking on the auctioneering duties for the Landrace sale. It is always a pleasure to work with you. Also, thanks to everyone that helps out at the shows; we couldn't do it without you.

From the Field

Michael Lackey, NSR Field Representative

Mid-September is always a busy time of year for our industry – boar studs are swamped trying to fill orders, and breeders are home trying to settle sows and harvest crops. But, it's also a special time for many of our members because the National Barrow Show (NBS)® at the Mower County Fairgrounds in Austin, Minnesota, is one of the unique shows people can attend. This year's event was no different; we were greeted with great weather and an amazing set of breeders and hogs. John Huinker of Iowa, and Wade Hendricks of Indiana, sorted the Yorkshire ring at this prestigious event. John and Wade, thank you for your time and effort sorting through this year's Yorkshire show.

The Premier Yorkshire Sire was awarded to MWCW5 Hair Nation 4-4, owned by A Cut Above Sires of Nebraska. The Reserve Premier Yorkshire Sire honors were presented to PDS4 Don't Stop Believin' 12-5, owned by Showtime Sires, Illinois, and Duane Taulman, Indiana. Congratulations to both these firms on an excellent set of hogs.

The first boar to make his way to the ring was the 2016 Yorkshire Hog College® Boar. Thank you and congratulations to Western Illinois University of Macomb, Illinois, for allowing us showcase this son of TMF5 Who's In 149-2 on Hog College® row. If you are a Yorkshire enthusiast, this one needs to be on your list of boars to use. Four of his brothers helped them win Champion Purebred Truckload and Champion Truckload Overall at the 2016 NBS®, and his sister was penned across from him on Hog College® row! Plus, he was named College Choice Boar during the Hog College® Home Run Derby. He is just a young, March 7 boar, but he has a killer look from the side, is as sound as they come, and to steal a term from Dr. Hoge, "He looks like a jazzy show pony in the ring." This boar has a great shape to his rib, and he is great in the angles to his hip, hock and rear pastern. For a young boar, he has muscle shape and dimension down his top and width from behind. I truly believe he will do nothing but get better for his new owners. He sold to Chuck and Ben Olsen of Irene, South Dakota, for the price of $7,000. Great buy, gentlemen!

Congratulations to Tracy Lorenzen of Chrisman, Illinois, for exhibiting the Champion Yorkshire Boar at the 2016 NBS®. This son of RSY4 Buzz Saw 3-4 is square at the ground, wide in his chest and has a big, bold blade that opens into a square and shapely top. He is square and correct in his hock, and he's tall fronted and good looking from the side. He has the ideal frame for making Yorkshire hogs better. This guy is really complete and correct. With his pedigree we should hear from him in the months to come. He sold to Earl L. Cain and Family of Chariton, Iowa, for the price of $16,000, making him the high-selling Yorkshire boar at the 2016 NBS®.

I would describe the Reserve Champion Yorkshire

Boar as a female sire. He was exhibited by Nelson Bros of Wakonda, South Dakota. This son of NBD5 Yet Again 24-4 is stout featured. He is big footed, heavy boned and stout skulled. He is open and square in his chest floor and is widest through his center and lower skeleton. He tracks away with genuine base width and is sound. He sold to Showtime Sires of Newark, Illinois, for $1,100.

The Class 3 winning entry from Norman Bros and Son of Sidell, Illinois, made his way to the ring next. He is a February 16 boar sired by MWCW5 Hair Nation 4-4. Greg's boar is big topped and has muscle. He is good from the side and tall at the point of his shoulder. His toes all point in the same direction, and he hits the surface with a square, big toe. This guy has a square turn to the base of his rib cage and is open through his center. He sold to Hirschfeld and Sons of Benedict, Nebraska; they bid $1,000 to take him home.

The gilt sale began with the Hog College® Gilt from Western Illinois University. She is a littermate to their Hog College® Boar, and four of her other littermates anchored their Champion Truckload. This lady looks like a Yorkshire female should! This lady is complete, correctly balanced, feminine, has a great underline and is sound. She is really hard to pick a hole in, just as you would expect from a firm like Western Illinois University. Congratulations, and thank you for your continued support of the NBS®. The gilt sold to Steve Miemeier of Butler, Illinois, for $1,800. Congratulations on a great buy!

Nathan and John Henrichs of Burlington, Wisconsin, drove this year's Champion Yorkshire Female at the NBS®. She is a daughter of PDS4 Don't Stop Believin' 12-5. This lady is complete, correctly balanced, feminine, has a great underline and is sound. She sold to Greg Ward of Sidney, Ohio, for the price of $1,200.

The Reserve Champion Yorkshire Gilt was driven by RAR Genetics of Aplington, Iowa. If you like gilts who are correct and problem free, then this one was for you. This daughter of HRFD5 Magic Touch 60-12 checks all the boxes. She's great on her feet and legs, has a productive, feminine look from the side and plenty of muscle. She sold to Tom Thompson of Iowa, for $500.

Up next was the winning entry from Class 4, shown by Maddy Walkup of Gower, Missouri. This daughter of PDS4 Don't Stop Believin' 12-5 is stout, wide, big centered and heavy muscled. This one has all the power and width you can ask for in a female, but is still correct in her build. She sold to Travis Peters of Hampton, Iowa, for $2,000.

The next gilt in the ring won the second class of the day; she is sired by MWCW5 Hair Nation 4-4. Norman Bros and Son's gilt is square and genuine underneath. She's heavy structured and durable in her look. She sold for the price of $700 to Diamond V Showpigs of Adams, Minnesota.

Hilman B. Schroeder of Sauk City, Wisconsin, was next up with his entry that won the youngest class of the day. This daughter of NBRP3 Not Even Close 41-2 can be described as a correct, basic gilt who will never get you in trouble. She has a great look from the side. She is square built and has all the muscle you could want in a female, and then some. She sold to Grant A Koski of Loyal, Wisconsin, for $600.

Next up was the entry from Ronald Hauser of Grinnell, Iowa, with the winning entry from the oldest class of the day. Ronald's gilt is sired by BOLO3 Spanky 3-9. This late-January gilt is sound, basic in her build, big volumed and looks like one who will raise pigs. They decided to retain ownership of her for $450.

This year's show had a nice set of high-quality, functional hogs. A huge and special thank you goes to Ron Kreis of Ohio for another great job on the block. Thank you to all of the ring help. We could not do it without you. See you all in Duncan!

From the Field

Michael Lackey, NSR Field Representative

The 2016 National Barrow Show (NBS)® Crossbred Boar show was not huge in numbers, but offered quality hogs at very affordable prices. John Huinker of Iowa, and Wade Hendricks of Indiana, had the task of sorting the Crossbred Boar show. John and Wade, thank you for doing a great job, this year. It's always a pleasure to work with you gentlemen.

Earl L. Cain and Family of Chariton, Iowa, exhibited the Champion Crossbred Boar. He is sired by Made Ya Look. Earl's boar is stout. He was the biggest-skulled and heaviest-boned boar in the entire crossbred show. He is powerful, when studied from the ground up. He is built square and honest at the base of his ribcage, opened up through his center body, and he set them down wide as he goes away. This guy is a muscle hog with a big top and tons of width from behind. He sold to Matthew Gunderson of Raymond, Minnesota, for the price of $2,000.

Steve and Derek Earnhart of Albion, Indiana, drove the Reserve Champion Crossbred Boar and Class 2 Winner. This son of Omaha is square and true in his build. As you study his chest floor, he is wide and correct at the base of his rib. He opens into a big center and has plenty of muscle shape down his top and going away from you. He is good footed, square hocked and sound. He will now call Riceville, Iowa, home with North Iowa Boar Semen for the price of $600.

Next up was the judge's consignment from Huinker Durocs, Ltd., of Decorah, Iowa. John's boar is sired by Specimen 11-4. If you need a boar to add muscle to a program, this guy was for you. He is a big, square-backed boar who is wide in his pin set and has tons of muscle in his lower ham and stifle. He is moderate in his frame and length of body. He looks like his sons and daughters should be easy to sell at 40 pounds. He sold to Robert Wehmer and Family of Poseyville, Indiana, for $2,500.

Next up was an entry from McGrew Showpigs of Good Hope, Illinois. He is a son of SOS. Jordan's boar is a great-designed hog. He is tall-fronted, level-topped and has a great hip. He squares up behind his blade with true muscle shape. He is thick and square in his hip with width and dimension through his lower ham. He sold to Ryan Iverson of Grinnell, Iowa, for $1,400.

Jake and Kaylee Keppy of Durant, Iowa, made their way to the auction next with a boar who stood third in the heaviest class. He is sired by Visionary. This boar is tall fronted and stout made. He is square from behind and has a great shape to his rib. He sold to Matthew Gunderson for $2,400.

The Crossbred Boar Show at the 2016 NBS® had some good breeding pieces who will make a difference. Ron Kreis, as always, thank you, for being a gentleman and a professional on the auction block. Good luck with selling pigs this fall, and we'll see you at the National Swine Registry (NSR) Fall Classic.

This amount must be paid before reinstatement will be allowed. The exception to this rule will be if an animal has become injured or ill and is inspected by a NSR staff member prior to the sale.
- » The NSR acts only as the agent between buyer and seller. If proper payment is made by the buyer in a timely manner, the NSR will make settlement with the seller in approximately 30 days after the sale.

Just like the times, champions have evolved through the years. As production priorities changed so has the ideal animal.

The Grand Champion Boar at the 1972 National Barrow Show was raised by H.R. Jenkins. The Jen2 Josh son sold for $8,200, to Stro-World Farms and Glenn Dressendofer, Missouri.

Paul Olsen, Iowa, captured Champion Boar with his PLO9 Ike son. The boar topped the sale at $9,000 and went home with Bill Funderburg, Ohio.

Form to Function

Keeping heaviness of structure in line

by Blane Olson | Olson Farms Durocs

Heaviness of structure has become more important and has gotten more emphasis in the show ring, over the last few years. There's no doubt as we worked toward making hogs stouter and wider in their build they would have to become heavier structured and stouter in their overall feature to have the foundation to hold all of that power. It will be interesting to see how things change as far as what is acceptable as we move into the new trend of making hogs more attractive and taller fronted and work away from extremes in width and moderation of frame size. There is definitely a correlation between stoutness of structure and the build or kind of hog we breed on our farm.

We tend to try not to chase extremes of any one trait in our herd. I feel bone and foot size fit right in to that theory. We don't want hogs that are too frail, as they will tend to be smaller footed and typically fairly narrow in their skeleton. These frail-featured hogs also don't exhibit the kind of skeleton that is very durable, and in turn, don't usually have much longevity in the sow pens. At the same time, hogs that are extreme on the other end aren't seen as ideal around here either. We typically see more joint issues and get hogs that are flatter footed, when they get too heavy boned. These hogs tend to be plenty coarse in their build and don't normally stay around too long. When we go too far toward stoutness of feature, I tend to see more structural issues than what is deemed acceptable for our herd.

We strive to produce purebred Duroc showpigs and breeding stock that work in different environments with some different end goals in mind. Because of this, I like to keep a nice balance of traits in our sow herd, and then use different pieces through the boars we select. Heaviness of structure is one of those traits we pay attention to and try to keep in line with the rest of the animal's build in order to get it all to be proportionate and work in harmony as a total package. There's no doubt those needs change with the type of hog being selected in the show ring, but I've found somewhere in between the extremes to be a logical place to land. While extremes tend to make a high-dollar boar, a good-built, balanced hog that is comfortable never seems to go out of style.

When we evaluate baby pigs for sale, start taking pictures and doing online write ups, there are a few things to look for that can help project where a barrow or gilt may end up when it comes to stoutness of feature. The most obvious is the size of their legs and feet. It's pretty easy for most to see the difference between heavy boned and frail and similarly the difference in foot size. While this method gives you an idea of what to expect on the surface, there are other indicators to check when evaluating those prospects. More specifically, the size of the forearm and blade matching the size of the hind leg. Also, big, square toes and feet are definitely a plus. Ideally, foot size and bone will be proportionate and fit the animal's width and maturity pattern. Quite often we hear of pigs being called green or, a term I like to use, immature in their build. When this occurs, they have good bone and foot size along with a good relationship of width and frame to make it all fit together. These hogs don't always have the most muscle at 40-50 pounds and aren't always the widest or stoutest built, but everything seems to just fit together. In my opinion, that is the definition of an ideal showpig prospect.

Description: This one is absolutely LIGHTS OUT special!!! She's such a good individual that does so many things right!!! She's extremely heavy structured, very big and bold about her rib shape, great in terms of shape and dimension down her top, and she balances from the side like a champ! This one might excite us as much as any gilt we have to offer in the entire sale!!! Just an AWESOME female!
