Step up to the plate

As we are winding up the Midwest state fairs, there are several things that become very apparent. I don't remember when there has been more interest with junior exhibitors showing purebred barrows and gilts. Breeders, if you haven't realized what an important role these young people and their families play in our industry, you need to step back and see what they are accomplishing. We need to appreciate their interest in exhibiting purebred genetics and their interest in what bloodlines are working. I realize the majority of these juniors and their families are not involved in the production of the commercial swine industry, and they probably have not experienced some of the trials that many of our members have.

It is very apparent to me, by the number of questions these young people and their families ask, they are interested in what has happened in the past and want to hear about your experiences. Most of them hold you, the breeder, with respect, and sometimes they are hesitant to ask about your involvement or experiences over the years. I would encourage each of you to reach out to these junior members and their families and introduce yourself. In fact, make it a point to step up to the plate and be a leader for others in our industry to become acquainted with this new generation.

I have mentioned the following several times in past editorials, but let's talk about your responsibilities as a member of the National Swine Registry (NSR). Whether you are a member of the Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace or Yorkshire association, or maybe you are a member of more than one of these, it is your responsibility to get those litters recorded in a timely manner and process the transfer of your animals to the buyer promptly. The NSR office receives several calls (especially during the fair season) from people needing the registration paper for their son or daughter's pig so they will be able to exhibit their animal in their respective purebred class. Along with providing the registration paper, it is your responsibility to know the breed eligibility requirements, including the sire requirements, of your respective breeds. Don't cheat or disappoint these young people by not providing registration papers or making sure the animal you sold to them meets the breed eligibility requirement. Once again, be a leader in these areas and show you are proud to represent the purebred swine industry.

I am very proud of the NSR team and our ability to process litter registrations and transfers in a very timely manner, but we can't do our part if we don't receive the information from you.

As the NSR is offering more National Junior Swine Association (NJSAs) events and shows throughout the year and the number of entries and exhibitors continues to grow, it is imperative we have people step up to the plate to assist during these events and shows. Don't wait to be asked; volunteer to help. It might be as easy as opening a gate or helping a young junior mark their card in a novice judging contest. Each of us has two hands – one to help ourselves, and one to help someone else.

Youth View

World perspective

Five days after the National Junior Summer Spectacular (NJSS) wrapped up, I was on a plane heading to London, and I could not have been more excited. My three-week European adventure had been in the back of my mind for so long, I couldn't believe it was finally time to leave. Don't get me wrong, I was packed and ready to go before I left for NJSS, but it had felt like a dream trip for so long, I didn't think it was real. With stops in London, Amsterdam, Paris, Barcelona and Florence, I had planned out adventures and made a binder full of confirmation numbers to ensure an error-free trip. After all this planning, I thought I knew what to expect, but I was wrong. Yes, I had a wonderful trip with no major issues, but I can definitely say it was way different than what I imagined. My experiences helped me gain some valuable knowledge for my next trip, and I would like to share some of that with you.

The language barrier is very real. Granted, we jumped all around Europe and experienced Dutch, Parisian, Catalan and Italian, so we didn't really get used to one before we had to move on, but it definitely was an experience. The first day in a new city usually required the use of Google translate, but that only added to the adventure. Personally, I think Catalan and Italian are incredibly beautiful languages, so I enjoyed having to read and speak them. Remember, locals will know you are American, but if you at least try, they will appreciate the gesture and help you in whatever way they can.

The food is amazing, and the coffee is life changing. If I could eat the truffle ravioli I ate in Florence and drink Italian coffee every single day, I would be the happiest person in the world. My travel companion did a great job documenting the food we ate. I, on the other hand, could hardly wait to eat, so most of the photos she took of my food already had bites taken. Seriously, I feel no shame in admitting my trip revolved around food. I wanted to try as many different items as possible, and because we weren't there for very long, that meant we would eat between four and six times a day. I loved it. Granted, I won't be continuing that diet now that I'm home, but it was definitely worth it.

Historically, there is no better place than Europe. Being a history buff, I was very excited to spend time in a place where so many important people and events had taken place. I understand there have been wonderful, historical moments that have taken place in the U.S., but Europe is significantly older, and it shows. The buildings are amazing, the pride cities have is real, and there are loads of monuments and buildings in honor of people who made a difference in their city. If you have the chance to go to La Sagrada Familia in Barcelona, go. If you don't, please watch the time lapse video found online. This basilica is 140 years in the making, and it is the most beautiful building I have ever stepped in. It was hands down my favorite tour of the trip.

Most importantly, don't get ahead of yourself and over plan your days. You will be exhausted. My goal was to plan a few things for each day, which always included a nap. I had to constantly remind myself I was on vacation and to not overdo it or I would regret it forever. I also had to keep telling myself I would be back to do the things I missed out on the first time. I didn't ever expect this trip to be my only trip to Europe, so that helped me feel better when something didn't fit into my schedule. If you think this will be your one and only trip, do research and prioritize the things you want to do so you will have the time.

Although the language barrier and cultural differences may be overwhelming, keep in mind those things are what make traveling such an adventure! Oh, and remember, no matter how much you research and plan, nothing will prepare you for the amazing experiences you will have abroad. Always be open minded to new things, try all the food, admire the architecture, respect the culture, and I promise you will have the trip of a lifetime.

“Although the language barrier and cultural differences may be overwhelming, keep in mind those things are what make traveling such an adventure!”

Starting a New Job on the Right Foot: Employers' pet peeves and how to avoid them

DISORGANIZATION

Starting a new job can be overwhelming. You are learning a new company, new role and meeting many new people. Employers don't think you will memorize every new face and task assigned, but they do expect you to take notes and keep track of deadlines. Whether it is a large group or a simple face-to-face meeting with your manager, it is essential to come prepared with a paper and pen for note taking.

Go over your notes and set reminders for yourself when projects are due. Your supervisor won't be sending reminders for deadlines looming. Follow up with your manager on action items and let them know how projects are progressing.

CLINGING TO MOBILE DEVICES

Limit personal interruptions – avoid frequent or prolonged distractions from personal phone calls, text messages, emails, websites and social media usage.

Overusing smart phones at work may have a negative impact on your work; it is best to just put down the device and concentrate on learning your job. In addition, don't post derogatory comments about the organization on social media sites. Even something as simple as posting, "Bored at orientation," as a Facebook status update will be taken negatively.

THE "ME" ATTITUDE

Employers often are discouraged when employees are worried more about, "What's in it for me?" rather than thinking about what they can provide for the organization. "Show us what you are worth first, and the rest will come after," shared an employer.

Don't push too hard and too quickly. Enthusiasm is necessary, but rewards and promotions may take time. Developing competency in a role may take longer than you expect, and you need to have patience.

EXPECTING IMMEDIATE FLEXIBILITY

Don't expect or request flexible work hours in your first months on the job. Unless it was clearly defined in your job offer, flexibility is usually an earned perk and shouldn't be anticipated by a new employee. First, you need to learn about the company and gain insight by spending time in the office or field with coworkers and managers during regular work hours.

Employees are given autonomy once they've had time to understand the organization, can be a good representative of the company and function independently. Don't assume you will receive the same privileges as more tenured employees.

WASTING TIME

Managers are irritated when employees finish their assignments and then just sit around wasting time, waiting to be given something else to do.

Managers often comment it is nice to see a new employee willing to come to work early (without being asked) and stay a little later to finish a job or assist a colleague with a project.

Excessive visiting is also a major time waster that gets noticed. Of course, you want to be friendly and get to know your coworkers, but limit conversations during the workday. Take advantage of breaks, lunchtime and after work socials to talk with your fellow employees.

BEING A KNOW-IT-ALL

Don't assume you know everything about the company and tell your colleagues, "You should do this..." in your first few weeks on the job. No matter how much you do know, you need to take time to learn the organization and culture. Don't immediately start judging and offering solutions before you understand the company insight behind the product or service. As employers have said, "You simply don't know what it is that you don't know," and, "Don't try to be a hero out of the gate."

Everyone faces challenges they are unable to handle on their own. Knowing when to ask for help is imperative. Promptly seek assistance from your manager or the appropriate person if you need help, but come prepared with research and suggestions.

Expect some criticism; your manager's job is to help you become a better employee by giving you constructive feedback. Take their criticism in stride and address any issues brought forward rather than being confrontational or challenging their suggestions.

Avoiding these pet peeves will help you begin your career with a company on a positive note. Be engaged – commit yourself to learning all you can about the organization and your position in order to take a big step towards your future success.

Fueling Creativity ... and the beat goes on.

Hello, Seedstock EDGE readers!

I'm Stephen F. Weintraut II, your new National Swine Registry (NSR) Director of Marketing & Communications. To everyone who I have not had the privilege of meeting/talking to before, I'd like to say, "Nice to meet you." To everyone who already knows me, you may be thinking, "What were they thinking? Hide the pets! Run for the hills!" Either way, you are taking the time to read this, so I say, "Thank you."

At the end of July, I was promoted from Creative & Web Development Director to Director of Marketing & Communications. This happened because, as many of you already know, Katie Maupin, the former director, accepted a new position with the Boone County, Indiana, Extension Office and left after the World Pork Expo. I would like to wish Katie good luck and future success in her new job and congratulate her on getting married, in July, to Kent Miller.

Luckily, the remaining staff of Ann Fry, intern Rachel Dotson and me continued the production of the Seedstock EDGE without missing a beat. This was possible due to the M&C department being the well-oiled machine it is. Also, Ann went from being the Ad Coordinator/Assistant Editor to Managing Editor.

Along with these department position changes, we are looking to hire a Social Media Coordinator/Assistant Editor to fill the empty position on our team. This person will be focused on the NSR's social media presence, taking the lead on coordinating and producing video for the NSR and helping with editorial duties for Seedstock EDGE.

As I write this editorial, I realize this is the first time I have had to write anything beyond the occasional story title, advertising headline or misspelled email in my 13 years at the NSR. No pressure! So I have to ask myself the question,

Do I:

1. Write something similar to previous editorials?
2. Try to win everybody over with humor?
3. Try to impart marketing and design tips to my readers?
4. Run screaming from the building in my boxers like Will Ferrell from Talladega Nights: The Ballad of Ricky Bobby, screaming, "Help me Tom Cruise?"

Even though the most likely scenario was the last one, I decided to just introduce myself and let everyone know about the changes to our department. Most of all, I would like to assure my readers that the M&C staff will do our best to continue to make the Seedstock EDGE the premier purebred swine publication it is now and continue to strive to make it even better in the future.

As always, thanks you for your support and don't hesitate to contact Ann or me with any ideas or feedback.

Get Ready Now for FDA's New Antibiotic Use Rules on Jan. 1, 2017

By Mike King :: Science Communications Director, National Pork Board

With the end of the year nearing, all pork producers, including showpig exhibitors, need to be sure they've checked the boxes to be fully compliant with the Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) new antibiotic regulations that will take effect Jan. 1, 2017. To help be prepared, the Pork Checkoff offers a host of online resources through its Antibiotic Resource Center at www.pork.org/antibiotics.

"For some producers, preparing for the new regulations may mean locking down their veterinary relationship or contacting their feed supplier to prevent any feed delivery issues next January," said Dave Pyburn, vice president of science and technology for the Pork Checkoff. "Everyone may be at a different place as far as preparedness goes, but time is getting close to get the remaining things done."

The Antibiotics Resource Center includes the FDA's frequently asked questions, Pyburn noted. "This is a good place to visit if producers have specific questions about different issues and scenarios related to the new regulations," he said. "These are continually updated and expanded as new information is available."

For producers who may not have a veterinary relationship already established, an online locator tool will be added to the Antibiotics Resource Center, in November, to provide assistance. "In the interim, I'd suggest pork producers ask for referrals from neighbors with pigs or contact their state veterinarian office* for possible assistance," Pyburn said.

"With only months to go, we're urging all producers to go through the Pork Checkoff's checklist one more time to ensure everyone can answer 'Yes!' to the question 'Are you ready?'"

YOUR CHECKLIST FOR SUCCESS

Radio Ads to Help Build Awareness

The Pork Checkoff shares hundreds of news and feature stories throughout the year on your favorite radio stations. But, this fall, you may notice ads about the new antibiotics regulations will begin airing right after the national election, this November. These spots will complement the existing print and digital ads that have been part of the overall, "Don't Wait... Be Ready!" antibiotics awareness campaign that launched in November 2015.

"We don't often use paid radio or print advertising," said Cindy Cunningham, the Pork Checkoff's assistant vice president of communications. "But we think this is a good investment because of the unusually important nature of the antibiotics changes coming in 2017. This extra step will help ensure all producers know what's ahead and can take appropriate actions."

The radio spots will air on farm radio stations and will help spread the news about the new regulations and encourage producers to visit pork.org/antibiotics for more information.

Kylie Joy Hendress, 32, passed away on Aug. 11, 2016, due to complications during childbirth. She was the wife of Nick Hendress for almost six years and loving mother of her 4-year-old daughter and newborn. Born in Alexandria, Indiana, she is the daughter of Mark and Dena Hosier of Alexandria, and sister of Whitney (Hosier) Webb. Growing up, she competed on academic teams, enjoyed learning in school and was very active in 4-H, while showing livestock competitively all over Indiana with her family. She was a 10 year 4-H member. After being the Valedictorian of the Alexandria-Monroe High School class of 2002, she earned her bachelor of science degree from Butler University in business. Hendress was extremely compassionate and enjoyed helping other people in agriculture. She used her take-charge leadership skills and outgoing personality to run several national conferences for Agrability, where she helped farmers who had been disabled due to medical conditions or injuries get back to farming. She knew every farmer she worked with by name, and through this program, she greatly helped and touched the lives of countless farmers across the country. One farmer she helped, in particular, was her father who had been injured in a farming accident. She helped him in any way she could, especially selling showpigs every spring alongside her sister. Additionally, Hendress used her passion and business skills to initiate the Indiana Landrace Association, to help young 4-H members show Landrace swine. Hendress enjoyed animals, working in her garden, and most of all, spending time with her family. Hendress' pride and joy was her 4-year-old daughter, Kenzie, and spent every minute possible with her.

On Sept. 25, 2010, at the Jasper County 4-H Fairgrounds, she married Nicholas P. "Nick" Hendress. He survives.

Surviving are husband, Nicholas P. "Nick" Hendress of Brookston; daughters, Kenzie R. and Josslyn G. Hendress of Brookston; parents, Mark A. and Dena L. Kylie was preceded in death by maternal grandmother, Joyzella Hosier; uncles, Kevin Hosier and Terry Street; paternal grandfather-in-law, Wayne Fisher; and paternal step grandfather-in-law, Dick "Bill R." Tiede.

Visitation was held Aug. 15 and 16, in Reynolds, Indiana. Celebration of Life Service was held in Reynolds on Aug. 16. Burial followed at the Chalmers Cemetery in rural Chalmers.

Helping others SUCCEED

By Rachel Dotson

With the showing component of livestock production, it is easy to get swept away in the competitive atmosphere and the hunger to win. But, the true industry leaders are those whose goal is to sell a show barrow or gilt to a 4-H or FFA member and hope it has some form of positive impact. Andy Forehand and his family's operation, Newcastle Genetics, has fit this mold since 1995, when the family moved from Texas to Oklahoma and started raising pigs.

NEWCASTLE

DEFINITION

Long before Newcastle Genetics took roots in the red dirt soil of Elgin, Oklahoma, Andy grew up on a ranch in New Mexico, an area surrounded by cattlemen. However, Andy found enjoyment and passion within the swine industry and showing pigs. Currently, this 125-sow operation has produced winning barrows and well-known crossbred boars such as Super Monster and Outta Hand. Newcastle Genetics presently has seven boars on hand they use and also sell semen on.

"We are a confinement operation and for the most part we farrow around 15 to 20 sows per month. In August we will have farrowed about 40 sows. We don't farrow in May and June and use those two months to take a break," Andy laughs.

If you ask Andy how the operation, functions, he'll laugh and say his son, Taylor, does all the work, and he just watches. As an operation that farrows 10 months out of the year, it is all hands on deck for the family members. Each member plays an important role with Newcastle Genetics. Andy takes responsibility for the breeding and looks after the sows, while Taylor is in charge of the finishing hogs, nursery as well as maintenance and marketing. The farrowing sector of the operation is maintained by Andy's wife, Zoe, and their daughter, Emily. Their son, Ory, helps on the family operation and can be seen in the show ring exhibiting pigs from Newcastle Genetics. Ory had the Reserve Champion Duroc Barrow at the 2015 Tulsa State Fair.

As a total confinement operation, structure and skeletal correctness are held to a high standard when gilts are being selected to be part of the breeding program at Newcastle Genetics.

"Of course we want to produce hogs that are really well balanced with a lot of eye appeal; it still takes a pretty one to win," Andy says. "We want to produce a hog that is sound, functional and worthy of being exhibited. We want kids to come here and get an animal that is of some value to them, and one they can actually show and be successful."

Andy believes that over the years they have been able to find the right balance of maintaining correct skeletal design, while adding enough muscle shape to be competitive in the show ring. He says they aren't necessarily breeding hogs to have the most wow factor; they breed hogs to make good hogs.

"In the years I have been here helping my dad raise pigs, obviously trends are always changing, but to me there are two that never go out of style, which are balance and soundness," Taylor says. "If you can get hogs that are very sound and proportional in how they are put together, then it makes things pretty easy to have success down the road."

Once it is time to sell the pigs, Taylor utilizes a variety of platforms to market showpigs or breeding gilts to customers.

"We do a bit of everything. We try to sell off the farm, through online sales, and we hit up some live sales too," Taylor says. "This allows us to get them out in front of a different audience or group of people and build relationships."

If there are any challenges Taylor faces with his responsibility of marketing, it is making sure they have the right type of pigs available at the right time for certain customers to purchase.

"We have different groups of hogs targeting different shows. When we try to sell hogs for early spring, or ones that were born in December or January, we don't have a very big market for those down here," Taylor says. "So most of those pigs that time of year we have to picture and sell in online sales, and try to establish contacts with people 15 hours away from us."

Currently, Taylor is working on selling Newcastle's fall pig crop, which will mainly go to Texas and Oklahoma.

"It's a challenge, I guess, to be able to sell pigs across the country but it allows you to have more contacts that way," Taylor says.

As Taylor concentrates on overcoming barriers such as distance when building strong clientele relationships, Andy finds challenges in hiring help to assist on the operation.

"For the most part, our family is confined to the farm all the time. It is very difficult to find people to help anymore, especially down here where this is more cattle and farming area," Andy says.

Taylor Fort drives their class winner at the 2014 Summer Type Conference. A Cut Above purchased the boar for $60,000.

FEATURE

With a family-run operation, Andy hopes his kids learn good work ethic through the challenges that can be faced when raising livestock, whether it's staying productive during the Oklahoma summer months when temperatures reach more than 100 degrees or working through times of difficulty.

"You can get a bout of PRRS or disease that goes through your herd; it's difficult on the hogs, difficult on the people and difficult financially. You have to be able to overcome it and work through it," Andy says. "I always tell my kids if you continue to work hard and overcome adversity you will always have a place, there will be something for you to do."

But, the positive times outweigh the negatives for Andy and his family, and Andy's favorite part of running Newcastle Genetics is his time spent on the operation with his wife and kids.

"This is where Taylor and I differ. I love the days of working on the farm. I enjoy breeding the sows and the genetics side of it," Andy says. "I went to graduate school and actually studied beef cattle breeding genetics. I enjoy breeding livestock period, no matter what kind it is. The effort it takes to try to make them better and improve your own herd to make progress is the part I enjoy."

Taylor enjoys the networking side of being involved in the show industry and building relationships with people and customers.

"Being able to see these pigs at eight or nine weeks old, then to see the transformation of those pigs and to see how kids work with the hogs are the things I always look back on," Taylor says.

One thing this father and son do

Ory Forehand carries on the Forehand passion for the livestock industry and 4-H.

"Being able to see these pigs at eight or nine weeks old, then to see the transformation of those pigs and to see how those kids work with those hogs are the things I always look back on." — Taylor Fort agree on is the person who has had a big influence on them in the industry – Jerry McLemore. McLemore is someone Andy noticed always produces hogs that bred on, which Andy made sure to emulate in his own breeding program.

"I would have to agree with my dad quite a bit. I guess one of the things I have learned from Jerry, and a lot of people would agree with me on this, Jerry doesn't sugar coat anything," Taylor says. "He will tell you exactly what he thinks about your hogs or his hogs. He isn't trying to offend you; he is just very honest in his opinion.

If you are trying to make your hogs better, you need that honesty."

As Newcastle Genetics looks toward the future, Andy and Taylor hope to stabilize around their current number of sows and continue to improve and focus more on their purebred sows. While Andy dedicates his time to the operation, he also buys and sells stocker and feeder cattle, which keeps him busy, at times. He has handed the operation reigns over to Taylor, who recently graduated from Texas Tech University. Andy continues to support his son, Taylor, as he carries on the integrity of Newcastle Genetics.

"The reason we are in business and the business we are in is because we have customers. We try to produce a product that will be successful for our customers, whether it's with breeding animals or show animals," Andy says. "We want them to have success."

Atomic was raised by Newcastle Genetics and shown at the 2014 Summer Type Conference. A Cut About purchased the boar for $60,000.

FIELD STAFF INTERN Jackson Johnson, Purdue University

Serving as this year's NSR Field Staff Intern has been a true privilege. I have enjoyed every single moment of it. It has been a great experience to have and has helped me in a variety of ways. It has provided me with more connections and allowed me to talk to a plethora of breeders in our industry who have shared their insight on breeding hogs and more importantly life. This has been an experience I will never forget, and I want to thank everyone who accepted me onto their farm and treated me as one of their own.

For more information, contact Brian Arnold, V.P. of Member Outreach & Youth Development, at arnold@nationalswine.com.

MARKETING & COMMUNICATIONS INTERN Rachel Dotson, University of Missouri

The Marketing and Communications internship program truly exemplifies the whole purpose of an internship, which is to explore a career interest, develop skills and gain experience. You have the opportunity to spend your summer enhancing your writing and design portfolio. Your skills are certainly put to the test with multiple feature writing, advertisement design work as well as capturing those perfect moments in the show ring through photography. This internship program and the NSR staff has provided me with the necessary tools as I venture down the path of pursuing my future career and allowed me to grow professionally.

For more information, contact Stephen Weintraut, Director of Marketing & Communications, at steve@nationalswine.com.

NJSA INTERN Amy Loschen, University of Illinois

As the NJSA intern, I have enjoyed helping plan and execute the World Pork Expo and the National Junior Summer Spectacular, as well as meet many others involved in the swine industry. Working with the exhibitors and playing a very small role in some of the biggest events these youth look forward to each summer has been so rewarding. For these reasons, along with many others, I am very grateful to have had the opportunity to intern with the NJSA. # RAISED ON A FARM

By Ann Fry

ON JULY 4, 2016, FAMILIES ACROSS THE COUNTRY WERE MAKING THEIR WAY TO THE KENTUCKY EXPOSITION CENTER IN LOUISVILLE FOR THE NATIONAL JUNIOR SUMMER SPECTACULAR (NJSS) AND SUMMER TYPE CONFERENCE (STC). NOT TOO MANY YEARS AGO, THE MURPHY FAMILY FROM NEW PARIS, OHIO, WOULD HAVE BEEN AMONG THEM. THIS YEAR, THEY FOUND THEMSELVES IN A DIFFERENT ARENA. INSTEAD OF SHOWING HOGS ON THE GREEN SHAVINGS, MARK MURPHY WAS WATCHING HIS SON, CLAYTON, COMPETE IN SALEM, OREGON, AT THE 2016 U.S. OLYMPIC TRACK & FIELD TRIALS.

Before he began his running career, Clayton developed his competitive spirit showing hogs. He showed Durocs at the Darke County Fair, Ohio State Fair and national shows, including the STC and NJSS. One of the things he enjoyed most about the show ring was the competition.

“Competition is always great in the show ring, no matter where you are showing, whether it be the county fair, state fair or national shows. That feeling when the judge holds up number one to you or you are handed the purple banner is a great feeling and shows that hard work pays off,” he says.

When Clayton got to junior high, he started running cross country with his friends. They thought it would be fun and easy. Clayton says, it turned out to be fun, but not all that easy. That’s where his farm background kicked in.

“I had to get up each morning to complete chores, feed pigs, clean pens or mow the yard. They were simple chores, but I was expected to complete them before my parents returned from work,” Clayton says. “I think that sort of responsibility and learning to work hard on the farm translates to being successful in running.”

Clayton found he had to have the same drive to succeed on the track field as he did in the hog show ring. In high school, he joined the track team. He spent hours doing extra exercises and work outs on his own. He pushed himself to get better and better to reach the next level of achievement.

His hard work earned him a scholarship to the University of Akron to study engineering and run on the track team. After several NCAA champion titles, he forfeited his NCAA eligibility to turn pro. This summer, he competed in the 800-meter dash at the U.S. Olympic Track & Field Trials.

In order to compete in the Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Clayton had to be one of the top three runners with a time of 1:46.00 or less. When the dust settled at the trials in Oregon, Clayton had a time of 1:44.76, making him the winner and an Olympic qualifier.

“My favorite part is the opportunity to represent the U.S. in the ultimate competition,” Clayton says. “To be able to wear the USA jersey and the Red, White and Blue is an honor, and I am super excited about it.”

On August 15, Clayton stepped onto the track in Rio wearing red, white and blue. After running the two 400 meter laps of the track, he found only two other men ahead of him. His running time of 1:42.93 earned him a bronze medal at the 2016 Olympic Games. That is the first medal the U.S. has earned in the men’s 800 meter since 1992. Clayton’s 800 meter time is also the third-fastest time in American history.

To some, running in the Olympics and showing pigs would have nothing to do with one another. But for Clayton, they aren’t really all that different.

“You spend so much time preparing your pig for the show, for that one opportunity to show off all your hard work in the show ring. I think running is similar to the show ring – you have one opportunity to really show off your hard work,” he says. “You get one chance on the track to really compete,

Breed Standards

Many exhibitors have a checklist of items that need to be completed before heading to a hog show. Showbox packed – check; trailer cleaned – check; health papers and blood work done – check. Before loading hogs for a pedigreed show, it is also important to make sure they meet the respective breed eligibility requirements. Breeders also need to be sure the requirements are met before registering and selling a purebred animal. The breed standards and eligibility requirements for National Swine Registry (NSR) hogs are outlined here as a reference.

2. Duroc boars and gilts intended for breeding:
  - a. Must meet the above requirements (except item 1.i.), along with the following to be eligible for recording and exhibition in a breeding animal class:
    - i. The United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR) will allow Durocs to be recorded with less than 12 teats. However, to be exhibited at breeding stock shows, Durocs must possess six or more functional teats on each side of the underline. Pin teats and inverted nipples are not considered functional.
    - ii. A boar must not have a physical defect (including but not limited to an adhered or tied penis, limp penis, infantile penis and coiling of the penis in the diverticulum), which would hinder proper delivery of semen, and the boar must extend his penis without physical manipulation excluding the expression of the sheath fluid; if a boar cannot meet the above requirements, his pedigree will be canceled.

Hampshire Breed Eligibility Requirements

1. Hampshire barrows or gilts exhibited as market animals:
  - a. Must be black in color with a white belt starting on the front leg. The belt may partially or totally encircle the body. Animal is eligible if it has a black head and the body is totally white.
  - b. Must possess Hampshire breed character (ears must be erect and not rounded).
  - c. Must be ear notched within seven days of birth.
  - d. Must NOT have any white hair or indications of streaking on the forehead.
  - e. Must NOT have any red hair.
  - f. Must NOT have any evidence of an extra dewclaw.
  - g. Must be stress negative.
  - h. There are no underline requirements to exhibit Hampshire barrows or gilts as market animals.
2. Hampshire boars and gilts intended for breeding:
  - a. Must meet the above requirements (except item 1.a.), along with the following to be eligible for recording and exhibition in a breeding animal class:
    - i. Black in color with a white belt totally encircling the body, including both front legs and feet.
    - ii. Animal can have white on its nose as long as the white does not break the rim of the nose, and when its mouth is closed, the white under the chin can NOT exceed what a U.S. minted quarter will cover.
    - iii. White is allowed on the rear legs as long as it does NOT extend above the tuber calis bone (knob of the hock).
    - iv. Hampshire swine classified as off-belts may be used for breeding purposes, with offspring eligible for registration with the NSR. Off-belts will continue to be eligible to be shown in market hog classes, but will not be eligible for exhibition in breeding swine shows. This policy is retroactive and will allow litters to be registered that were not eligible previously, due to the Hampshire Swine Registry off-belt requirements.
    - v. Hampshire breeding animals may be recorded with less than 12 teats. However, to be exhibited at breeding stock shows, Hampshires must possess six or more functional teats on each side of the underline. Pin teats and inverted nipples are not considered functional.

- » All late entries will be charged double the regular entry fees. All entry fees are non-refundable.
- » The NSR reserves the right to close entries due to pen space limitations any time after the printed deadline.
- » All senior exhibitors must be active members of the NSR or must pay the $75 non-member exhibitor fee. An active senior member is age 22 and OVER, paid annual dues and recorded at least one litter in the 2016 fiscal year.
- » Participants age 21 and UNDER of age are required to pay a $15 junior participation fee.
- » All pedigrees for purebred breeding animal entries must be recorded by Nov. 4, 2016, or an additional rush fee will be charged.
- » Breeding hogs only: Berkshire, Chester, Poland and Spot breeding hog entries can be submitted through the ABA and CPS offices.

EXHIBITOR REQUIREMENTS

- » If an exhibitor has an NSR account that is past due, funds from the sale of their animals will be applied to their past-due account.
- » Only exhibitors consigning animals to the Fall Classic are allowed to bring additional animals onto the Stephens County Expo and Fair. Additional animals MUST abide by the same health requirements as Fall Classic entries.

ARRIVAL & DEPARTURE

- » All hogs must arrive on the grounds between 8 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 16, and 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 17.
- » All weanling pig entries must be checked in by 11 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 17.
- » Exhibitors transporting additional animals (deliveries/parking lot sales) will be required to obtain official "Sale Permit" from the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture staff when entering the Stephens County Expo and Fair.
- » Before leaving the Stephens County Expo and Fair, this permit must be returned to agents of the Oklahoma Department of Agriculture, with a detailed buyers list documenting the destination of each animal (including pre-purchased deliveries, parking lot sales and sifted weanling pigs).

DNA STRESS STATEMENT

- » No known stress positive or stress carrier Duroc, Hampshire, Landrace or Yorkshire animals will be allowed to be exhibited or sold at any NSR-sponsored event.
- » Such warranty is, however, solely that of the seller and not that of the American Landrace Association (ALA), American Yorkshire Club (AYC), Hampshire Swine Registry (HSR) or the United Duroc Swine Registry (UDSR).

- » The ALA, AYC, HSR and UDSR assume no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.

- » Cost associated with re-test by the seller is at the seller's expense. There will be no refund of NSR commission from stress-carrier animals.

BREEDING ANIMAL SALE

- » A minimum of 60% of the number of each sex (boars and gilts) shown will be selected for the sale. These animals will be selected with no set number selling from any single class. Animals not selected for the sale can be consigned to the sale for an additional fee of $20 per head; this must be done by the conclusion of the respective breed show. If the animal sells, the fee will be applied toward the sale commission. If the animal does not sell, the fee is forfeited.
- » All animals selected and cataloged for the sale MUST go through the auction. Sale commission will be 15% for all animals. If an animal that is selected and cataloged for sale does not go through the sale ring, the exhibitor will be banned from exhibiting at NSR events for one year and will be charged 15% of the average selling price of their respective breed sale. This amount must be paid before reinstatement will be allowed. The exception to this rule will be if an animal has become injured or ill and is inspected by an NSR staff member prior to the sale.
- » The NSR acts only as the agent between buyer and seller. If proper payment is made by the buyer in a timely manner, the NSR will make settlement with the seller in approximately 30 days after the sale.

PUREBRED ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

- » By entering any purebred hog (breeding or weanling) in the Fall Classic, the owner warrants that the hog meets specific breed requirements.
- » Such warranty, however, is solely that of the seller and not that of the HSR, ALA, AYC and UDSR and the HSR, ALA, AYC and UDSR assumes no responsibility or liability in connection with such warranty by the seller.
- » For information on NSR breed eligibility requirements, please visit http://nationalswine.com/pedigree\_services/breed\_eligibility.php
- » If any Hampshire, Landrace or Yorkshire animal sold at the Fall Classic is found to be a carrier of the color gene after being tested through the procedures approved by the HSR, ALA and AYC, the seller agrees that he/she will promptly refund the full purchase price to the buyer. There will be no refund of NSR commission from animals that are carriers of the color gene.

Transfer the PEDIGREE!

A pedigree is more than a piece of paper – it's your word. It's a bond that says your breeding stock is a superior product, backed by quality genetics and predictable performance. So, after a sale, ensure that you continue that bond with your customers. Transfer your pedigrees in a timely manner. Not only does it record a history of official ownership, but it guarantees customer satisfaction and just might set the tone for repeat business.

For any questions, please call NSR at 765.463.3594 or visit nationalswine.com.

He is a super sound, long striding hog that is 1/4 Hamp and has three shots of John's Durocs in him along with Hillbilly Bone and Killer Instinct. He eats feed in big mouthfuls. We are confident this boar will make a big impact here as we stay hungry to make them better!

We were at Hilman Schroeder's farm in early July looking for a Yorkshire boar we felt could help make better Yorkshire hogs. By that, we think Yorkshires should A. Grow fast B. Be structurally correct C. Have muscle D. Have a hip structure that will make females who will farrow large litters of pigs unassisted and raise them. After seeing Firehouse, we felt he fits that perfectly. This guy has tremendous feet on both ends and stands on them the way he should, not down on his pasterns like too many are today. Firehouse has depth of body that naturally follows his rib structure and flows to the rear hip which is made for making Yorkshire females who will lay down and have pigs and raise them. Yorkshires can be whatever we want them to be, but first and foremost, we think Yorkshires should be sows. Maybe the most interesting part in this pedigree is the sow side. For those who remember, these boars surfaced in this guy's pedigree: The Body, Triple Play, King David, Ulysses, Crank High, Frontier, Jens and Champion Turk. If making Yorkshire females is your priority, give us a call and book your Firehouse and Extant semen now.

HOT OFF THE PRESS

(ALL SHOOK UP X CHILI PEPPER)

Bred By: Levi Canales

Need an Iconic outcross? We found some. Wow is the first word you think of when you analyze this dude. Tall fronted and extended ahead of his blade while having the extra jaw and stoutness of skull to be a breeding hog. He is huge chested and monster bladed with rib to burn. This rascal is massive topped and huge from behind, but like all three of the Canales boars, they separate themselves from the crowd by how they come and go so perfectly square with perfect foot and hock placement. Hot Off The Press is sure to be a huge hit.

402-366-6500

A firm built around family with a collective passion to make your vision a reality

Uncharted is the more moderate version of this pair of littermates. Boy is he exciting. Just like his brother, he is tall fronted and has that extra extension up front but still has the stoutness of skeleton. He's opened up and wide chested while being square in his knee and bold in his blade. He's great footed with a thick and even toe spread and can flat out motor on the drive. He is huge out of his upper hip and is extremely square to the ground. Making red barrows will be easy with this guy as he puts together the power and stoutness needed to win. Let's make red hogs even better with something new and different...something Uncharted!

Amped Up

Amped Up is the $45,000 Champion Yorkshire boar from the 2016 Summer Type Conference. He is not only a genetic powerhouse, but he beat out all other Yorkshire boars with ease at this year's power packed show.

Being bred by Stohlquist he is a barrow sire supreme, but with all the Ricker blood running through his veins he will sire gilts that can not only win at the highest of levels but move any herd forward. If you like them cool looking, square, sound, powerful, and moderate Amped Up is a must use boar. Owned with Thompson Brothers Genetics.

Call Thompson Brothers for semen as he is one very popular boar. 740-808-1041

The Natural

The Natural is a boar we purchased from Stewart Durocs. To say we like using and believe in Stewart Durocs would be an understatement. I do not know of a breeding firm that has produced more Duroc boars that breed on and have made an impact on the Duroc barrow industry or the Duroc gilt industry than Stewart Durocs. The Natural got his name simply because he came right off the slatted flooring on regular feed and looks like he can win any barrow show in the country. This guy is moderate, has awesome square muscle, sound, and one cool looking boar that maintains body and rib.

You CAN have pretty, powerful, and soundness in one package and The Natural has that. If you are serious about making your Duroc barrows better The Natural is your man. He is proof great ones don't need all the fluff and fit. I have him housed at RAR Genetics.

Give the Abbas guys a call at RAR for your semen needs. 319-269-0097 or 319-239-7282

ALMOST THERE

Bone Buzz x Power Drive

Congratulations to Gavin Sinclair for having the Top-Selling Yorkshire Gilt at the 2016 STC.

Thank you, Hi Point Genetics, for their $30,000 off-the-farm purchase. I believe ALMOST THERE has as much change to offer as we have seen, this summer. As you can see, he is extended through his head and neck. He has a great stride out of his hip and hind leg. His granddam is the dam of Journey at Hi Point and Altitude at A Cut Above Sires. We have retained four littermate gilts.

SIMPLE COUNT SPERM KIT™

The fast and easy way to check your sperm count.

You have done your homework. You know exactly when to breed your elite sows. You have chosen the perfect sires. You are spending a considerable amount of money on semen to make that next generation of winners. There is one crucial step you need to take before inseminating those sows.

Check that semen.

CERDOS LLC

Darin Kuhlow • 608.436.0217 • darin@cerdosllc.com • cerdosllc.com/products

fertimaxx™

1 - 7 Day Boar Semen Extender

FertiMaxx™ extender was developed and designed to improve the number of fertile sperm cells in a dose of semen, allowing for semen to be processed with fewer cells per dose while still achieving maximum fertility. While other boar semen extenders utilize compounds which inhibit the sperm cell's ability to capacitate, FertiMaxx™ was designed to reduce, replace or eliminate those compounds which inhibit capacitation. The result is that a higher percentage of sperm cells in a dose of semen have the ability to fertilize.

FertiMaxx™ is a new-generation extender, providing seven to eight day fertile storage life, advanced cold-shock protection, and improved post-insemination capacitation all in a completely non-foaming, easily-dissolved formula. This allows producers to successfully inseminate sows with less sperm cells while achieving maximum fertility and getting the most use from their very best genetics.

Achieve maximum fertility.

WE ARE INCREDIBLY EXCITED to have the opportunity to purchase Top Cut Genetics. Top Cut has been a leader among the boar studs year after year, and we plan to continue this tradition. We will continue the Top Cut way of giving our customer's a brand of quality product.

Morgan and I are very dedicated and passionate about our showpig operation, as well as the showpig industry, and we look forward to carrying the same passion to the Top Cut brand. We will continue to offer a dependable product on the boars that are currently in the stud, along with the new boars we have put together. We are excited about the new boar purchases we have made.

We will be operating Top Cut at the Farmland facility through the fall breeding season. Just like always, Tim Isler will still be running the lab, as well as Renee in the office. We are currently in the process of building a new boar facility at our Tipton, Ind., farm. Once the fall breeding season slows down, and the facility is up and running, we will move the boars to the new facility.

As there are always questions with change, please do not hesitate to call with any questions or concerns.

1996

RW Genetics is founded with Rick Whitman as the RWG herdsman, by his sister, Connie Rule, and her husband, Spence Rule, in Palmyra, Nebraska. The herd begins with 47 ISO weaned Duroc gilts from Guy Jackson along with 84 breeding-age Hampshire gilts from John Penner. Penner and Jackson were selected by RWG because of their reputation for superior herd health along with the ability of putting together females that could serve as a foundation for any herd.

1997

83/84 of the purchased Hampshire gilts make it through the farrowing barn allowing RWG to begin selling commercial terminal boars.

1998

At the WPX, RWG exhibits the world record setting Duroc gilt that is sold for $14,200 and is derived from 44-2, one of the 47 Duroc gilts purchased from Guy Jackson. The following year, the record-setting gilt then produces the $31,000 Duroc boar that is sold to SGI.

1999

As hog prices plunge to $8/cwt, RWG's commercial boar clientele begins to dwindle. The bankers advise Spence and Connie to get out of the commercial boar industry, so the entire RWG operation is sold to Rick Whitman at an extremely discounted price.

MAGIC 8 BALL

2000

RWG continues to sell commercial terminal boars. During the peak of the commercial boar industry RW Genetics sells close to 350 boars a year.

ACCELERATOR

"RWG Accelerator did a heck of a job for us! Ideal feet and legs. The real value for our program is in his daughters!"
- Randy Shipley

Reflecting on the past...

"The Prophet raised our game in the Yorkshire breed to a new level. He is a proven sire of Yorkshires that have won huge banners including the NJSS Grand Overall Barrow, WPX Grand Overall Barrow, WPX Reserve Grand Overall Gilt, and the OYE Grand Overall Gilt." – Ted Laird

With the downturn in commercial boar sales due to hog price declines the focus of RWG begins to shift from commercial boars to the budding showpig market.

TOTALLY JUICED

2002

Totally Juiced is sold at the WPX for $3,600 to SGI.

2005

Super 7 is purchased by PPG, which serves as a key addition to improving the RWG herd along with many herds throughout the country.

RWG Superman is born, and becomes a trendsetter in improving the hip, hind leg and distinct look of show pigs across the industry. In his lifetime, Superman sires more than a dozen herd boars for RWG and lays in a superior set of daughters, some of which are still in production.

“RWG Crazy Bone adds a tremendous amount of bone and muscle all in one shot. He is still one of the heaviest structured boars that I have ever seen. Crazy Bone sons have had a good run and are working well for our customers.” – Earl Cain

2009

Niki and Rick first meet and marry two years later, in the winter of 2011. RWG continues to excel in selling showpig boars including Super Freak, Problem Solver, Black Attack, Born Ready, Super Cool, Super Hot, Super Special, Square One, Skywalker, Wingman and Cover Shot.

Rylan Jordan sells the Record Setting Yorkshire Gilt at the CTBR Show in San Angelo for $26K (Vision x Goliath)

BREEDING PHILOSOPHY

“During my time at Waldo Farms I learned the quickest way to improve and reinforce the strength of the herd was to increase the number of times an elite sow would appear in a pedigree.” – Rick Whitman

2015

Construction at the Anderson Farm is completed.

The Prophet has a tremendous first season siring winners at the local, state, and national levels.

Lance Ryan breeds the world record-setting Duroc gilt that sells for $27K and is derived from Bold Ruler 12-7, which was sold to Lance by RWG as a bred female.

RWGENETICS.COM

Thank you, Spence and Connie Rule and Gerald and Clareta Royal, for their part in founding RW Genetics and laying the groundwork for the 20 years of success that RWG has experienced. A very special thank you to Max Waldo and John Penner for their mentoring over the years because it has greatly impacted the RWG program. Also thank you to Jeremy Lopez, Clint Halfmann, Russell Pedrett, Jarrod Hartman, Ismael Gross and Eric Castle for the work they put into making RW Genetics operational during their tenures. Thank you to Tommy Maddox for helping RW Genetics make the successful move to Texas by leasing RWG the Lometa facility. Thank you to all of the boar studs, families and exhibitors who have embraced our program and made investments in RWG breeding stock and showpigs. Finally, thank you, Pearl Whitman, for your guidance and support over the last 50 years because it has been instrumental in making RWG thrive.

Form to Function

Power of a feed bucket

by Chuck Olsen | Olsen Yorkshires

Body condition and fleshing ability of hogs is certainly important, but not rocket science. If it was, I for sure would not be the one asked to write about it. Please realize, my thoughts and statements reflect 40 plus years of mostly observed education. However, I was taught in my college human sociology class about fecundity. My professor lectured one day (and it was on his test) that females with a slightly higher degree of fat also tended to have a higher degree of fecundity. Now, for those who think fecundity sounds dirty, which I did at the time, it means the ability to produce offspring, especially in large numbers. If we want our sows and gilts to have high fecundity, then they need some flesh, cover, or simply put, fat on them to achieve high reproductive efficiency. Now, please do not read into this statement and think I believe we need overly fat gilts and sows. We just need some fat on them, because without any fat, they will go into anestrus.

Let's back up a bit with regard to developing replacement gilts to be bred. Not much is discussed these days about flushing gilts prior to breeding, resulting in larger litters. Quite frankly, not much needs to be said, except you should have your gilts gaining weight prior to and at breeding. After breeding, start decreasing feed slightly so your gilts are not too fleshy at farrowing time. Ideally, your gilts should be on the slightly thin side at farrowing. Dystocia will be reduced, and gilts will recover and milk better if they are slightly thin and hungry after farrowing. It's really important to feed gilts through lactation so they have enough condition to show estrous and rebreed. Some extra-heavy milking gilts and sows with large litters are so skinny they do not cycle right after weaning and need to be on full feed to kick start their cycle again. That also happens with some beef cows and has led some cattlemen to select for cows more moderate in milking in order to get them to rebreed more readily. I believe we hogmen could do better by adopting some of that moderate milking philosophy. Have you ever noticed the fattest pigs weaned don't start on feed as quickly as the average-fleshed, hungry pigs? Maybe too much is made of 21-day litter weights rather than rebreeding interval and longevity of the udder?

Even though I believe skeletal correctness is the most important genetic trait influencing longevity, the degree of flesh or fat is the most important thing hogmen can control that impacts longevity. Females that are too fat will have a shorter productive life, while females that are too skinny might live longer, but will have less reproductive efficiency. Breaking news (not): balance is best.

So far, my comments on body condition have solely related to the reproductive aspect. Now, what about the showpig side? Quite frankly, leanness or fat, genetically, has little to do with the showpig world today. Over the years, genetically, we've changed fat on the hog rapidly because it's one of the highly heritable traits. Several years ago, when the Pietrain breed was introduced to the showpig world, it was common to have pigs shown with fat barely measurable. I remember being asked to judge a major market hog show and was told to try to put a stop to the madness of these .2 - .4 backfat hogs. I wasn't able to stop that trend then, but now we desire hogs neither too fat or too lean.

Selecting a prospect pig for the correct amount of flesh at it's desired show weight is more genetic selection than phenotypic. You need to study fleshing tendencies of the genetic lines represented. If you do it by phenotype alone, make sure the pig is heavy structured and has plenty of width. You will also need lots of luck. As long as you start with a prospect pig that has a heavy, wide enough skeleton with a good appetite, you, as a feeder, should be able to control the flesh and condition desired. In summary, your feed bucket, which can control the fat or lean body condition, has a great deal to do with your success not only in the show ring, but in your sow herd.
